Local Street Railway Men Take No Action on Order of President Mahon

Strike Situation Remains Unchanged While Executive Board Members Confer With International Leader in Boston—Definite Stand May Be Made at Meeting of Lowell Carmen Tonight—Big Increase in Number of Jitneys

Local Bay State street railway carmen took no action this morning on the order of Pres. W. D. Mahon of the Amalgamated association to return to their work. The Lowell union members met in the rooms in the tunnel building at 10 o'clock and one hour later the meeting had adjourned and the executive committee, headed by Pres. Thomas J. Powers, rushed from the hall to catch the 11.15 train for Boston to meet Pres. Mahon and the joint conference board.

On the way to the station Pres. Powers said: "There is nothing to give out regarding this morning's meeting. We took no action on Pres. Mahon's order to go back to work. The strike committee is going to meet him in conference early this afternoon and we may have some word to bring back to the local this evening. Another meeting probably will be held about 8 p. m."

As was predicted, Pres. Mahon came to Boston last night from the A. F. of L. convention at Atlantic City to personally supervise the situation. At a conference with the general conference board of the unions, Pres. Mahon gave orders countermanning the strike vote taken on Thursday by the various locals and instructed the carmen in Lowell, Lawrence and Woburn, who were already out, to return to their work.

"We have the machinery to take up the grievances," he said, "and if those now on strike return to work and those threatening to strike remain at their posts we will take them up, but it will be done in a legal manner and in accordance with the laws of the association. I told the board members that they were placing themselves and the international union in an embarrassing light by violating agreements and then asking somebody else to make agreements with us."

It was commonly believed this morning in Lowell that the meeting of Local 280 would result in definite action, but it did not, the men through their president declining to disclose their intentions. The officials of the Bay State had absolutely nothing to say and were in the dark as to the plans of the platform men.

Carless Sunday Probable
In the meantime Lowell is experiencing her sixth day without street car service and unless quick action emanates from the meeting this afternoon the pleasures of the week-end will be curtailed in an even greater degree than has been the case with business during the week. If tomorrow is a fair day the Bay State stands to lose a tremendous amount of revenue and local people in a majority of cases will be obliged to forego their recreation until another day. There is a possibility of settlement, however, tonight and car service may be resumed tomorrow.

A meeting of the committee on commercial affairs of the local board of trade was called yesterday afternoon at the suggestion of several downtown merchants to consider what the policy of the board should be concerning the strike situation, involving as it does considerable inconvenience to the public and injury to business. In view of the fact that full control of the policy of the Bay State Co. and full power to deal with the employees is vested in a board of public trustees and that there is a board of arbitration and conciliation empowered by the state to act in such situations, it was deemed inadvisable for the board of trade to inject itself into the controversy unless requested so to do by the interested parties.

Increase in Auto Traffic

Some idea of the tremendous increase in automobile traffic in the city during the present week may be gained from a tally kept late yesterday afternoon of motor driven vehicles passing the junction of Central and Merrimack sts. From 4.05 to 4.10 o'clock exactly 155 pleasure and business cars, some in the performance of litter traffic, passed either from Central into Merrimack streets or from Merrimack into Central. This is an average of 37 cars a minute, or one every one and six-tenths seconds. But for the slowing up on account of the corner the number would be greatly increased as long lines of machines stretched in every direction, although they were kept in constant motion by the traffic policeman.

Lawrence Men Still Out
LAWRENCE, June 21.—Pending the completion of the deliberations of the conference board of the employees of the Eastern Massachusetts (Bay State) Street Railway Co., there was no change today in the sympathetic strike of the local division and none is expected before tonight.

President George W. Miggins of the local union announced today that the business was not completed yesterday, owing to the lateness of the hour, and that the conference would be resumed in Boston today, the men being asked to hold themselves in readiness for a meeting which may be called for this evening.

STEAMER RUNS ASHORE IN FOG

The Northland Went Aground While Making For Buzzards Bay Today

Radio Message Says Passengers in No Danger—Captain Asks Assistance

NEW BEDFORD, June 21.—The steamer Northland from New York to Boston with passengers and freight, went aground in a fog early today while making for the Buzzards Bay entrance of the Cape Cod Canal.

A radio message from her commander, Captain Snow, said that the vessel was resting easily on West Island ledge, and that the passengers were in no danger. The captain asked that a boat be sent immediately to take off passengers as there was no immediate prospect of floating the steamer. Two holds were reported full of water. The Northland is owned by the Eastern Steamship Co., and plies regularly between New York and Boston.

On account of the thick fog, which made navigation in the bay very difficult, tugs sent from here were unable to reach the Northland at once. The spot where she struck is near the scene of the wreck of the steamer Sankaty three years ago. It is several miles inside the course usually followed in heading for the Cape Cod canal.

BOSTON, June 21.—The following radio message was received at naval communications office at 4.56 a. m. today:

"From S.S. Northland: Steamer ashore on West Island, Buzzards Bay at 2.50 a. m. Send immediate assistance and boat to remove passengers from New Bedford. No danger to passengers. Double bottom Nos. 2 and 3 full of water. No immediate prospect of floating ship. Thick fog now. Resting easy on West Island ledge. Star Buoy No. 2. Captain Snow."

A later message received at the office of the Eastern Steamship Co. said that all the 350 passengers on board the Northland had been taken off safely and carried to New Bedford. The transfer was made by tugs and small boats. A special train will bring the passengers to this city.

The message to the steamship company said the damage was confined to the outer hull of the Northland which has a double bottom and that the inner hull was not pierced by the ledge on which she struck. The ledge is near West Island, 14 miles from New Bedford.

Salvage operations were ordered at once and it was said that an effort would be made to haul the steamer into deep water today and bring her to this city. The fog which was heavy during the early morning, lifted somewhat later.

The Northland carried only a small amount of freight, according to officials here.

RE-ARRESTED BY STATE OFFICER

Lowell Man Is Charged With Breaking and Entering and Larceny

Fred H. Wolfe Is Wanted in New Hampshire—Requisition From Gov. Coolidge

Charged with breaking and entering the garage of the Souhegan Auto and Electric Co., of Milford, N. H., and stealing tires and tubes valued at $681 on the night of June 2, and also charged with being a fugitive from justice, Fred H. Wolfe, of this city, was arraigned before Judge Pickman in police court today. He pleaded not guilty on both complaints.

Edward R. Murrigh, a state police officer, presented a requisition to Judge Pickman from Governor Coolidge ordering Wolfe's arrest on the New Hampshire charge, and ordering that he be turned over to the New Hampshire police authorities, John T. O'Dowd, sheriff of Hillsboro county and John J. Monteth, chief of the Milford, N. H. police, who were present.

Wolfe's counsel, Edward J. Tierney, contended that Wolfe should be turned over to the Massachusetts officer and held by him until Wolfe should have an opportunity to take out a writ of habeas corpus to test the legality of the extradition. This was done, and after Wolfe had been discharged upon the charge of being a fugitive from justice at the request of Deputy Downey, he was immediately re-arrested by State Officer Murrigh on the governor's warrant and will be held in custody at the Lowell jail until Tuesday to allow him to take steps to fight the extradition proceedings.

Wolfe was arrested by the local police June 21 on the charge of being a fugitive from justice, and a continuance granted until today with bail set at $1495. In the meantime the New Hampshire authorities got in touch with Governor Coolidge, and secured the requisition for his arrest on the charge of breaking and entering and larceny.

According to the story of Sheriff O'Dowd and Chief of Police Monteth, Wolfe drove down to Milford on the night of June 2, shortly after midnight, picked open the garage door with a screw driver and stole 21 automobile tires and six tubes, which he loaded into his machine and covered with a strip of canvas.

A resident of Milford who saw the car leaving the garage became suspicious and took the number. The car was traced to Lowell, according to the sheriff's story, and when found still contained the canvas covering and the screw driver which Wolfe is said to have used to force open the door.

STRUCK AND RUN OVER BY AUTO

Samuel S. Young, aged 16 years, a resident of Dracut, was struck and run over by an automobile at the corner of Lawrence and Wamesit streets at 12.10 o'clock this afternoon. The ambulance was summoned and the injured man was taken to St. John's hospital, where it was found that he was suffering from numerous abrasions about the face and body. The name of the operator of the automobile could not be learned.

Germans Ask If Terms of Clemenceau's Note Are Part of Treaty

Ask Allies To Agree To Admit Germany to League and Limit Indemnity

Also Want Clause Demanding Surrender of Ex-Kaiser Stricken Out

(By the Associated Press)

While the trend of German sentiment is declared in advices reaching the peace conference to be continuing strongly in favor of signing the peace treaty, it is becoming apparent that the Germans do not intend to make their attitude officially known without an effort to obtain modifications in the terms. In the first place they want to know definitely what they are signing and have asked the peace conference if the terms of Premier Clemenceau's covering note as regards reparations and other phases of the treaty may be considered as part of the document itself and binding upon all parties.

Concessions Asked

In addition they are reported to have asked the conference if the allies would agree to admit Germany immediately to the League of Nations, consent to limit Germany's indemnity to 100,000,000,000 gold marks and strike out the requirement for the surrender of the former German emperor.

The German cabinet situation is still a mixed one. It is definitely known that the Scheidemann cabinet has resigned. Whether a successor to Herr Scheidemann has been chosen as yet seems doubtful, although the American press is confident that a new cabinet will be formed.

NO COTTON COMING HERE BY AIR

The proposed transportation of a bale of cotton from America, Ga., to this city by airplane as part of this city's Fourth of July celebration, has been indefinitely called off, according to notification received by Mayor Perry D. Thompson today from Lieut. L. H. Drennan of the U. S. air service. The cancellation comes as the result of the opposition of the director of the air service. No reason for the action is given. The director yesterday wired to the commanding officer at Southern Field, Ga., not to carry out his end of the flight. Lieut. Col. Drennan offers his co-operation to the mayor in endeavoring to have the project staged at a later date.

MERRIMACK RIVER FISH

Old-Timer Tells of Buying and Selling Salmon Caught in River Here

There are two very important matters in which people of the Merrimack River valley are concerned at the present time; the deepening and development of the channel from Lowell to the sea, and the rebuilding of the fishways in Lowell and Lawrence. There are those who think the latter proposition a minor one, while others argue that so far as reducing the high cost of living is concerned the restoration of the fishways, which would mean a return of the salmon that were so plentiful in days of yore, is almost as important as the development of the river for the purpose of allowing ships to come to Lowell, thus reducing the cost of freight transportation.

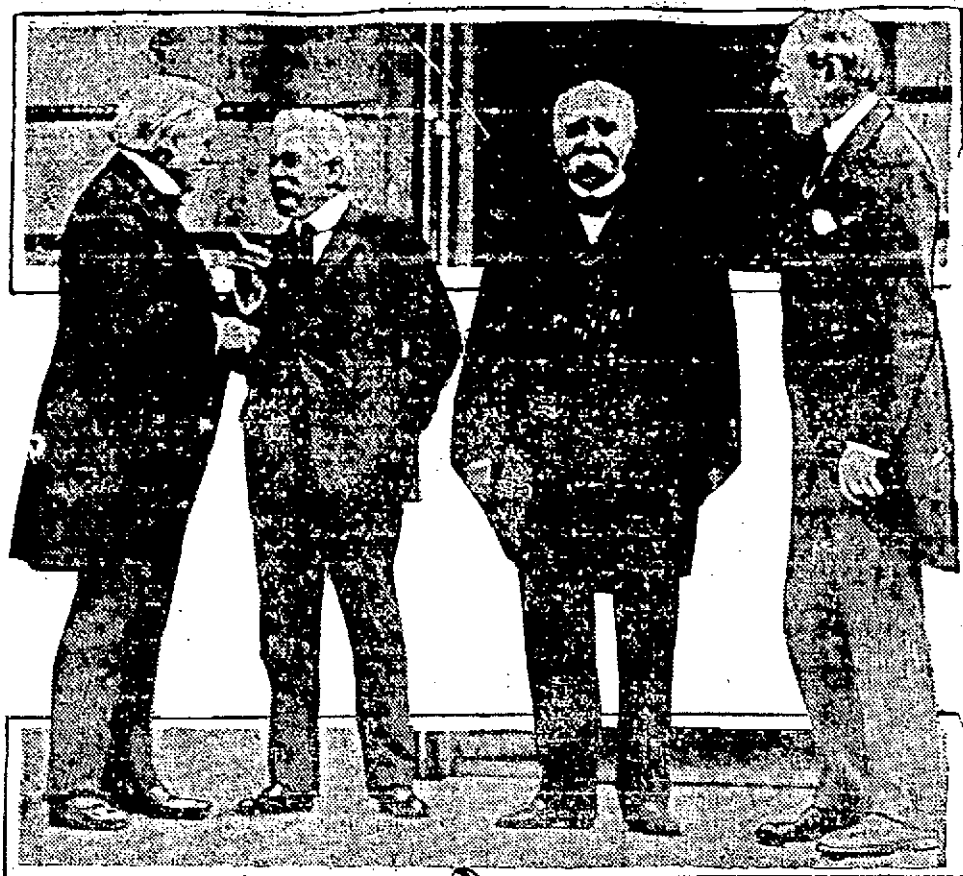

These two propositions were being discussed the other day when suddenly one of the parties to the controversy said: "I am very much interested in this fishway question and would like to see such inducements offered as would bring the salmon back, but I have never yet met anybody, and I know some pretty old residents, who ever caught any salmon or who ever saw any salmon taken from the Merrimack river. I must confess that I am more or less skeptical."

Simon H. Harris, president of the Lowell Fish and Game association, happened along about that time and overheard what the skeptical one had said. Mr. Harris is very much interested in the restoration of the fishways and has worked hard and earnestly to bring it about. He has appeared at legislative hearings and before the fish and game commission and he is credited with having been particularly instrumental in arousing interest in the proposition to the extent of bringing about the passage of the bill appropriating $15,000 for that purpose and the money is all ready so that the fish and game commission can and must get busy on the fishways at once.

To the skeptical one, Mr. Harris said: "If you come with me I will remove your skepticism and I assure you it will be a painless operation." Mr. Harris then escorted the man to Barlow's market in Merrimack square and introduced him to one William E. Sullivan who was handling some very fine looking fish in that well regulated market.

As a result of questions asked by Mr. Harris, Mr. Sullivan, who was connected with the Suffolk Fish market in Merrimack street years ago, told about buying salmon taken from the Merrimack river, and it was a mighty interesting story, too.

"I remember distinctly," said Mr. Sullivan, "the last salmon I bought and it was a beauty. I bought it from Orford R. Blood who was afterwards a member of the city council. He caught the salmon right at the foot of the falls. They used to be very plentiful and I bought and cut up hundreds of pounds of them. The boys used to do a good business on salmon in those days and they would sometimes make a big haul when the water was drawn off the canal nearest the dam. On several occasions when this happened it was found that the bottom of the canal was lined with salmon, but this never would have happened had the fishway been suitably built and properly located. The salmon taken in the canal and in the rocks had failed to negotiate the falls. The salmon business was quite brisk in those days and it was a great thing for the poor people. We bought them cheap and were able to sell them cheap and many, of course, caught their own salmon. There were plenty of lamprey eels in those days, too. The river was alive with them."

The man introduced to Mr. Sullivan by Mr. Harris, and who had admitted that he was more or less in doubt whether salmon had ever come here in sufficient numbers to figure as a food element, came away satisfied that the Merrimack river is really a salmon river and that the restoration of the fishways would eventually assist in reducing the high cost of living.

And just to show that all signs of doubt had been removed he immediately expressed his intention to become a member of the Lowell Fish and Game association, for he said he believed that association has been instrumental in bringing the fishway matter to a head and for the passage of the bills appropriating $15,000 for their reconstruction.

ARREST HONEY HAZZARD AND MISS PUFFER

CONCORD, N. H., June 21.—Plans for the wedding of Miss Mabel Puffer, wealthy society woman of Ayer, Mass., and Arthur "Honey" Hazzard, formerly of Lowell, Mass., were completely overthrown late yesterday afternoon when both of them were arrested by the police of Ayer on serious charges and spirited out of town, across the Massachusetts line, before they could recover their presence of mind long enough to demand extradition.

"Honey" had just breathed a sigh of relief over the fact that everything was ready for the wedding when the police arrested him in the lobby of the Phoenix hotel. Two minutes later they placed his intended white bride under arrest and in less than 15 minutes they were being swept toward Massachusetts in a high powered machine.

In Speechless
Hazzard was rendered speechless with surprise and fright. All he said was "What for?" and then when he was told that he was charged by the Ayer police with unlawful cohabitation in that town and that his sweetheart was to be arrested on the same charge he cried, "Don't arrest Mabel."

By that time, however, the police were banging at the door of Mabel's room. She opened the door and took her arrest very calmly. She dressed for the street and took her bag without uttering a word. As she was going down the stairs to the lobby she turned to the postman and said, "Truth will prevail." When she reached the lobby she walked toward Clerk Chase and said, "I wish to pay my bill." She paid her own bill, but not Arthur's.

The arrests were made by Sergeant Christopher T. Wallace of Concord for P. J. Beatty, chief of police of Ayer. In addition to the serious charge in which they are jointly charged the Massachusetts officials also had warrants issued by Judge Warren H. Atwood of the district court of Ayer, charging Hazzard with enticing Miss Puffer and one charging Miss Puffer with insanity.

Relatives Take Hand
The latter charge is the result of a prayer to the court by Henry Blood of Hollis and Mrs. Mary L. Goodwin of Swampscott. They are children of a dead half-sister of Miss Puffer. In addition to Sergeant Wallace and Chief Beatty, the party that took "Honey" and his Mabel away from here were Chief of Police B. G. Dowling of Groton, Mass., and John D. Carney, a Boston attorney who represented Mr. Blood and Mrs. Goodwin. After their arrest the couple were taken to the police station, which is nearly opposite the Phoenix. They were placed in Mr. Carney's machine just as the car was about to start Mrs. Beaton H. Roland of Burlington, Vt., sister of Hazzard, and his mother, Mary Hazzard of Ayer, came rushing out of the hotel shrieking "You can't take them without papers. You're kidnapping them."

The lawyer or the police paid no attention to the frantic pleadings of the two women, but started the machine quickly and soon disappeared toward Ayer. Neither "Honey" nor his intended white bride said a word. He sat as though dazed and she was rigid, her eyes straight ahead and her lips moving as if in prayer.

"Truth Will Prevail"
Once just before the car started she turned to her colored lover and said, "Truth will prevail." He grunted, but said nothing. As soon as the machine had vanished the women relatives returned to the Phoenix and paid their bills and made up the balance of Hazzard's unpaid bill. Then Mrs. Roland, whose husband is chief at Dartmouth college, at once got her brother, William Hazzard, on the long distance phone at the Washington club in Lowell, where he is employed as steward.

The arrests took place at 4.20 yesterday afternoon. An hour before that Miss Puffer told reporters that she was certain that the wedding would come about as planned.

Created Big Sensation
The attempt of "Honey" Hazzard and Miss Puffer to be married has created a big stir throughout New England and is of special interest to the colored people of this city because of the fact that the man in the case is a member of the well known Hazzard family of Lowell, and a brother of William Hazzard, steward at the Washington club in this city.

All attempts, heretofore, to prevent the marriage have been of no avail, both parties to the pending contract insisting that they loved each other. The near-marriage between the handsome woman and the colored man, who terms himself a laborer, is the culmination of a romance that began 15 years ago, according to Mr. Hazzard. That was when, as a man about the place, he looked up to the pretty and much-sought society woman.

Miss Puffer is a graduate of the Emerson school of Oratory in Boston and the Ayer high school. For 10 years they were very friendly, and then came five years of secret courtship. A short time ago they determined to be married, both knowing the talk that would be created. They consulted together, and a few days ago made up their minds to marry despite opinion. As Miss Puffer is interested in Christian Science, she insisted upon coming to Concord, where the founder of the sect is buried. He said he didn't care where they were married.

TOMORROW WILL BE THRIFT SUNDAY
Tomorrow, by desire of Secretary of the Treasury Glass, is to be observed in Lowell and other cities as "Thrift Sunday."

Although advance announcements and programs of Sunday services as printed in today's papers failed to mention the share that the churches would take in "Thrift Sunday." The Sun's investigation today nevertheless goes to show that congregations tomorrow will hear their pastors carrying out Mr. Glass' request, and Lowell churchgoers will be reminded that thrift is the handmaiden of comfort and personal security.

The treasury department is tremendously interested in the national thrift campaign being conducted of course all over the country by the savings division of the department and the decision on the part of Mr. Glass to ask pastors of all denominations to pass on the message from Washington to their parishioners, a letter from the treasury department states, was inspired by the fact that in all patriotic work accomplished in America during the progress, none had been more earnest and tireless than that conducted by all the churches. Mr. Glass follows this up by stating that the peace time needs of the United States are important enough so that the churches should be inspired to still greater effort.

Two of Lowell's pastors who stated this morning that Mr. Glass' request would be carried out to the best of their individual ability were Rev. Arthur Stanley Beale of Highland Congregational and Dr. Caleb E. Fisher of the First Universalist church.

ST. PATRICK'S SCHOOL
Annual Entertainment by St. Patrick's Boys' School at the Lowell Opera House

St. Patrick's Boys' school traditions were in full ascendancy last evening at the Lowell Opera House when the young men of that school staged their 37th annual entertainment before a capacity audience that showed deep interest and appreciation throughout the evening.

As an event that is annually looked forward to, St. Patrick's entertainment for a lifetime belongs to the city. The entertainment was not only of that parish but of practically the entire city. The auditorium chosen for this year's presentation was all too small for the number of people who wished to see it.

The entertainment was in two parts, then first a series of musical numbers and exhibitions by the younger boys and the second a two-act playlet, entitled "A Regular Scram," by the boys of the second year commercial class. Each part was ably given and its success was a creditable reflection on Rev. Brother Nilus, superior of the academy; his assistants, Charles N. Sladen of Boston, musical instructor, and John J. Quinn, dramatic instructor.

The Lowell Cadet orchestra, under the direction of John J. Giblin, furnished music for the evening. The numbers on the first part of the evening's program were unusually well executed and the feature was the "Topsy Turvy" number which created roars. The program for Part I was as follows:

March, "Our Sammie," Vandersloot Orchestra
Overture, "Maxime," Romberg Orchestra a "Old Folks Medley," Sheridan
a "Sunrise," Watson
Novelty, "Topsy Turvy," Fourth Grade
Dumb-Bell Drill, Sixth Grade
Little Letter Carriers, Fifth Grade
Turkish Drill, Older Boys
"Remick's Hits, No. 19," Lampe Orchestra
Welcome, School Chorus
Concert Recitation, "Erin's Flag," Ryan Chorus, Eighth Grade Assisted with a "The Minstrel Boy," Moor
a "O'Donnell Aboon," McCann
Tableau, "Allegiance," Assembly
Interlude, "Pretty Little Rainbow," Plunkett
Orchestra

The comedy playlet, "A Regular Scram," which constituted the second half of the program, was in two parts and was very ably presented by the young men of the second year commercial class. The play had to do with life at Harvard college and the setting and acting were excellent. The cast was as follows:

Prince Cyril of Verengetz, Harvard Freshman, known as Cyril Reine, Daniel F. Sullivan
Carlos Romaine, his cousin, James E. McNamara
Lieutenant Boranza of the Royal Army, Daniel J. Cunningham
Honorable John Winslow, W. Francis Rynae
Myles Standish Winslow, his son, John P. Casey
Benjamin Franklin Winslow, his nephew, Bernard J. McGovern
Horace Webber, Frederick J. Smith
Arthur Loveland, Harold J. Sheehan
Richard Alston, James W. Furey
Austin Beauford, Joseph D. McLean
Silas Brown, colored, Joseph A. Regan

LONGEST DAY OF THE YEAR

Today is the longest day in the year, but it is too short for some men to make up their minds as to what they should do. Included in this category is the man who is going to do some advertising as soon as he gets around to it, or as soon as he thinks it over. Perhaps he can afford to take this plenty of time and perhaps he cannot act any quicker; but unfortunately, time does not wait for such men and while they are thinking it over their opportunity passes, never to return.

Advertising itself is an application of the great jump-up-and-get-at-'em substance called "pep" and a slow, or lazy, or timid man handling it will be sure to point the boat towards the rocks. The longest day of the year was just the day to make the shortest cut to having customers crowd the store's door space by having an ad in

GERMANY WILL SIGN

It is now practically settled that Germany will sign the treaty and carry out its main provisions unless, at some future date, she should see an opportunity to secure a reduction of the burden placed upon her shoulders.

The changes in her government indicate that Germany has come to the conclusion that it is no use to carry her bluff any further. It is quite probable that the Germans never at any time, believed they could avoid signing the treaty; but their game was to fight for concessions and in this they have been, to a degree, successful. The modifications made are not very radical or important; but they have, in a measure, convinced Germany that the allies have no desire to make the terms so severe as to amount to a state of servitude.

With the signing of the treaty by Germany, it is expected that the situation in Europe will soon clear and that in a short time, the nations that have suffered most from the war will turn their attention entirely to the work of reconstruction which must be continued for many years in order to overcome the ruin and devastation resulting from four years of the fiercest war in all history.

RATIFY SUFFRAGE

It is presumed that the Massachusetts legislature will promptly ratify the suffrage amendment in spite of the opposition which is not likely to be very formidable. The fact that the committee on federal relations almost unanimously favored ratification, is indicative of the sentiment prevailing among the members of both branches.

Among the opponents of ratification are men who honestly believe that the extension of the franchise to women will not help the women nor improve political conditions.

But regardless of the indirect result, we believe the suffrage amendment should be promptly ratified. We are not among those who believe that political conditions will suffer by giving women the vote. On the contrary, we believe that the women will stand firmly for the moral uplift of every community and against the political intrigue which has been working injuriously against good government, particularly municipal government throughout the country.

DEPORTING ANARCHISTS

The department of justice will soon have another shipment of anarchists ready for deportation. The department is picking out the more aggressive anarchists throughout the country and gathering them together for deportation to the countries whence they came. They can go back to their native climes to carry on their nefarious designs against all governments. They can then probably determine for themselves from personal experience, whether the liberty extended to foreigners in this country is equal or superior to that which they enjoy in the lands of their nativity.

The next shipment of anarchists will go to Italy, but there will soon be another ready to be sent to Russia. When anarchistic movements are properly investigated, it is found that very few of the men engaged in them are native Americans. They came here in search of freedom and are endeavoring to destroy the freest government on earth. They have no right to a foothold on American soil. The government is doing the proper thing in deporting them.

It is the duty of every patriotic citizen who knows of any alien enemy or anybody professing to be an anarchist, to notify the depart-

TO IGNORE INJUNCTIONS

ATLANTIC CITY, June 19.—During the day the American Federation of Labor adopted a report on the judicial construction of law. This report, which assailed courts and judges, declared that organized labor in the future would treat all injunctive decrees that "invade personal liberties as being in violation of constitutional safeguards" and would accept "whatever consequences might follow."

It is to be regretted that the American Federation of Labor, at its convention, took the stand indicated in the above despatch. To carry out any such policy, the labor leaders would have to set themselves up on a level with the judiciary as interpreters of the law.

There have been certain cases in which the courts seemed to place an unwarranted interpretation on provisions of law. It is against such interpretation that the opposition of the labor men is directed. But even though the charge made against the courts on the matter of injunctions be true, that would not justify labor unions in taking the law into their own hands. There are other methods of obtaining redress. They cannot expect to sit in judgment in their own behalf, which is what they would have to do in carrying out the intent of the above resolve.

In 1914, congress in the Clayton act placed certain restrictions upon injunction proceedings so that there is not now any just ground for such an attack upon the courts.

The question of "personal liberty" under certain conditions is one that even lawyers in many cases find difficulty in deciding. When parties are in open conflict and their rights are opposed at every point, restraints may sometimes be justified that to the lay mind may seem unjust. The rule of law represented by the decisions and orders of the courts is the very palladium of our liberties and to ignore it would be a step towards anarchy.

TO FIGHT THE "FLU"

Will the "flu" ever return? That is a question that is of vast importance to the people of this and other nations.

When the epidemic was at its worst here, considerable effort was expended in fighting it. But the physicians did not identify the germ, nor did they find a serum that proved an effective remedy. The result was 500,000 deaths.

The flu rages in autumn, winter and early spring. Some people thought it was due to the deadly gases let loose in the air by the Germans. That was an assumption just as was the belief that the "flu" was but a severe type of the old grip.

Now is the time to study this disease and provide against its return. A year's delay may bring another crop of deaths perhaps more than 500,000.

The American Medical association has asked congress for an appropriation of $1,500,000 with which to investigate the "flu" with a view to preventing its recurrence or providing some proper specific for its treatment. There are still sporadic cases of "flu" in different parts of the country, so that the opportunity of still further pursuing the germs with a view to isolation is still present.

The money asked for might enable the medical men to cope successfully with the disease. If they should fail, they would at least have gained some additional light on that and other diseases.

In view of the vast mortality due to this disease, chiefly among the youth of the land, we believe that congress will make no mistake in providing ample funds with which to conduct the necessary investigation.

THE BRAYING SENATOR

The speech of Senator Sherman of Illinois, in which he sounds a note of alarm lest the League of Nations would make the Vatican the ruler of the civilized world and hints that President Wilson is in collusion with the Pope in bringing about such a state of affairs, is the worst piece of hypocrisy yet put forward in the various attempts made by republicans to blacken and defame the president.

It is political poppycock of the most nauseating type. It is another proof of the unscrupulous character and the lively imagination, if we may call it by no worse name, of this blatherskite senator from Illinois.

When President Wilson expressed a determination to go to Europe, it was the foul mouthed Sherman that expressed solicitude for his safety in mingling with court circles, saying that "many a man had been ruined by a woman's smile."

But the meanest cut of all is to insinuate that Catholics, whose loyalty to their respective nations was tested through all the stress and storm of war and never shaken, should now be questioned by this alarmist who is bold enough to insinuate that, as delegates to the League of Nations, they might betray the countries to which they give their sworn allegiance, and enter into a religious combine forsooth to rule the civilized world.

Although this man's words are of no more importance than the braying of an ass, yet they cast an insult upon every Catholic in this and every other land, and for that reason they cannot be passed over in silence.

During the war, Catholic soldiers died side by side with their Protestant brothers for the countries they represented, and the voice of the Vatican had no influence either over their action or in shaping the policy of Catholic nations.

If not in war, then why should any scheming politician insinuate that they would adopt a different policy in time of peace? Moreover, in his statement, the ranting senator refers to the action of the league assembly as the controlling power in the league, whereas the supreme power rests in the executive council alone. Thus this blow-hard alarmist is wrong in every aspect in which his statements are considered.

If the republican party imagines that it can gain any advantage from that sort of claptrap, it will soon have a rude awakening. The men who went to the front in this war will deal with such attacks as this in a way that will put Sherman where he will not be in a position to prostitute a high office to the vilest kind of political hypocrisy and groundless sensationalism in a contemptible effort to shake public confidence in the president of the United States.

The king of Denmark has sent over one of his favorite sons to visit the United States. On the way, over, American army officers are said to have taught him the rudiments of America's greatest indoor sport, real cards, playing for real money and winners keep winnings. No one likes to lose. It is entirely human to believe that if Prince Aage lost at poker, perhaps when he sees Miss Liberty in New York harbor, she will remind him of the queen he ought to have had to make a royal straight flush function right.

The managing editor of the Syracuse Herald is said to have patriotically accepted a New York state deputy commissionership whose salary is $5500 a year. His patriotism may be said to have happily blended with a piece of good fortune. Few newspapermen in Syracuse or way stations beat the barrier to the extent of $5500. He will not have to worry over local politics or some one getting his job while the state is paymaster.

Rather too bad "saving daylight" goes out of fashion on the last Sunday of October, 1919. It has seemed to many of us city dwellers that it was a successful attempt to create something almost out of nothing and few of us have had health injured by getting up an hour earlier each day and going to bed an hour earlier at night.

SEEN AND HEARD

There's a lot of fellows worrying about July 1 who may never live to see it. Cheer up!

Ever have an attack of acute indigestion? Sea sickness is a plankton steak smothered in onions as compared with it.

A fellow just went out of here so mad that in all probability he will walk down the ten flights instead of taking the elevator. He wanted a "piece" put in this column about a "friend" of his. It was anything but a friendly piece and we were inwardly pleading with the Lord to deliver some poor fellow we didn't know from his friends. Every word of it was libelous and we said so. Just for that he went away mad as a hatter. And the woods are full of these nuts.

By O. B. Joyful

Miss Ann Taylor, spinster, 70 years old, living in Nelson, Australia, has sued John Pender, widower, 80 years old, for breach of promise. John's nine children wouldn't let him marry, he told the court, but the jury went ahead and handed Ann $250 to mend her shattered heart.

Suchlife in a Camisola

The Philippines have discovered the flapper. Over there they call them the "girl in the camisola," which isn't as improper as it looks, because "camisola" merely means a knee-length dress. A Filipino paper says "the girl in the camisola" is: "The ballet dancer's rival in leg showing, Lethario's blushing Marguerite, a curio for the curious, a Messalina in the bud, an insult to grown-ups, a delicate compliment to young libertines, salan's agent at work."

Would Take No Chances

A colored officer of a company of dusky warriors from Alabama stationed in France was approached by a mess officer and told that he might draw wine rations for his soldiers. He shook his head slowly, but decidedly. "Ah appreciate the honor, sah, foh nothin' is too good foh mah men. Dey's all good men. Some of dem boys kin pray so cross dat yo kin heah dem shout clean across to Berlin—but—Mister, Ah ain't takin' any chances. Give 'em coffee." John E. Stiggins, U.S.N., in Judge.

A Blushing Question

"Why should any woman desire to show her dress shields and underwear to the public?" This and a variety of kindred questions and remarks are included in a circular on "fashion—its use and abuse," which has been put out by the home economics department of the University of Illinois. "Evening dress described in our fashion magazines as not showing much above the waist and very little below," the circular says, "are not rare." And it goes on thusly: "Many girls appear bow-legged when the leg, which should be at right angles to the foot, is obliged to assume a slant position because of the stilted heel." We have often wondered what caused that appearance.

The Breaking Straw

"It's the last straw!" she exclaimed, bitterly. She tapped on the floor with her right toe, always, with her, a sign of repressed passion. "The last straw!" she repeated. He shuffled his feet in embarrassment, though he realized embarrassment was a ridiculously easy thing to shuffle them in.

Angrily she shrugged herself to her feet. "I am going!" she cried. "I would not stay here another second, even for a moment."

And she swept out and there was nothing left for him to do but follow.

"I didn't know it was the last straw or I wouldn't have taken it," he apologized, miserably. And she, who had never slipped a lemonade without a straw in her life, and never intended to, sniffed scornfully, without replying, and refrained.

TORTURED BY RHEUMATISM

"FRUIT-A-TIVES" Brought Quick and Permanent Relief

MR. F. H. MCHUGH
103 Church Street, Montreal.

December 10th, 1917.

"I was a great sufferer from Rheumatism for over 10 years. I consulted specialists, took medicines, used lotions; but nothing did me good. Then, I began to use 'Fruit-a-tives'; and in 15 days, the pain was easier and the Rheumatism was better. Gradually, 'Fruit-a-tives' overcame my Rheumatism; and now, for five years, I have had no return of the trouble. Also, I had severe Eczema and Constipation, and 'Fruit-a-tives' relieved me of those complaints; and gave me a good appetite; and in every way restored me to health." P. H. MCHUGH.

The Amusement Park

A squirrel will run in the revolving porch of his wire bungalow until he gets flat tires on his hind toes, and call it amusement. Folks don't have revolving porches to gallop in, so they go to an amusement park. Funny what amusement is. Picking out a hot night to go and pay your way into spending some money. Tossing a dollar's worth of rings or rolling balls for a two-bit knife or 15c vase. Aiming a lump eye for 50c worth of shots to knock over a tin duck or bust a clay pipe. Doing a week's work in five minutes with a sledge hammer trying to ring a trick bell. Mixing ice cream, soft drinks, peanuts, popcorn, hot dogs, with roller coasters, chutes, aerial swings and a headache. The lesson in this chintorial is, it will remind those who read it to take a trip to the amusement park!

Backpack Fashions

(By a Master of the Old School)
Dear ladies, when at dinner or the dance, I witness, from behind, your broad expanse of dorsal whiteness, fair but hardly shining. Extending from the cervix to the waist, I oft have noticed that you bring a kind of Grecian reminiscence to my mind; But not the sort you'd think; not memories of Myron's marbles and Praxiteles'. No, when I watch your undraped figures pass I think of Greek, but only Greek in class. Where little wanton boys of bad report Would not observe the laws of long and short. So, stubborn some, that much against my wish I had to take them out and soundly swish. So, when I see you in the semi-nude, Too potent is the force of habitude; Instinctively my restless fingers search After the handle of the healthy birch.—Gilbert Collins in London Opinion.

THE MAN ABOUT TOWN

A noticeable effect of the present railway strike is the increase in the number of people who get their midday meal in the downtown restaurants rather than follow their usual custom of going home. There must be at least several thousand Lowell people who daily go to their homes or boarding houses at noon via the electric cars, but since the inception of the strike a large number of these have reckoned it cheaper and more convenient to eat downtown rather than walk home or take chances with unscheduled filneys. Usually one's time is limited at noon and if a person is able to get home at all, he doesn't have any time to spare. With the added time taken in reaching home on account of the trolley tie-up the proposition is by no means an inviting one and the result is a general gathering in the restaurants and lunch rooms at noon.

Among the thousands of automobiles now dashing wildly around the city streets on missions of business and the transportation of pedestrians are seen some rare bits of antiquity of the vintage of the early nineteenth century. We have yet to see one of those faithful sea-going hacks with a rear entrance and a nice wicker basket, like a hall umbrella rack, for the holding of canes, golf sticks and such, but we have lamped a few old timers that have been kicking around the shed these many years. We saw one this morning, chugging merrily along on its work of getting three or four persons to work on time, which was just on the hair-line of being called a horseless carriage. It had a motor, about one cycle, which gave vent to piston-driver explosions and the pilot was sitting at least six feet from the pavement, but the occupants didn't seem to care. Everything is fair in strikes and wars and we should be subject to worry as long as we don't have to walk to and fro twice a day.

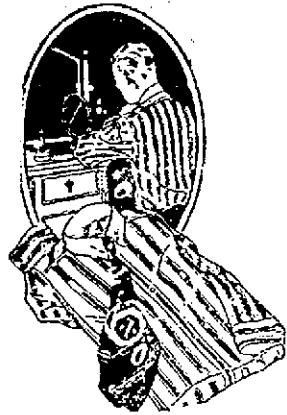

If we remember correctly we have made prior protest regarding the use of the public streets for motor speedways, but we do so again, this time specifically mentioning Westford street and the need of proper police surveillance. Westford street has a smooth, hard roadway and with the absence of electric cars makes a fine place to "step on her" and watch her pick up. But, there will be other things picked up besides speed unless the habitual scorches keep their feet off the accelerator pedal. The street is over-run with blind intersecting corners, the most flagrant and generally used being Nichols and Smith streets. There have been crashes there before this, but a very serious one is impending unless the warning signs to slow down are heeded. After dark at present the street is one glare of dancing, blinding light and it is a fertile field for a motorcycle policeman, a whole flock of which the city acutely needs.

LABOR ENDORSES LEAGUE

Votes Overwhelmingly in Favor of Covenant—Irish Provision Included

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., June 21.—Organized labor yesterday endorsed the League of Nations covenant and the labor provisions it contains which, according to a cable message from President Wilson, have been weakened, although not materially. In giving its approval by a vote, on a proportion basis, of 29,150 against 420 the reconstruction convention of the American Federation of Labor made it clear that "nothing in the endorsement can be construed as denying the right of self-determination and freedom to Ireland, as recognized by this convention."

An amendment containing the Irish provision was adopted unanimously. The president's cable in reply to one sent him by Samuel Gompers, president of the federation, asking information about changes reported in press despatches follows:

"Your message came while I was in Belgium and reached me too late to make full reply, but as I indicated in an earlier message, while the labor provisions are somewhat weakened it is the opinion of friends of labor and my own opinion that they are not materially weakened and that they will constitute a most serviceable magna charta. Will cable labor provisions but fear it will be too late for the convention. Consideration of the League of Nations occupied Virtually the entire afternoon session of the convention. Andrew Furuseth of the Seamen's union, led the group which attacked it. Furuseth said, assailing the league was a most disagreeable job to him, but that he considered it his duty to do so.

KEEP STORES OPEN THE NIGHT BEFORE

At a meeting of the women's wear merchants at board of trade rooms yesterday afternoon it was voted to keep stores open until 9 p. m. night before the Fourth, for accommodation of shoppers and to close all stores July 10, the day of the clerks' annual midsummer holiday.

The reliance that womankind has learned to put in crackers is being well illustrated at the tea being given for returning soldiers and sailors.

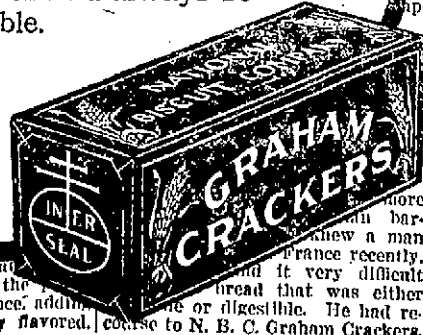

Every woman at the metropolis has in her pantry a generous supply of the National Biscuit Company's always popular and universally accepted product. Nettle, a comely young woman, yeoman of the Navy, in uniform, found herself expectedly entertaining a party of tea at her uptown home the other afternoon. Included in the other arrangements was a mat-sugar-filled wafers which they supplied. There was no question about the complete success of Nettle's discovery, as the fragrance of the fresh cups of tea which she served added to the inviting repast.

TO SEND TROOPS INTO MEXICO

Recent Developments Bring Radical Change in Attitude of U. S. Government

"Watchful Waiting" Discarded For "Watchful Preparedness"

WASHINGTON, June 21.—Recent developments along the southern border and within Mexico itself, it was learned officially today, have brought a radical change in the attitude of this government toward Mexico. It can be stated on positive authority that "watchful waiting" has been discarded for "watchful preparedness."

The war department has perfected plans to throw a punitive expedition of adequate strength across the Rio Grande the moment official word is received of reprisals on the part of Villa for the Juarez incident, or in case of other contingencies tending to bring the Mexican situation again to a stage approaching the crisis of last Sunday.

Military observers here place little credence in the reports that Villa has abandoned his offensive to the north.

Although three federal generals now are operating against Villa in northern Mexico, confidential reports to the war department are not optimistic regarding the success of the Carranzista campaign there, while the withdrawal of badly needed troops from the south, it is expected, will be followed by fresh incursions of the Felicistas—already at the very gates of the capital. The Carranzista military establishment, according to official reports, actually includes less than 40 per cent of its paper strength of 160,000, and its military value is decreased by the doubtful loyalty of some of the high officers and the fact that hundreds of recruits were forcibly conscripted.

Of the rebel factions of which there are said to be seven opposing Carranza, Villa is reported to be the strongest. The Villistas are conservatively estimated to number 10,000, equipped with fairly modern arms, including cannon up to 105 millimetres in calibre.

So serious is the condition faced by President Carranza that he is said to be bending every effort to secure the direct support of the United States in maintaining his power. This, according to officials here, accounts for the ease with which the Juarez incident was closed.

GENERAL HOLIDAY FOR CLERKS JULY 10

Plans for Clerks' day, which will be observed by the employees of the local stores on Thursday, July 10, are progressing and several of the stores have made arrangements for the annual outing on the beach, which is to be held on that day. It is expected that every store in the city will close for the day on that date in order to spend the day at the beach.

The employees of the J. L. Chaffin Co. will journey to Revere, the trip to the seashore to be made in automobile trucks. It is expected that between 150 and 200 men and women will participate in the event. Dinner will be served at the Hotel Pleasant and a program of sports will be carried out during the day. The committee in charge of the arrangements consists of the following: Eugene Queenan, chairman; Joseph Martin, Henry Chaput, William Scott, M. Hizer and Henry F. Sullivan.

A. G. Pollard Co. The clerks of the A. G. Pollard Co. will also go to Revere and final arrangements for the trip, dinner and program will be made within a few days by the president of the Employees' association, John Orrell.

Bon Marche Co. The employees of the Bon Marche Co. have also decided to go somewhere July 10, but they have not yet selected the resort. It is very probable that the event this year will be held at Nahant beach, for inasmuch as there was no outing last year, it is being planned to make this a banner one. Morton M. Walker and Frank

Sullivan have been appointed a committee to look after arrangements and they are to report next Tuesday.

Other Outings The employees of Cook, Taylor & Co. are planning an outing for Thursday, July 10, but final arrangements have not yet been made. All arrangements for the event are in the hands of John McKinley, manager of the store.

The president of the Grocers and meat markets of the city will close for the day July 10 and that it is very probable arrangements will be made to the annual outing of the association on that date. The matter will be discussed at the next meeting of the members of the association.

Important Hearing Continued

needed with Representative Thomas J. Corbett said today. Mr. Corbett himself is a member of this committee and he expressed an earnest wish that the citizens of Lowell would take a deep interest in the hearing to be held Monday.

The representative made an effort to have the hearing held in Lowell but owing to the lateness of the session the committee is unable to come to Lowell.

Mr. Corbett emphasizes very forcefully the urgent necessity for a large and representative hearing on this important matter. To borrow $150,000, as the commission intends to do, in addition to the $700,000 already authorized, is the biggest financial project involving the interest of the city ever presented to the legislature.

Although impartial in his attitude toward the proposition at the present time, Representative Corbett believes that the public view should be freely and openly expressed at the hearing.

"I should be remiss in my duty as a member of the legislature," Mr. Corbett said, "and particularly this committee if I did not call the attention of the public at this time to the hearing next Monday morning and urge a large attendance. It is a stupendous financial obligation for the city to assume and I want to know if the citizens of Lowell are prepared cheerfully to take on this burden at this time."

Seek Further Discussion Continued

can delegation in Paris has received a report that Herman Mueller, majority socialist leader, has been selected. A Berlin dispatch, dated late Friday, however, declared that the government at that hour announced itself unable at present to pick a new cabinet and had decided to postpone the attempt for 48 hours.

Expert Stays For Present

The advice seems to indicate President Ebert will retain office, at least for the time being. Matthias Erzberger, head of the German armistice commission seems sure of a place in the government, probably as "minister of reconstruction and fulfillment of the treaty" and he is pointed to as the likely head of the new German peace delegation. Other names than Herr Mueller's mentioned for the premier are those of Gustav Noske, the minister of defense, and Dr. Eduard David, former president of the national assembly.

It seems probable that the ministerial crisis caused by the necessity of quickly deciding upon the signing of the allied peace terms will result in a request from Germany for an extension of time beyond Monday for reaching a final decision. Despatches from Paris would appear to indicate that, under the circumstances, such a request would be favorably received.

Nitti to Form Italian Cabinet

Francesco Nitti, former Italian minister of finance, who resigned from the cabinet last January because of a disagreement with Premier Orlando over the latter's foreign policy, has been asked to form the new Italian cabinet. It is semi-officially announced.

Signor Nitti is supposed to favor a compromise with the Jugo-Slavs in reference to conflicting claims to territory on the eastern coast of the Adriatic. During the last year of the war, he was looked upon with some concern by France, it was reported at the time because of his intimations that Italy might be forced to withdraw from the war by reason of the failure of the allies to come to her assistance.

ANNUAL OUTING AT REVERE BEACH

The fact that the street carmen are out on strike did not prevent the employees of the Lawrence's hosiery from holding their annual outing at Revere beach today. About 100 young men and women, the latter presenting a fine appearance in their attire of white, boarded two large automobile trucks at the corner of Bridge and Paige sts. at 9 o'clock this morning and journeyed merrily to the summer resort, where a most pleasant day was spent. Upon reaching the seashore the excursionists enjoyed a dip and later the many signs on the beach were taken in. At noon a very appetizing sea food dinner was enjoyed and the afternoon was devoted to sporting events and games. The affair, which was one of the most successful in a long time was in charge of Omar Hebert.

THIS BILL MAY INTEREST YOU

Lowell people will be interested in house bill 1552 providing for the appointment of civil service commissions in all cities of 100,000 or over in this state, which has been introduced in the legislature. If the bill is passed it will mean that the governor will appoint three civil service commissioners for this city. One will be appointed for one year, one for two and one for three years. Thereafter, a commissioner will be appointed annually to serve three years. The bill would go into effect in March, 1920. Provision is made that not more than two members of the commission be of the same political party. The local commission would at all times be under the direction of the state commission.

Extraordinary Sale at Public Auction

The well known Percy Parker property at the corner of Bridge and West Fourth Streets, comprising a block of seven stores, being Nos. 430-434-438-442-446-450-454-458 on Bridge Street, and dwelling house at No. 15 West Fourth Street, pledged at absolute auction sale in two parcels on Wednesday, the twenty-fifth day of June, 1919, commencing promptly at 3 o'clock in the afternoon with the Bridge Street property and following immediately with the dwelling on West Fourth Street.

THE FIRST PARCEL
A one story structure on the corner of West Fourth street, and Bridge street, containing seven stores. The stores are of good dimensions, 34 x 20 foot passage-way for unloading of merchandise, have an abundance of light and air and are all rented to very desirable tenants, some of whom have been located on the premises many years. The property has an income of $177.50 per month, $2130 per year, which is admitted an exceptionally low rental for store property on a main business street. The lot has a splendid frontage on Bridge street of about 180 feet and a frontage of about 85 feet on West Fourth street, and a total area of about 15,350 square feet. The parcel of property being exclusively one of stores with almost no expense attached for repairs, such as one gets in ordinary renting property, makes it an exceptionally good investment. The location is ideal, being strictly main street business property—in fact almost a downtown property, being within seven or eight minutes' walk from the very centre of Lowell, Merrimack Square.

THE SECOND PARCEL
At No. 15 West Fourth street, a three story slated roof dwelling, containing six bedrooms, bath, kitchen, parlor, butler's pantry, laundry with set wash boiler, built-in refrigerator, steam heat, gas, sewer, and a good frontage on West Fourth street of about 75 feet. This property could, with a reasonable outlay, be converted into an attractive apartment house; it is built of the heaviest and highest grade of frame construction, and is on a lot of about 6100 square feet, with a frontage on street of about 75 feet.

With the demand for houses, tenements, etc., so great and with the almost impossible opportunity for disposing of one, this property's proximity to Merrimack Square, to the various large factories, shops, etc., with the practical elimination of electric car fares, builders and investors, as well as home seekers should be especially interested.

This sale is of unusual interest, and is practically down town property, and all of the first parcel exclusively a store property, one that has a splendid future from the investor's standpoint, a property that can be made to yield much greater revenue. Again this sale is most attractive. From the view of an investor, this property is a splendid opportunity. With the constant demand for homes, this parcel should, with its many opportunities for cheap sale, especially appeal to the investor. Also a chance to buy at open competition a business block, on a principal street, and a dwelling house. Is seldom offered.

TERMS: $1500 must be paid to the auctioneer on the first parcel just as soon as the property is struck off; $500 deposit will be required on the second parcel just as soon as struck off.

By Order of PERCY PARKER.

COMMISSIONER'S SALE OF REAL ESTATE AT PUBLIC AUCTION

Of the Edmund Brickett property, in three separate parcels, situated at Nos. 85-87 Dover street, and Nos. 314-316 Pine street, corner of Parker street, and wood lot of 11 acres located in Weymouth, Mass. This last mentioned parcel to be sold upon the Dover street premises, immediately after the sale of the Dover street property.

On Friday, the twenty-seventh day of June, 1919, commencing promptly at 4 o'clock in the afternoon with the Pine street property and following immediately with Dover street and Weymouth, Mass., parcels.

By virtue of an order issued by the Probate Court, I have instructed the auctioneer to sell to whomsoever will bid the most at absolute auction sale in three separate parcels these well located home and investment properties.

THE FIRST PARCEL
A two story two-tenement house at Nos. 314-316 Pine street, corner of Parker street, containing five bedrooms, modern bath, a good kitchen, pantry, copper hot water boiler, vulcan heaters, gas and electric lights, wash trays, polished hardwood floors, steam heat, (separate Gurney boilers to each flat).

This property is in very good repair, has cement cellar, the same being divided for each family, well lighted, and posted; the house is well supplied with closet room, has separate front and rear entrances, and is all rented to good tenants, who pay a monthly rent of $47—on a yearly rental of five hundred and sixty-four dollars.

The location is exceptionally good, the property being a corner lot warrants an abundance of light and air, it is within easy walking distance of the Westford street and Highlands electric car lines, is handy to churches, different accommodations, and is situated close to many of Lowell's most costly homes.

In the sale of this entirely separate two tenement dwelling, the opportunity is offered to secure a home in one of the very best residential parts of Lowell, and have an income sufficient to pay the entire running expenses of both.

THE SECOND PARCEL
At Nos. 85-87 Dover street. This parcel comprises a two and a half story slated roof house containing twelve rooms, five rooms on the first floor and five on the second, with two finished rooms in the third, and garage in No. 85, and slated roof cottage of six rooms at No. 87—these two properties are to be sold as one lot.

The larger house has reception hall, parlor, living room, dining room, kitchen, chamber, bath and pantry on the first floor, the good room, bath on the second, and two finished rooms on the floor above. The house has hardwood floors in part, has gas and electric lights, open plumbing, wash trays, hole and cold water, cemented cellar, front and rear entrances, sleeping porch has plentiful supply of closet room, is very heavily timbered, one of the best planned and one of the best constructed houses in Lowell. It could very easily, inasmuch as it is so well laid out, be made into a splendid two-tenement house, there are two open plumbing bath rooms, one on the first floor, and one on the second floor; there are two separate Gurney steam heating plants.

The roof is of the very best first quality slate.

The cottage at No. 87—has reception hall, parlor, dining room with china closet, pantry, kitchen with set tubs, on the first floor, and three bright sleeping chambers and modern bath on the second. The house is in A-1 condition inside and out, has slated roof, cemented cellar and steam heat and is rented to a very good tenant who pays a rental $25 per month or $300 per year.

YANK'S STUNT ON TURKESTAN RAIL-WAY MAKES BOLSHEVIKI DIZZYHalf-Mile Stretch of Ruined Rails and Twisted Railroad Track Dooms Lenine to Famine in Vital Cotton SupplyBY ERNEST J. HOPKINS, (N.E.A. Staff Correspondent.)SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., June 21.—Out on the sun-baked steppes of far-away Turkistan is a half-mile stretch of wrecked and twisted railroad track that has played a strange part in the lives of us all.That broken segment of railway blocked the treaty of Brest-Litovsk from fulfillment.Then it got between Bill o' Berlin and his heart's desire, shortening his desperate career by several moons.Today, slowly but very surely, it is strangling Bolshevism to a lingering death.What's more, an American was instrumental in putting that break there.At the head of the track, in Tashkent, Turkistan, is all the raw cotton in the world outside of allied territory. This cotton can't get out. So that explains the above.The American is Howard D. Hadley, American vice-consul in several Russian cities, who has just arrived here from Siberia. Though Hadley wouldn't admit it, he probably planned the job.
An Orenburg Cossack, General Dutoff, aid the actual work."It happened early in 1918," narrated Hadley. "The Germans were looking fine on paper—but they couldn't get cotton. They couldn't reach America, India, Egypt or the South Sea Islands. All the cotton in the world, for them, was down in Turkistan.""Cotton was clogging the German mind when they put over the treaty of Brest-Litovsk. The treaty, of which I saw the original draft, gave the Germans free passage to Turkistan. You can't wage modern war or run a government without cotton. They simply had to have it.""At the request of Madsen Summers, United States consul-general at Moscow—now dead—I went down into Rumania with a train of Red Cross supplies. With me was Gullian Lansing, a fine young fellow and a distant relative of the secretary of state. Lansing stayed in Rumania; I bit across to Orenbourg, north of the Caspian, and, on the edge of Turkistan.""I was after that cotton myself. The plan was for Consul Roger C. Treas-well and myself to go into Turkistan, buy all we could, and get it to Moscow."But the place was swarming with German agents, and we decided it would be safer to leave it where it was."Now, everybody in Orenburg was sure the Germans were winning the war. Paris was under bombardment and the British were being backed off the beach at Ostend. I did my best to tell the world that the allies would win anyhow, but nobody believed me —except one man.""He was General Dutoff, Cossack leader. Dutoff had put up a game fight against Germany, also against the Bolsheviks. Today, he is among Kol-chak's strong supporters. Orenburg was in Bolshevik control, and Dutoff was in hiding in the Ural mountains and out on the Khirgese steppes.""There were only two railroads linking Tashkent with Berlin. One ran west near the Persian border to the Black Sea; the other northward through Orenburg, Samara, Moscow and Warsaw. One night the British crossed the Persian border in Ford automobiles and cut the Black Sea railway. That little stunt didn't get into the papers, but it was one of the most important strokes of the war.""Dutoff wanted to know how he could put a crimp in the Germans. I told his emissary that if Dutoff could manage to cut the railroad below Orenburg some rainy Thursday evening, and hold up that cotton in Tashkent, the Kaiser would weep several copious weeps.""Dutoff was 200 miles away, but he acted promptly. 'Next thing I heard, Dutoff had made a sudden raid, shot a Bolshevik station agent and guards about ten miles west from Orenburg, seized an engine, looped up some loose ends of rail over the locomotive, and backed a half-mile down the track, hauling the track with him.'""He also blew up a few culverts and a bridge, for good measure. 'Nobody in Russia could fix that track! It isn't fixed yet. You can judge the effect when I say that the great Moscow cotton mills, which normally employ 100,000 men and girls, are as silent as the grave.'""Cotton famine sped Germany's end.
Cotton famine is speeding Lenine's end. All because General Dutoff did such a good job of 'looping the loop' ten miles out of Orenburg."

25 Years Wed

The old Sun has an account of the following June wedding:"The marriage of Mr. Thomas Devill and Miss Elizabeth L. Clark occurred last evening at the parochial residence of the Rev. J. J. Dacey, O.M.I., performing the ceremony. The bride was attended by Miss Rosetta Clark, her sister, and the maid of honor was Miss Mary E. Hinchey of Lexington. Mr. P.
J. Lynch was best man."

Milk Inspector Allen

The late Thomas Otis Allen, father of Dr. Allen the dentist, was the first man in the history of the city to bring the office of milk inspector up to the state of efficiency that it should have in order to be of real benefit to the public. He became a practical chemist so that he analyzed not only milk but water and various food stuffs. He was the inveterate foe of dishonest milkmen. Soon after he entered the office a number of crooked milkmen got up a liberal purse of money and presented it to Mr. Allen, assuming that the contributors would be protected by the inspector while selling impure or diluted milk to the public.
Mr. Allen turned the list over to the police authorities and the men were severely dealt with for attempted bribery.The Sun speaking of Inspector Allen said:"Inspector of Milk Allen has a plan on foot which should meet with the heartiest kind of support on the part of the people of our city.""He desires to obtain a suitable sized cart and use it as a dispensary for sterilized milk to the poor people of the city at one cent per glass. The expenses will exceed the estimated receipts by a few dollars a day, but he intends to ask the charitable inclined people to help him in the work."
"The milk will be absolutely pure and will be far better for the poor people than beer or alcoholic liquors or even our questionable supply of water. The milk will be cooled and served by the glass."If the people could buy sterilized milk at 5 cents a glass today, they would feel that they were being favored.Mr. Allen's plan was carried out for one or two summers. The idea was taken up by the Lowell Guild, but the people had to go for the milk.
There was no wagon to bring it to their doors.

Two R. R. Stations Abandoned

In the following the old Sun had a forecast of important railroad changes that followed:"At the grade crossing hearing this forenoon the railroad company presented a plan whereby it was proposed to do away with the Central street depot and the freight yard and run electric cars on the line of the railroad to the Bleachery station for the accommodation of passengers."The Boston & Maine depot on Central street now used in part by the Owl theatre was abandoned as a railroad station in November, 1895, and the old Boston & Lowell depot that stood on the site now occupied by the F.M.C.A. building, was abandoned in 1905. The last passenger train ran to that station July 16 of that year.The abandonment of both these stations removed several very dangerous grade crossings. The one on Church street and Rogers street was about as bad as that on Market and Thorndike streets and many serious accidents occurred at both. The railroad tracks still remain but they are used only for freight cars chiefly at night and do not cause much inconvenience.The Boston and Lowell railroad started here in 1845, and it was in 1875 that the Boston and Maine station on Central street was built.The cab train from Middlesex street depot to Merrimack street caused very annoying delays at the intervening

UNEARTH GERMAN GOLD

Children of Samoa Find Buried German Riches on Treasure Island

(Special to The Sun)

Samoa children, treasure hunters extraordinary to their Uncle Sam, and below Commander Strum, U.S.N., who directed the search for buried Teuton treasures.PAGO-PAGO, Samoa, June 21.—The most exciting and successful treasure hunt, outside the pages of Robert Louis Stevenson, is just coming to a close down here in the land where Stevenson wrote the tales that hold every American boy spellbound.German agents buried the money during the war—hundreds of it.And Uncle Sam's little nephews have been unearthing it, with an ingenuity that would have won the admiration of Treasure Island's author.Forty chests of silver and gold, to be exact, were hidden away in the sands during the dark of the moon by German officials who sought to flee the islands after the United States joined the allies.Questioned by Lieutenant-Commander L. W. Strum of the U. S. Navy, they confessed to have paid it all to Teuton agents. But Strum knew a thing or two about German wiles.
Also he knew a thing or two about buried treasure, having been a voracious reader of Stevenson, Poe and the exploits of Kidd, Morgan, et al.When his own men, after scouring the islands, reported failure, Strum called on the school children of Samoa, depicting them all as treasure hunters extraordinary to their Uncle Sam.He told them to go out and shuffle around in bare feet, and to report to him when they found any loose soil crossings during business hours.

The New Courthouse

Just 25 years ago, according to the old Sun, the county commission was about to start building the courthouse on Gorham street. In an interview published in The Sun, County Commissioner Reed said:"We want to build a courthouse which Lowell will be proud of and we want to have one as nearly perfect as possible.""We would like to have the foundation built this fall so that the brick work could be started in the spring.
It will take one year to build the proposed courthouse. We shall pay particular attention to the ventilation and if necessary we shall place fans in the basement. Nothing will be left undone to give Lowell a courthouse in keeping with the city's needs. The old courthouse will be left standing until the new one is completed."

with hard ground around it.

Hundreds of kids began to shuffle around, both vigorously and well. In fact, they shimmied all over the island.Charles Jewitt, 11-year-old son of the navy yard foreman at Pago-Pago, made the first strike. Running down hill, his bare toes had sunk into loose sand and came up with several German marks.Strum and some of his little deputies followed the excited Charles to the spot and shoveled up enough coin to fill a huge barrel.The treasure had been imperfectly sealed in long terra cotta cylinders, cached about two feet below the surface of the ground.The next gold plant was unearthed by a native boy who was chasing a pig home. A little digging uncovered the greatest cache of German gold found by American agents during the war—bulging chests of it that would have made Captain Kidd faint with covetous joy.Since then the boys and girls of Pago-Pago have been prospecting Samoa with a thoroughness that puts to shame the traditional industry of the forty-niners or the Klondykers.They shuffle night and day. Some have had to take an enforced rest until they can grow a new coat of skin on the bottom of their feet. And if there's a hidden German mark left in all Samoa, it's buried mighty deep!

SENATOR WALSH HAS SECURED SHIP-PING FAVORS FOR BOSTONNew Cabinet Office for Dept. of Marine and Fisheries Proposed—No Tariff Changes Probable at the Present Session

(Special to The Sun)

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 21.— Senator Walsh this week took up with the shipping board the matter of more adequate facilities for shipping from Massachusetts both in the way of coastwise and transatlantic trade.Mr. Walsh had a conference with Chairman Hurley and afterwards told
The Sun correspondent he was greatly pleased at the outcome. Mr. Hurley has agreed to see that Massachusetts has a fair showing and will provide whatever ships are shown to be necessary."It must be a fifty-fifty proposition," said the senator. "For Mr. Hurley made it quite plain that he should expect Massachusetts to do her part in furnishing material to be shipped from ports of that state, if he guaranteed the vessels. It was stated at the conference that in many instances Massachusetts shippers sent to other ports by rail, notably New York, and Mr. Hurley made it clear that unless Boston and other Massachusetts cities did their part towards making Boston a greater shipping port the shipping board could not carry the mat-ter very far." Senator Walsh is anxious that the state and shipping board co-operate and believes the shippers will be quick to take advantage of added facilities. Boston's mayor was represented at the conference by Joshua Quincy and Senator Walsh represented Massachusetts congressional interests in the matter.

Wants New Cabinet Office

The creation of a new cabinet office is advocated by Congressman Walsh of Massachusetts, such an official to have control of a department entirely devoted to maritime and coast interests.
Except coast defense, now under the army and not to be interfered with, Mr. Walsh believes all matters pertaining to shipping, coast guard, merchant marine and fisheries and similar interests should constitute a separate department and an executive department known as the department of marine and fisheries, be created with a secretary at its head who becomes a member of the cabinet.The bill presented to congress by Mr. Walsh includes in the list to be absorbed by this new department, the merchant marine, the development and

RECRUITS BY AIRPLANE

Curtis Machine To Visit This

Early Next WeekWith the arrival at Camp Devens of a Curtis airplane, considerable interest is displayed in the air service and daily large numbers of world war vet-information of the air service. Lieut.

Minneapolis, Minn., by way of Worcester, to the Ayer camp, arriving there Thursday night. Early next week, Lieut. Mor-fitt will make trips to Lowell, Lawrence, Worcester, Fitchburg and adjacent towns.Recruits for the air service who express a desire will be transported by aerial route from a nearby city to camp. On the first flight Lieut. V. M.
Frier and M. F. Shea will make the trip. Both officers are on the recruiting staff and they will make speeches in the several cities for recruits.Capt. John C. Macdonald, the camp recruiting officer, states that recruiting continues highly satisfactory. To date a total of 965 men have been enlisted and scores of the new soldiers have been furnished transportation to Camp Meade, Md., for assignment with the overseas replacement troops. Others have been sent to Hawaii, Philippines, the canal zone and in this country to cantonments and regular army posts.In every case the men were allowed to express their preferences for the branch of the service and the place to which they desired to be sent. Incidentally the report of Captain Macdonald shows that the three-year enlistments predominated over the one-year enlistment periods.A canvass of the United States shows that at the beginning of the year there were registered 6,225,192 automobiles and motor trucks—about one for every 18 inhabitants.Out-Doing

SUMMER PLANS

International Institute Girls
To Have RecreationWednesday evenings during July and August the girls of the International Institute are to have recreation periods under Mrs. Julian Keyes. The recreation room at the institute being too small for this purpose, the Middlesex Women's club has granted the use of Middlesex hall. Week-end parties and picnics also have been planned which include the mothers and sisters of the non-English speaking girls.A new and enthusiastic troop of Girl Scouts has lately been organized, composed entirely of Greek girls, several of whom have passed the tenderfoot test successfully. The captain of the troop is Miss Helen Hutton; lieutenant, Miss Helen Varnum; assistants, Misses Louise Holden and Edna Olney.A group of non-English speaking men appeared at the institute a few weeks ago asking for English lessons.
The school department being unable to furnish a teacher for the summer, the class is meeting at the institute with Miss Howell as teacher. The class has presented the institute with a fine map of Portugal and her possessions and with a year's subscription to their leading newspaper. They have also presented the public library with a year's subscription to this paper.Miss Kolanik, the Polish worker, is now assisting the Red Cross at Camp Devens with non-English speaking soldiers at the base hospital.The Phi Alpha Alpha club is paying for a bed for needy Greek people at the Lowell General Hospital. The girls are also helping needy families of the community and have given generously to the fund for war widows. This club is awake to the needs of the community and is trying to help constructively.

Makes Life Worth Living

You cannot be Constipated and happy at the same time. If almost everything you eat distresses you, and brings on a headache, gas on the stomach, heartburn, etc., you can easily eliminate these conditions by taking SEVEN BARKS, the favorite root and herb remedy for stomach disorders.SEVEN BARKS will expel the distressing acids, and dangerous poisons, and help you back to good digestion and active health, making life worth living again.Do you sleep well or are you troubled with almost sleepless nights?
While there are many causes for sleeplessness, it generally happens that diseased stomach, liver or intestines are the real cause of the trouble. If your appetite is not good, or food disagrees with you, or the bowels do not move daily, you can get quick relief from these disagreeable conditions by simply taking 10 to 20 drops of SEVEN BARKS in a little water after meals. This is nature's remedy, made from the extracts of Root and Herbs, has stood the test for nearly 50 years, and will certainly give you a feeling of new life.If you would have the glow of health, and banish the blues, don't neglect to ask your druggist for SEV-EN BARKS. Costs but 50 cents.—Adv.

Quarter Century Ago

Just 25 years ago, June 13, the first gypsy moth appeared in this part of the state. It had located on the farm of Henry Call in Billerica and had a number of family connections which have multiplied at such amazing speed during the quarter century period that the gypsy moth has already become a sort of institution. There are a great many men employed in its extermination who would be very sorry if the pest should move to some more hospitable clime. The reason is, that these men—moth hunters all—would soon find their occupation gone.

Manual Training Exhibits

Manual training was first introduced into the schools of Lowell in 1893.
According to the old Sun an exhibit of the work was held in Huntington hall quarter of a century ago. From the old Sun, the following is taken relative to some of the exhibits:

"Perhaps the best exhibition in point of workmanship, neatness and finish was the tool chest made by C. Frank Dupue of the Moody school. Others who exhibited tool chests were Eddie McHugh, Bartlett school; Willie Henderson, Bartlett school; Arthur Strout, Varnum school; Claud Coburn, Green school."Music cabinets were exhibited by Dennis Harrington, Green school; Tom O'Donnell, Bartlett school; Walter Ring, Waller Edgell and Edward Francis, Moody school, and J. Richardson, Pawtucket school."Herbert Lewis, Highland school, and Walter Benoit, Varnum school, showed small bureaus, while Ernest Strout, Varnum school, exhibited a white cabinet of difficult construction.

Willie Keyes, Bartlett school, and Dennis Healey exhibited wall cabinets. A bookcase was shown by Henry Farrin, Highland school, and a writing desk by Henry Peabody, Edson school. John Lewis, Varnum

LADY LOOKABOUT

Time after time during the past couple of weeks, I have seen automobiles loaded with great branches of beautiful white laurel. Sometimes a whole tree of it could be seen waving out over the back of the car. Does it not seem a pity to so ruthlessly hack down and destroy this plant? Just as the trailing arbutus is becoming extinct, so will a few more years of the present method of gathering laurel bring the extinction of that beautiful shrub. Just as pleading notices are placed about, asking persons not to pull up the roots when gathering arbutus, so will such notices be placed about asking consideration in gathering laurel. It is the same old story of locking the stable after the horse has been stolen.

Elephants Use Powder

At the circus the other night, I saw elephant after elephant take up a trunkful of fine dust and powder himself generously.

"The nasty things," I heard, from over my shoulder.

Looking around, I noticed the speaker was a woman whose face was thickly covered with talcum. It set me thinking. Does it you?

For Combination Schools

The legislative committee of the Middlesex Women's club is lending its support to the bill soon to come before state legislature for the mandatory support of continuation schools in every community where there may be one hundred or more pupils. As the law now stands the support of these schools is permissive. The Federation of Women's clubs, numbering 300,000 women, is working to make the schools mandatory. It is most fitting that the women of the state should urge this legislation, as it affects all working boys and girls under 18 years of age who have less than an eighth grade education. This is considered the minimum of education which any man or woman should have. The main opposition is in regard to the expense involved, an expense which the state should not consider in the light of the asset an educated man or woman becomes.

Ratifying Suffrage Amendment

Should Massachusetts fail to ratify the Susan B. Anthony amendment, or should the state legislature so long defer ratification that the action should be superfluous, the women of Massachusetts have every reason forever to feel keenly disappointed in the commonwealth. The amendment needs the ratification of only three-fourths of the states. The other one-fourth may object most strenuously. It will avail them nothing. At the present writing the amendment needs the ratification of only six more states. To those of us who hopefully looked to our own state for early and favorable action, it is beginning to look as though Massachusetts may fail us. Unless she become one of the six remaining states now needed, her approval or disapproval will avail her nothing. Always there has been a strange reluctance on the part of our legislators to give favorable attention to the question of equal suffrage. One representative interviewed within a short time declared that he himself was most strongly inclined toward equal suffrage, but his constituents were most unfavorable. I should think the legislators would feel chagrined to think that in the end their approval or lack of it may be immaterial. Better jump on the band wagon while it is passing, boys!

Riding on the Jitters

It wouldn't be safe for me to put into print my opinion of the man who invented strikes. I should be arrested at once and looked up. This cessation of street car traffic may be a strike and it may not be a strike. The distinction is too nice for my poor head, besides to me, a rose is any other name you know how it goes. My attitude toward the suspension of the street cars has undergone a distinct change from day to day. At first my walking was a lark. I was good-natured about it and so was every other pedestrian on the road last Monday. When I could not be waited on at noon that day in a down town lunch room, my spirits fell a little, but not much. After I had gone home that afternoon and had attended the circus in the evening, I was ready to retire to my couch and sleep the sleep of the just. The next day I was pretty tired when I awoke. Again I walked and the feeling of elation of the previous morning was followed by one of righteous indignation. My fatigue made me feel cross. I began to think about my rights, and when a woman begins to think about her rights, she is in a dangerous mood. Look out for her. The third day rolled around. Aching and weary, I arose. This day I began to pity myself. I was the victim of something too great for me. I set out on my long walk. Then, wonder of wonders, a man whom I did not know asked me to ride, and against all my rules of conduct regard-

SUNSHADES FOR SUMMERTIME!

BY BETTY BROWN

NEW YORK, June 21.—This summer's sunshades are about as the flowers of the field for variety and beauty. Japanese and Chinese effects are first in favor. Flat topped, dome or pagoda shapes with short handles, beautifully tipped, are conspicuous in all the New York shops given to these important accessories and the majority of them are many-ribbed and perhaps a trifle larger than in former years. They run the gamut from the delicately beautiful to the daring and bizarre, but they are all interesting, every last one of them.

The chiffon and silk ones are mostly dome shaped and hand painted in pretty Watteau effects or printed in great pompous flower patterns that show faintly through chiffon linings. Some have oddly-shaped bonnets that look like little hats and some are all lace—Princesse, Brussels or Chantilly, with a frill falling over the edges.

GRACE AND BEAUTY FOR GIRL WHO SWIMS

The Sun has secured from Marjorie Breckenridge, famous swimming instructor of the Y.W.C.A., a series of six signed articles, written exclusively for this paper, on swimming for girls. Miss Breckenridge is holder of the world's lifesaving alliance emblem. Her first article follows:

There is no doubt that women and girls are taking an increased interest in swimming. This is true of all sports to some extent, but the water sports hold first place. The reason for this is that girls find they can equal men in swimming and at times outdo them as they cannot in any other sport. The girl who can swim out to the farthest raft and do a fine high dive makes a pretty good pal on summer outings. Besides all the pleasure gained from swimming, there is also the benefit to health and good looks.

To swim to health and beauty is no idle saying. A vigorous swim sends the blood racing through your body and away go all the bad effects of a sluggish circulation. The great amount of leg action helps the digestive organs in their very important work. Wrinkles and ugly blotches on the skin disappear because these organs are functioning correctly. Even taking a shower soothes the nerves, and a swim does much more. Worried frowns and discontented mouths become beautiful with smiles if you only swim regularly. No swimmer ever has trouble with sleeplessness; she just can't keep awake.

Swimming Mastery Means Grace, Poise and Perfect Muscular Control

gains in their very important work. Wrinkles and ugly blotches on the skin disappear because these organs are functioning correctly. Even taking a shower soothes the nerves, and a swim does much more. Worried frowns and discontented mouths become beautiful with smiles if you only swim regularly. No swimmer ever has trouble with sleeplessness; she just can't keep awake.

The greatest advantage of swimming as an exercise for women is that it does not require a great deal of strength. Large, disagreeable muscles are not developed; but instead, beautiful, smoothly working ones. The crawl stroke will develop the muscles of the shoulders and chest and keep the waist and hips small. If you swim a hundred yards using the crawl and have your breath at the end you are prepared for an unusual physical effort.

Every girl swimmer should find out just what her physical weakness is, and then use the particular stroke that will help her. Those with weak backs ought to learn the back stroke. After doing it for six months they have more faith in their own backs than in their corsets. Those who wish to gain more grace and poise, should learn the side stroke. The long, slow arm movement, the scissor kick, the relaxed body and perfect balance during the long glide between strokes all help to gain these ends. The muscles are normally developed and controlled, and that means a marked increase in gracefulness. Walking and dancing will be better than ever. The control of muscles is made even more keen by diving. To be able to control arms and legs while upside down is an accomplishment indeed.

To gain all these benefits a girl must swim regularly and vigorously. A swim every day means lovely rounded muscles, a clear skin, a body that moves with grace and a smile that will let you in anywhere.

GUARDING JESS' LARDER

Toledo Mother and Daughter Cook For Willard and His Assistants

Mrs. M. J. Robinson is a fine cook. So is her daughter, Mrs. Bessie Cron-

haugh. Jess Willard says—and he should know. In a big stone house, flanked and faced by other homes, substantial looking structures, that mark what most Toledoans concede is the best real estate section of their city, the champion is training—and dieting for his big argument with Jack Dempsey on July Fourth. Food—the right kind, the right amount, and rightly prepared and served—is a marvelously important item for a champion or any one else, who wants to bring himself up to the physical and mental perfection mark. So Jess retained "Mother" Robinson and her daughter to cook this right kind of food for him, as almost the first step after he landed in Toledo to begin his training. "Don't stint" was almost his daily instruction. No matter how big a man is, he should—hesitate—and usually does—to swerve from his chosen field (or ring, as it chances to be) to instruct an artist, be it of the kitchen or elsewhere, outside his own realm.

But "don't stint" was made a hard and fast rule. No matter how strictly the champion must diet, he must have muscle-building, sustaining food, and so must the other members of his party.

For instance, some days when Jess Willard, Ray Archer, his business manager, and Jack Hempel and Walter Monaghan, his sparring partners, sit down at the dinner table, that table is crowned with an inch-thick steak, broiled after this fashion:

Lay the steak on a buttered gridiron, to follow Mrs. Robinson's instructions. Turn it often as it begins to drip. Do not season until done. Put pepper and salt on both sides. Put pepper and salt on the steak to a warm platter. Spread a liberal amount of butter over it, and serve at once. (Best corner the champion first, that it may be served at once.)

Okra Soup. "Bessie, I wish you'd look in the oldest cook-book and find that okra soup recipe—you know, the rich one, the gumbo."

WELL, ANYWAY, THERE'S ALWAYS THE OCEAN WHEN THE LAND GOES DRY

They should worry about the country going dry! There's always the ocean, you know—plenty of it, with a good head of foam.

It's the innocent bystander that'll have to do the worrying, more'n likely. Because it's just as Tom Duff says—you know Tom, over in the comic strip; Tom says the government will probably charge a luxury tax to sit on the beaches this summer.

But at that, it's going to be worth it, especially in Los Angeles, where they've taken the censorship off what the mermaids put on to keep from getting sunburned.

After years of interference in the matter of bathing suits and an al-

tempt to make propriety depend upon the number of stripes on a stocking the city fathers have finally decided to let bathers dress as they please.

For results nola picture above. "Little grains of water, little drops of sand, make the ocean pleasant and—!" We seem to be a little rusty on our poetry—but you know what we mean.

Anyway, somebody's always putting the joy back into life!

won't let us economize. Many days our grocery bill is $20; and it will usually run over $100 a week. But no matter how substantial a meal is, he always likes a soup to begin with. This is one of his favorites:

Fry out the fat of a slice of bacon or fat ham. Drain it off, and in it fry brown the slices of a large onion. Scald, peel, and cut up enough fresh tomatoes to make two quarts. Cut thin one quart of okra, and put the ingredients together, with a little chopped parsley, in a stew kettle. Cover with about three quarts of hot broth of any kind. Cook slowly for three hours, season with salt and pepper, and serve hot.

Salad and Rhubarb Pie

Back in Lawrence, Kansas, Jess Willard's wife, a little dark-haired woman, has charge of a garden which she farms, herself—a garden larger than four city lots. He says she used to keep chickens, too. They got into her garden and ate up corn and tomatoes—then she sold the chickens.

Farm life is in high favor with the Willard family, evidently. In fact, one of the champion's avowed ambitions is to make Jess, Jr., a farmer instead of a prize fighter. Another ambition, by the way, he says, is to "just live and enjoy life." And he and Mrs. Willard and their five children seem to do just that on their Kansas farm.

One of his favorite salads is a cabbage salad made this way:

Shred one head of new cabbage. Put with it two small tomatoes diced, a small onion, diced, and a small sweet green pepper. Make a dressing of a half cupful of olive oil, a half cupful of sugar, half cupful of vinegar, a teaspoonful of salt, and two tablespoonfuls of prepared mustard. Blend these together and pour over the salad. Serve on lettuce leaves, garnished with rings of sweet green peppers.

Here is the pie that brings a small boy grin in the champion's face:

Cut the large stalks of rhubarb off where the leaves begin, then strip off the outside skin, and cut in half-inch long pieces. Line a pie dish with rich dough, and put in the rhubarb. Put on a cupful of sugar, and a sprinkling of flour, and cover with a layer of pie dough. Bake in a moderate oven until the pie loosens from the dish.

WOMAN WORKER

"Study Firm's Business Methods"—Mill Expert

SAN FRANCISCO, June 21.—Because Miss Hermine Knur sought and assumed duties her position as stenographer did not demand, she is today a woman of importance in the business world, with a corresponding salary.

Five years ago she took the job as stenographer with a big flour company. She filled the bill to a nicety and earned every cent of her salary. She might have "soldiered" about the office half the day when her duties were done; but she didn't.

She studied wheat, flour milling and disposition of the finished product. When the war came on and Uncle Sam's food dictator limited the quan-

KELLARSTONE BEING USED ON MANY HOMES

The firm of Mendlik Brothers, whose place of business is at 1515 Middlesex street, contractors for all kinds of stucco, composition and mastic floorings as well as for the kellarstone imperishable stucco for the exterior and interior of houses and in fact all kinds of buildings, is having its hands full this summer and is employing several crews of men to do this kind of work which of course calls for workmanship of the most skilled kind.

The former method in building a house was to do of course frame it, board it, put on building paper, clapboard, and then of course paint at least two or more coats. The kellarstone process, however, saves a great deal of expense over this old style of building for, after the frame is up, kellarstone can be applied after the metal expanded laths is nailed on. Kellarstone obviously needs no painting. After it is on the side of the building, in its appearance and durability it is the equivalent or better of brick or stone construction. To put this material on the cost is about 37 cents per square yard and at this price it is by all odds the cheapest and at the same time the most durable method of siding in a building. Added to this is of course the fact that no other building on a given street where a kellarstone house is to be seen is of any better appearance and, in fact, few equal a kellarstone house in general appearance.

STANDARD BOTTLING EXPECTS BIG SALES

Within a comparatively few days now the importance of the bottled products turned out by the Standard Bottling company at its famous Mt. Pleasant Spring bottling plant will materially increase, due of course to the dawning of the war-time bone dry era.

This company manufactures ginger ale and different flavored beverages. Besides selling drinks of better than the average quality, the consuming public should bear it in mind when thinking of buying such beverages, that Standard Bottling company uses, as the foundation of its beverages, a spring water that by analysis is shown to have very nearly the same remarkable mineral and other properties that have been so long exploited by the owners of the famous Poland Spring water at Poland Spring, Maine.

STIRLING MILLS ARE RUNNING FULL SPEED

Business is booming at the plant of the Stirling mills company in Lawrence street and Manager Royal White reports there is a good volume of orders in hand and more orders being received every day. This company manufactures a particularly high grade of woolen fabric to be made up into suits for men and women. Stirling cloth is really a nationally known name among makers of the best suits, and has been so known for nearly fifty years. The general run of men and women who recognize the best value in clothing recognize that nothing can exceed the wearing qualities and the quality of holding shape in a garment, like genuine wool fabric. It is no wonder then that the Stirling mills, making clothing according to a tradition of honor and with harmonious and pleasant relations between employer and workers obtaining, are enjoying the good run of business being experienced at the present time.

What better food can you use in your home than bread made from milk and the very highest grade flour? Our Milk Loaf is this kind of bread, and manufactured as it is, under the very best conditions and from the very best known methods, it is the best loaf of bread.

JUST SIGHT OF "LITTLE MOTHERS" OUGHT TO MAKE SICK SOLDIER WELL

Wouldn't it just make any ill or wounded soldier feel better to have one of these charming young women come to the hospital and ask for him? That's the theory on which the "Little Mothers" are working. And so they are telling mothers throughout America to send the name and hospital address of any soldier son who may be in one of the debarcation hospitals about New York city and the "Little Mothers" will call and provide reading matter and amusement and write a letter each week for the hospital-bound soldier. The girls in the group who are leaders in the "Little Mothers" movement are, left to right, Beatrice Hughes, Lillian White and Hilah Reeden.

WILL OPEN FOUR DAY CELEBRATION

The First Presbyterian church of this city will open its four-day celebration of its semi-centennial at the Sunday services tomorrow, but the principal observance will come on Monday, the day on which the date falls. The service tomorrow morning will be conducted by Rev. David S. Kennedy, father of the present pastor, while Rev. J. E. Kennedy who now holds the pastorate will preach at the evening service.

Monday, June 23, is the semi-centennial proper, and a special service commemorating the day will be held at 7:30 o'clock in the evening, to which the greetings of the community will be brought by Mayor Perry D. Thompson, of the Federation of Churches by Rev. A. G. Lyon and from the Presbytery of Newburyport by Stated Clerk Rev. A. McD. McPherson. The pastor emeritus, Rev. Mr. Craig, will also give greetings, and the pastor, Rev. Mr. Kennedy, will give the semi-centennial address.

Tuesday, June 24, will be hearth and home day, and will be a reunion of the church. It will take place at 8 o'clock in the evening, and there will be a supper for communicant members.

On Wednesday, June 25, at 3 p. m. the Bible school will give the pageant, "The Organization of the First Presbyterian Church of Lowell." This pageant will really be a history of the church.

THE BALE OF COTTON PLANE IS READY

The De-Haviland Liberty plane which is to be used in the proposed flight from Georgia to Lowell in the transportation of a bale of cotton between the dates of June 21 and 23, today and Monday, has had a successful trial "hop" and is said to be ready for the cross country jaunt. The start will be made from Southern Field, Americus, Ga. The board of trade committee on landing fields has made no public report of the spot selected for a landing field here, but it is presumed a field will be chosen and adequately marked for identification by the pilot before he arrives. It must by necessity be a good sized field, for a D-II Four lands fast and would roll right across a small area.

These Firms Have Proved It

GIRL GRADUATE SEEKING HER FIRST JOB

How well am I qualified?
What do I lack?
What's the cash value of my schooling?

Thousands of girl graduates, seeking or finding their first job, are today asking themselves these vital questions as they face commencement in the business world.

Their talents, wit, training and ordinary "horse sense" are being tested and judged.

Many of them are finding, with some hesitations, that there is a considerable gap between what they are able to deliver technically and what additional merit is required in the worth while position.

Responsibility for this gap is variously laid to business colleges, the general school system, employers of a certain class, parents, and the girl herself.

Wherever the bulk of the blame may rest, the average girl on the threshold of the workaday world is apt to find that the human qualities which back up and round out technical excellence are rated at a higher cash value than mere knowledge of business practice or speed in typing.

The attitude of many employers, here and elsewhere, is summed up in this connection in the following paragraphs by W. S. Owensby, chief clerk, western division, of the Western Union Telegraph company, and employment expert, in answer to the question: "What is the matter with the girl graduate as a business investment?"

"Most of all," explained Owensby, "we want thoroughness, loyalty, ambition, initiative and just ordinary 'savvy'—the human and moral qualities which too many schools either do not or cannot teach.

"Generally girls applying for jobs are all right on theory and technique, but many of them haven't been taught discipline, business stamina and a fundamental understanding of what business is about and what part they are expected to play in it if they're to succeed.

"The average graduate seems to fear responsibility. And where there's little responsibility there's little pay.

"Most business colleges over-stress speed, at the expense of thoroughness. Consequently, we often find the fastest worker actually the poorest and most costly—too often a brainless machine pounding out errors. Far more adjustment period between the time she graduates and the time she can command a good salary."

The head of one of the largest vocational training schools in the country believes that no business college graduate should be encouraged to accept a job for less than $50 to $70 per month.

"Tell penurious employers to look elsewhere," is his advice.

"Another great handicap in preparing girls for a business career is the failure of the father to concern himself in their education. It is a grave mistake for him to leave the cultural and practical development of his daughter entirely to the mother. He should constantly give her the benefits of his own experience and observation, saying that not over 33 per cent of the strictly farming towns in his state got any benefit under the clause which does not permit it to be expended in towns of over 2500 people. He served notice that as a member of the appropriation committee, he should next year bring the matter to its attention and predicted that unless a fairer distribution was made the appropriation would be cut down. He showed that at present the lion's share of the appropriation goes to the sparsely settled sections of the south and west, while the heaviest taxpayers are found in New England.

Changes Come Quickly

It is entirely useless to even comment on current events. Only those of the past furnish safe anchorage so quickly do conditions change. What was a reasonable forecast at sundown is entirely out of date at sunrise. Take the treaty investigation for instance. Before the newspapermen could get a fairly good round-up of its strongest points the Knox resolution to separate the treaty from the league had put the nose of the investigation entirely out of joint. And it's the same with all the big issues now before congress.

No Tariff This Session

Apparently the republicans do not intend to tinker with the tariff at the special session. They will take up the railroad bill and a series of long hearings before the interstate commerce committee will probably follow, during which time a series of three day recesses will be taken, in order to give time for such hearings and for the senate to catch up in the work, as well as to discuss the peace treaty and matters connected with it.

Officials Shifting Quarters

May Day moving did not end with June. During the democratic control all chairmanships went to democrats and with them went the biggest and most convenient offices. Republicans, no matter how prominent, had to be content with small quarters and a long run from office to house. Only Uncle Joe Cannon and a few others of great note were exceptions to this rule. The incoming republican control brought a complete upheaval. To the victors belong the spoils of big committee rooms, the best furniture and the biggest corps of clerks. Democrats were ousted from their strongholds just as they in turn had ousted the republicans several years ago when the turnover in party leadership struck congress. And though the session is now a month old, men with their arms full of papers, little trucks and push carts with rubber tires, piled high with books, small boys and big negroes have toiled congressional belongings back and forth through the great marble corridors of the senate and house office buildings.

Committee chairmen have two or three rooms at their disposal, and the men who slept down and out from chairmanships now find themselves in one small office while the former ranking member of the committee has exchanged his former hall bedroom quarters for the three-room suite. But it's one of the fortunes of politics and everyone takes his portion with a smile.

RICHARDS.

BACHELDER'S WHEELS AID STRIKE VICTIMS

The tie-up of street car traffic in this city through the strike of the street carmen has caused many inconveniences to residents of Lowell as some had to walk to their work and others were forced to remain at home because of lack of transportation. There was one class of people who were indifferent and it was the one made up of persons who own bicycles. Profit by the lesson and call at George H. Bachelder's place of business at 5 and 7 Postoffice Avenue and select the wheel that suits you best. Mr. Bachelder is also agent for a motorcycle of wide reputation and deals in incandescent gas lamps as well as motorcycles and bicycle appliances.

A German military observation tower of unique design has been sent to Frankford arsenal for study by experts. Composed principally of steel tubing about 15 inches in diameter, the tower has a height of 90 feet when fully extended, but telescopes into a section which is easily carried on an army truck. The observer, protected by a shield, sits comfortably at the base and views the terrain through a series of lenses and mirrors.

The Walsh bill creates bureaus with chiefs to specifically care for the various divisions mentioned.

This would mean the abolition of the shipping board and the creation of a shipping bureau. In commenting on his bill Mr. Walsh said: "I believe the shipping and fisheries interests will be of such magnitude after the war that their administration will require a cabinet officer who has not the other board duties to attend to as exists in the departments already created. active steps to prevent the abandonment of the army hospital at Brookline, on the ground that if that is not in commission there is no place in New England where the sick and wounded boys from that section of the country can be cared for without entailing a long journey for their families and friends. The war department has stated to Mr. Treadway that in case the Brookline hospital is closed New York city or Plattsburg will be the nearest available hospitals. The war department announces that the bodies of all soldiers can be later brought home, at the request of families but at the same time congress is making generous provision to care for the bodies overseas by appropriating a sum of $500,000 for establishment of a great American cemetery in France.

State Normal School Continued

This city, Lawrence, Haverhill, Cambridge, Somerville, and other neighboring communities were present and the various classes had little runlons of their own preceding the presentation of the pageant.

The pageant was presented on the school campus in the rear of the building and the natural setting was most appropriate for the affair. "In the Dawn" was the title of the spectacle and it was suggested by a poem written by Odell Shepard after the signing of the armistice. The setting was a classical hall of victory and its arrangement was most commendable.

Greek goddesses are posed in the hall and in the foreground are representatives of various allied nations rejoicing at the signing of the armistice. Various songs of the allied nations are sung reaching a climax in "The Star Spangled Banner."

Various events of recent world history were portrayed in the progress of the pageant and some of the tableaux were most beautiful.

The U. S. Cartridge Co. band furnished music this afternoon and following the pageant gave an excellent concert. Later a community sing was held with the Normal school's "own Mr. Brown" directing. At 5 o'clock luncheon was served and an hour later the usual business session was held. The evening will be given over to vaudeville entertainment by alumnae talent.

The committee in charge of the reunion was as follows:

WILL "EQUAL DRESS FOR WOMEN" SAVE SOULS?

BY REV. DR. STRATON
New York Pastor

So long as I am able to preach from a pulpit I shall try to rouse public opinion to the social harm which is brought about by the extravagant and immodest fashions of women.

When all good women adopt modest apparel and stop painting their faces the cure will logically be effected. When the national spirit of unselfishness spreads to women's minds as it already has to their hearts, they will see it is immoral to cater to the coarser instinct of men.

The reform cannot come through men. The American man is too indulgent to his womenfolk to deny them any luxury in his power to give. He is usually ignorant of women's fashions. I call upon the American woman to do justice to her best self in evolving an American style which shall be beautiful, modest, comfortable and disunited.

Some years ago I thought the tailor-made suit which practically all our women adopted for the street was a perfect garment. It is a great pity it was not longer lived.

The low collar is all right. I do not want women to look ugly. Quite the contrary. It is every woman's duty to be as attractive as she can.

No dress that hobbles the feet is anything but against God's natural laws. It is monstrous.

A girl does not need to surrender her soul nor cause a man to surrender his in order to be attractive in a ballroom or anywhere else. Fashion, within bounds, has a useful mission. Buy in the ballroom, as upon the street or in the home or office, a woman's thought should be not how far can she tempt man, but how far can she attract them by her purity and feminine grace.

New York can go ahead with her "cabarets," her "Bal Bleu," her "Midnight Frolics," her "imported English and French stage beauties," her bedroom plays, where the main feature is lingerie, her neglect of the church, her secularizing the Lord's day, her half-dressed women, and her pagan winking and dining; but she will have to pay the piper for all of these things! She will have to reap the harvest from such godless and sinful sowing.

The Rev. John Straton says modern woman's dress lures men into sin. The actress, Ruth Terry, says "Nope! Only lures 'em to matrimony."

CLOTHES! PULPIT VS. STAGE

Says the Preacher:

Wear these to look pure and feminine!
Plain, inexpensive sailor hat, plain linen blouse, modest V-neck, tailored skirt, two yards wide and ankle length, round-toed, flat-heeled shoes.

Says the Actress:

Chic, picturesque hats, soft, thin, and attractive to men!
Chic, picturesque hats, soft, thin, fluffy blouses, with collars as low as the beauty of the neck suggests, skirts of the prevailing mode, whether tight or wide, short or long, the prettiest shoes and slippers to be had!

BY RUTH TERRY

Playing in "I Love You"

Pushing forward the millennium by reforming and standardizing women's dress is a favorite pastime of men. Only somehow it never gets accomplished.

If men would pay more attention to their own morals and cease to blame women for everything that goes wrong—as they have done since the memorable event recorded as having happened in the Garden of Eden—more good might come of it.

Modesty does not consist in the kind, quality or style of clothes, but in personality.

I dare to differ with the Rev. Dr. Straton. I think modern women's clothes are for the most part beautiful and attractive and quite modest. I don't agree that the "C-front-V-back" thin waist, or the chic hat should be abolished and women standardized like so many pins in a row.

This thing of "arousing the baser instincts of man" that Dr. Straton talks about, is a convenient excuse for putting the blame for immorality on woman. Women are bound to be attractive to men. How else would they win mates? And is it not the duty of women, as the conservator and perpetuator of the race to win a mate if she can?

Instead of rousing "baser instincts" the display of women's charms usually and naturally results in arousing in man a desire to take a woman to his wedded wife, to establish a home, and make her the mother of his children.

Women are of just two kinds: those who want to attract men and those who do not want to attract them. The first kind use clothes—consciously or unconsciously—to help with the attracting. And they ought to do it.

Women are doing their best now, consciously or unconsciously, to get the world back to normal again. The war is over; women feel it, they are glad of it. They want to put the dear, old beautiful, perhaps wicked—but enjoyable world back on its feet again. They are striving to be beautiful, to attract, to be constructive, to re-build things—the race among other things. Why shouldn't they? It's a woman's job. That peace, and love and beauty, and sentiment and romance shall come back into the world—that is what women ought to do. And if clothes will help—why we'll use them, preachers or no preachers!

Doings of the Screen Artists

The first opal to be mined in Australia after the cessation of hostilities has been sent as a gift to Naomi Childers, who plays a prominent part in the Geraldine Farrar production now under way at the Goldwyn studios. The stone is a gift from a New York newspaperman "over there," and was personally brought to the actress recently by a returned overseas doughboy, who presented it with the donor's compliments.

Madeline Travers is making "Until Eternity" under the direction of Harry Millarde. In the cast are Tom Santachi, Frank Leigh, Beatrice Laplante and Jack Nelson.

Evelyn Nesbit, who has just completed a Fox contract has not yet decided what she will do. She stated recently that she has received an offer to go to London to appear in productions for an English company, and that she has also received an offer from an American company. However, it is quite certain that she will take a two months' rest before doing any picture work at all.

Upon the completion of "High Speed," starring Tom Mix, Edward LeSaint will start work on "A Hard-boiled Tenderfoot," for Mix, written by Tom himself.

Marguerite Clark, following a short rest at Palm Springs, Cal., has commenced work at the Hollywood studios on her new Paramount picture, "Widow By Proxy," adapted from Catherine Chisholm. Cushing's play which served as a starring vehicle for May Irwin some years ago. Nigel Barrie, recently of the Canadian army, will play the male lead.

Elsie Bartlett, known to movie fans throughout the country as the "Paramount Flagg Girl," through her work in James Montgomery Flagg comedies, will shortly forsake the legitimate stage in order to resume her motion picture career. Miss Bartlett, whose last screen appearance was in the leading role of the Flagg comedy picture, "Con and Economy," is said to be negotiating with a prominent producer with a view to starring in a series of feature productions.

Hallam Cooley, the handsome young actor who was proclaimed by Rex Beach as the perfect screen type, has been cast to play a prominent part with Mabel Normand in her new Goldwyn production. He will portray a sort of male vampire, and it is a regular occurrence nowadays to see him in the studio barber shop having his mustache waxed.

Albert Ray and Roxanna MacGowan were married recently. On that date his first release was issued by Fox, entitled "Married in Haste."

It has been announced that Mrs. Sydney Drew will continue to make two-reel Paramount-Drew comedies.

for the V. E. K. Film corporation. As in the past Mrs. Drew will prepare her own working scenarios and will direct the comedies in person.

Fritzi Brunette was injured last week when she was working in a scene with Big Mitchell Lewis and a massive door fell on her. She received a scalp wound that had to be stitched and held up the work of the picture half the day. It also caused the director to delay finishing scenes in that set because Fritzie could not comb her hair for 10 days while the wound was healing.

Pretty Ethnor Fair is quite a gifted little maiden. She studied to be a musician, but a famous teacher in Paris told her she should become a singer instead. Ethnor took up voice culture quite seriously—until well, the screen allures us all. However, she still sings, and some day she may sing and act in musical comedy.

Although work on Norma Talmadge's forthcoming Sciencet Picture, "The Way of a Woman," is practically completed, the retaking of several important scenes and the addition of two new names to the cast delayed the announcement of the complete personnel of Miss Talmadge's company until the present time. Her support in this production will be Conway Tearle, Gertrude Berkeley, Colonel Verdon, Mae McAvoy, George La Guerre, William Humphreys and Stuart Holmes.

Beatrice Joy, the girl who supported William Farnum in "The Man Hunter" and who is now appearing in stock at San Diego, says that when she first went on the stage she was so frightened that if she had castanets tied to her knees she would have been a regular Spanish band.

It is now definitely announced by Cecil B. DeMille that Thomas Meighan will play the title role in Mr. DeMille's Arctur version of Sir James M. Barrie's satirical play, "The Admirable Crichton" which, however, will probably not be released under that title. Elliott Dexter, originally slated to play the title role of Crichton, was taken ill, with a nervous breakdown, a short time ago and is unable to play the part. Gloria Swanson will play the feminine lead, and Lila Lee will also have a good part.

Vitaphone announces "Beauty Proof" as its next photodrama, starring Harry Murray. It was written by James Oliver Curwood and deals with one of those strange, relentless man-hunts undertaken by the Northwest Mounted Police.

One of the most enjoyable features promised in connection with "Oh, Boy," Albert Capellani's "Pleasant Comedy," co-starring Creighton Hale and June Caprice, will be the appearance of a bevy of peaches recruited by Mr. Capellani from various Broadway musical comedy shows.

Lillian Walker is Warren Kerrigan's new leading lady.

Mabel Taliaferro has been granted a divorce from Thomas Carrigan.

GREAT SUMMER BILL AT THE STRAND—MANAGEMENT TO GIVE AWAY SHETLAND-PONY

Some theatres close for the summer season. Others cut their program down one-half, but The Strand, instead of doing either, goes the other way. It gives a bigger and better bill than ever. That's why every one favors Lowells biggest, best, coolest and most comfortable theatre.

What do you think of our latest feature? Read it and judge for yourself. The management is to give away, absolutely free, to the most popular boy or girl of Lowell and suburbs, a handsome, live Shetland pony. A cowboy outfit! Think of it! Given away absolutely free!

Beginning Monday every purchaser of a ticket will receive a coupon, and the boy or girl receiving the largest number will be awarded the pony and outfit. Every boy and girl of Lowell and vicinity is eligible for the prize. It's open to all. The way to win this wonderful offer is to get all your friends, relatives and their friends, to club together and work for the biggest total number of votes. It's a dandy prize and a dandy pony. Won't the others be envious when they see you win it? Have your friends save their votes. The offerer they visit the theatre, the surer you are of winning the little equine beauty. So tell everyone you know and urge them to be constant patrons of The Strand. The contest will continue for some weeks during the summer. All contestants may give their names in at the box office and the leaders will be announced from week to week. It looks like a lively time for all. Get started early and get the edge on the others.

The sacred concert for Sunday includes the following vaudeville acts: The Four McDonalds, instrumentalists; Knowles & Roberts, comedy singing and talking; Barton & Willis, general entertainers; Billy Raymond and Gertrude Breena, vocalists. The feature picture will be Corinne Griffith in "Miss Ambition."

"The Fear Woman" is Pauline Frederick's third Goldwyn offering of real merit. The new vehicle presents the star in a modern psychological study, replete with dramatic situations which increase in intensity up to a final smashing climax. In this offering the exceptionally gifted star plays the difficult role of a young woman who has grown, flowerlike to maturity, only to discover that a horrible weakness has afflicted every member of her family for generations past. How the unsuspecting girl meets this disclosure; how she is overcome by the sudden fear that she may become a victim of the curse her fight against this possibility and the more subtle terror lest she may never rise above its shadow are portrayed by Miss Frederick with characteristic forcefulness. She receives the support of a competent cast.

Bessie Love up to the filming of "The Little Boss" could ride a horse and a bike and swim and do everything an athletic girl is supposed to do. And now she is a little less just like a lumberjack, and she's proud of the fact. "The Little Boss" gives her the role of a little camp boss, and during its filming the director took the whole company to a camp among the giant Redwoods of California, where the scenes were filmed with beautiful effect. An actor named Sussie Love saves the life of a city chap who has fallen from a log. She does this most expertly, as well as many other daring things. The action of the story is fast and there are several comedy reliefs, especially when she goes to the city to get an education, so that the city can fall in love with this modern female. It's said to be a great picture.

A Vitaphone comedy and the latest weekly bill help round an exceptional bill, and Miss Margaret McDonough, the soloist for the week, is sure of making one of the real hits of the program. She will be heard in a new brace of song hits.

Sessue Hayakawa, the popular Japanese star, is equally at home on the cinder path or golf links as before the camera. As Suki in "The Courageous Coward," he exhibits perfect form in driving off and following up. The story of the picture play is gripping. They called Suki a weak-kneed coward and said the gun-men had bluffed him into dropping the prosecution of the accused murderer. But Suki could not betray the man he thought his sweet-heart loved, and so bore the stigma of a coward. A romance of the underworld of Chinatown, where love, murder and the fantastic orgies of the notorious Barbary Coast are woven into a gripping drama is told in wonderful manner. It's one of the best things on the bill for the last three days of the week.

Civilized woman refuses to wear nose rings. They are badge of slavery. But still civilized woman wears the wedding ring, which has the same significance as the savage woman's nose ring. Divorce makes it possible for civilized woman to cast off this little band of bondage. Sometimes she is forced to cast it off against her will, because divorce laws are such that the husband can frame charges against the woman he no longer loves. Thus Gladys Brockwell is caught in "The Divorce Trap," a sensational William Fox production which is coming during the week end. But because she is a good woman she succeeds in finding happiness in spite of her husband's wickedness and crooked friends. The story is said to be a very strong one.

A new Tom Mix comedy—one of those rip-roarin' kind—will be shown, as well as a new Weekly and new song numbers by Miss McDonough. Don't forget that 10 cents seat at all times. The Strand is the "coolest spot in town."

FIRE SUNDAY CONCERT WITH EXCELLENT SURROUNDING PROGRAM AT MERRIMACK

George Behan in "The Widow's Mite," and Bessie Love in "How Could You, Caroline?" will be the featured attractions at the sacred concert to be presented at the Merrimack Square theatre tomorrow afternoon and evening. An excellent surrounding program will complete a most enjoyable entertainment.

D. W. Griffith will once more come into Merrimack Square to light his light next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday when his latest production, "True Heart Susie," will be shown on the screen. The story is a most interesting one.

Sussie May Trueheart, an awkward, straightforward, true hearted school-girl of Hoosier country, loves with wonderful loyalty William Jenkins, a boy neighbor. She watches him adoringly at school and she suffers severely when she is compelled to go to school in the summer class, because she is a better speller than he. One day a politician promises to give the boy a start in life, and he and Sussie agree to the fulfillment of the promise which never comes. Sussie decides that she will send William to school herself, for she wants the man she marries to be educated. The accumulated butter and eggs money is devoted to that purpose and William goes away to school. Quite unaware of the sacrifice Sussie is making for him. He goes through college and is ordained minister. Through the years Sussie treasures his few letters to her. Appointed to the pastorate of the village church, William returns home and falling in love with Betty Hopkins, a high-headed beauty, all butters move on the next town, he marries her. Hiding her heavy heart beneath a smile, Sussie carries flowers to the happy couple at the wedding. William soon discovers that Betty is not his real helpmate and he vaguely realizes that Sussie alone has roused love in his breast. Betty is like an unfeeling and cold thing, a cold while attending a dance with Sporty Malone, she dies before she is able to confess to Wil-

PIEROTTI HURLS FINE BALL AND WINS

FITCHBURG, June 21.—Fitchburg could make no headway against the pitching of Pierotti here yesterday afternoon, Lowell winning 3 to 1. In addition to airtight pitching the visitors played errorless ball and batted opportunely. Bases on balls and three misplays by Fitchburg infielders aided in the victory. Pierotti's team, The Work of Eckstein and Winter featured for Lowell, while Loftus furnished the fireworks for the home club. The score:

HARVARD VARSITY LOST TO YALE IN GREAT RACE

REGATTA COURSE, NEW LONDON, June 21.—Rowing a beautifully timed race, Yale gained the Thames regatta prestige here at dusk yesterday, defeating Harvard in the four-mile variety event by a scant half length. One of the bitterest aquatic struggles ever staged on this historic waterway. For more than a mile and a half the two teams raced side by side, and so close were they aligned that the officials could not tell which was ahead.

The Call'em

Now that it is becoming too warm for comfortable indoor boxing shows, why not utilize the happy stretches of Spalding park for an outdoor bout of accepted class? Lawrence promoters went through with their program at homey O'Sullivan park with a great deal of success, and consider how much healthier for boxers is the pure air of outer Rogers street.

Welcome to Our City

If the street car strike continues many days longer and the Lowell Ball club is forced to play its games on strange lots the fans will have to become acquainted all over again when returning to Spalding park again leaps into vogue. Meanwhile the team is going along at a good clip in second place just back of Fred Pauley's third-place club and is winning more games than it is losing.

They All Look Alike

Babe Ruth, Boston ace, has been pushing his batting average to the skies in the three weeks just passed, and now stands well over .300. Starting about the first of June with an average of .100, he has now hit .312. He has hit safely in 21 consecutive games and has attained a mark of .335. Some jump against all kinds of pitching, but he is a sure thing on seven rival clubs.

A Fine Job—Not!

We were wondering the other day about the pay of sparring partners engaged by contenders for the heavyweight championship crown. It might be a good idea to have one of Willard's preliminary punching men heard the sweetest oomphing of the birds three times in the past ten days. He thrashed him yesterday, substantially as follows:

"Willard set a furious pace for him and rushed into a clinch, pushed him half way through the ropes and then he landed a right upper cut to the chin. He then landed headfirst on the boards at the edge of the ring and was completely out."

Lady, lady! These days are just one continuous round of pleasure for some people.

Would Meet Valger Again

We have received the following letter from M. J. Cronin, manager of Phil Logan, the Jamestown speed marvel:

75 Pine St., Pittsfield, Mass., June 19, 1919.

Dear Sir: About a month ago, on May 22nd, to be exact, Benny Valger, the well known French featherweight, succeeded in stopping me. Phil Logan in the fifth round of a scheduled 12-round contest. This bout took place before the Crescent A.C. in Lowell. I wish to say that Logan was under no handicap, and was a highly skilled fighter. He was a highly skilled fighter, having three nights previous received a bad cut over one of his eyes. This cut became badly inflamed and was a high spot when he entered the ring, but he is a game boy and would not even flinch, calling the bout off. For four rounds he gave Valger the hardest kind of a fight, but went practically blind in the fifth and was an easy victim for Valger's haymaker.

What we want is a return match with Valger and, considering the matter with the greatest of care, I thought in that other bout we had entitled to it. I do not for a minute consider that Valger is Logan's master, with the greatest of care, I think he can beat the French batter if given another chance. He is ready to box Valger at any time, or at any place suitable to the latter and his manager, and for any number of rounds. I do not wish to belittle Valger as a fighter, as I appreciate the fact that he is as classy as they make them, but he is not a bit faster than this boy Logan, and I feel safe in saying that if Valger will agree to box him again the fans will see the "French Flash" carried along at the fastest clip he has ever had to travel.

Very truly
M. J. CRONIN.

ANNUAL FLOWER SHOW

The annual flower show conducted by the Middlesex Women's club under the supervision of the educational committee, held yesterday afternoon in Middlesex hall was a riotous exhibit of floral beauty. The flowers came wholly from amateur gardens in the city and suburbs as no florist was allowed to contribute to the showing. The variety was splendid and was enjoyed by many people who attended during the afternoon. Roses and peonies in delicate shades were foremost in the exhibit. Mrs. C. H. Hobson, chairman of the educational committee, was assisted by Miss Edna Cutter in the supervision of the affair.

If you want to reach the people who spend their money in Lowell advertise in The Sun, Lowell's greatest newspaper.

VALGER AND LEWIS TO STRIKE ENDS IN FRANCE

MEET HERE THURSDAY

The matchmaker of the Crescent A. today completed his card for next Thursday night and it looks like one of the best of the season. Benny Valger, the famous French "flash" from New York, who defeated Frankie Britt at Lawrence a week ago, will tackle Gussie Lewis of Philadelphia in the main bout of twelve rounds. Lewis has two decisions over Valger and the "flash" is anxious to wipe out the defeats and establish a clear claim as the logical contender for the featherweight title. Phil Christie of South Boston and Young Crilly of Lawrence, will meet in the semi-final of eight rounds. Both these boys claim the middleweight championship at 125 pounds, and the coming bout will establish the rightful owner of the title. Happy Conley of Lowell, who was awarded a decision over Charlie Connors of Lawrence here the other night, will meet Young Goulette of Lawrence in one of the preliminaries and Young La Tournade of Lowell and Young Ginsky of Lawrence will meet the other prelim. The assessments for the coming meeting will be one, two and three, and reservations are now available, and will be up until the night of the show.

Strike Situation Remains Unchanged While Executive Board Members Confer With International Leader in Boston—Definite Stand May Be Made at Meeting of Lowell Carmen Tonight—Big Increase in Number of jitneys

Local Bay State street railway carmen took no action this morning on the order of Pres. W. D. Mahon of the Amalgamated association, to return to their work. The Lowell union members met in the rooms in the Russell building at 10 o'clock and one hour later the meeting had adjourned and the executive committee, headed by Pres. Thomas J. Powers, rushed from the hall to catch the 11:13 train for Boston to meet Pres. Mahon and the joint conference board.

On the way to the station Pres. Powers said: "There is nothing to give out regarding this morning's meeting. We took no action on Pres. Mahon's order to go back to work. The strike committee is going to meet him in conference early this afternoon and we may have some word to bring back to the local this evening. Another meeting probably will be held about 8 p. m."

As was predicted, Pres. Mahon came to Boston last night from the A. F. of L. convention at Atlantic City to personally supervise the situation. At a specially called conference with the general conference board of the unions, Pres. Mahon gave orders countermanding the strike vote taken on Thursday by the various locals and instructed the carmen in Lowell, Lawrence and Woburn, who were already out, to return to their work.

"We have the machinery to take up the grievances," he said, "and if those now on strike return to work and those threatening to strike remain at their posts we will take them up, but it will be done in a legal manner and in accordance with the laws of the association. I told the board members that they were placing themselves and the international union in an embarrassing light by violating agreements and then asking somebody else to make agreements with us."

It was commonly believed this morning in Lowell that the meeting of Local 286 would result in definite action, but it did not. The men through their president declining to disclose their intentions. The officials of the Bay State had absolutely nothing to say and were in the dark as to the plans of the platform men.

MAY EXTEND LIQUOR LICENSES HERE

The question as to whether the license commission would issue liquor licenses after July 1 was considered at a special meeting of the commission held this forenoon and while no positive decision was arrived at the board of commission is of the opinion that it can grant such licenses subject to all federal laws relative to the sale of intoxicating liquor. The chairman of the commission stated this afternoon that the commission would, in all probability, take definite action in the matter on Monday.

It is thoroughly understood, however, that the licensing board believes that liquor licenses can be granted subject to federal laws, the grants to be made under the old license act, but not under the special act of 1915. The act of 1915 was a special act permitting the granting of licenses by the month for a monthly fee, and did not purport to amend or alter the general provisions of law relating to the issuing of liquor licenses for the year. Such licenses may be issued at any time during the year, and the opinion seems to obtain that there is nothing in the law of Massachusetts to prevent those desiring licenses from applying for the same under the general law for the balance of the license year.

encing her sixth day without street car service and unless quick action emanates from the meeting this afternoon the pleasures of the week-end will be curtailed in an even greater degree than has been the case with business during the week. If tomorrow is a fair day the Bay State stands to lose a tremendous amount of revenue and local people in a majority of cases will be obliged to forego their recreation until another day. There is a possibility of settlement, however, tonight and car service may be resumed tomorrow.

A meeting of the committee on commercial affairs of the local board of trade was called yesterday afternoon at the suggestion of several downtown merchants to consider what the policy of the board should be concerning the strike situation, involving as it does considerable inconvenience to the public and injury to business. In view of the fact that full control of the policy of the Bay State Co. and full power to deal with the employees is vested in a board of public trustees and that there is a board of arbitration and conciliation empowered by the state to act in such situations, it was deemed inadvisable for the board of trade to inject itself into the controversy unless requested so to do by the interested parties.

The board feels, however, that it is its duty to offer to the mayor whatever service it may be able to render the public in the matter of development or regulating emergency transportation during the pendency of the strike. Other than protecting the interests of the traveling public and the merchants in this latter respect no action will be taken by the board of trade at the present time.

Increase in Auto Traffic

Some idea of the tremendous increase in automobile traffic in the city during the present week may be gained from a tally kept late yesterday afternoon of motor driven vehicles passing the junction of Central and Merrimack sts. From 4:05 to 4:10 o'clock exactly 185 pleasure and business cars, some in the performance of jitney traffic, passed either from Central into Merrimack streets or from Merrimack into Central. This is an average of 37 cars a minute, or one every one and six-tenths seconds. But for the slowing up on account of the corner the number would be greatly increased as long lines of machines stretched in every direction, although they were kept in constant motion by the traffic policeman.

Lawrence Men Still Out

LAWRENCE, June 21.—Pending the completion of the deliberations of the conference board of the employees of the Eastern Massachusetts (Bay State) Street Railway Co., there was no change today in the sympathetic strike of the local division and none is expected before tonight.

President George W. Miggins of the local union announced today that the business was not completed yesterday, owing to the lateness of the hour; and that the conference would be resumed in Boston today, the men being asked to hold themselves in readiness for a meeting which may be called for this evening.

U. S. Soldiers, Again Plunged Into Stirring Activities in Preparation For Advance

Army Moves Forward To Await Orders If Germans Refuse To Sign Treaty

COBLENZ, Wednesday, June 18.—(By the Associated Press) Divisions of the third army, after being away from battlefields and war scenes for seven months have again plunged into the stirring activities, which generally precede the actual thunder of war. An army, unperturbed by the work of the peace conference and thinking much of home, has suddenly been galvanized into the life the soldiers knew before the armistice and endowed with renewed vigor. It is today moving forward toward the edge of the great semi-circle which marks the dividing line between the occupied areas and the neutral sections of Germany.

Ordered to Prepare for Advance

This was a stirring day at third army headquarters and among the first and second divisions holding the east bank of the Rhine since the Americans moved in about six months ago. Late yesterday orders were flashed from headquarters in the Rhine, ordering them to prepare to march into the zone of concentration. Within a short time the divisions were transmitted to officers commanding companies and soon non-commissioned officers were sending their superiors out of their billets and clubs and relaying the concentration orders, which had come from Marshal Poch.

Soldiers Finish Packing

While the civilians in the small towns looked upon the military activities sometimes with bewilderment, the soldiers rushed to finish their packing and to find their helmets, rifles and gas-masks.

Great Activity in Valley

The second division was the first to move, getting under way early today. Along the Sayne valley, which meets the Rhine near Neuwied, which has been the division headquarters, the second, with its infantry, machine guns, artillery and all the paraphernalia of war, pushed forward. Ordinarily, the Sayne valley is cool and peaceful in summer, but today it appeared somewhat like the valley of the Gorge last summer, when the Americans were driving the Germans back to the Vesle.

Civilians Amazed

All day clouds of dust followed the movement of the tractors and guns of the 17th Field Artillery, which moved from the fortress of Ehrenbreitstein out to the edge of the bridgehead, where the great valley stretches away toward Berlin. Snorting and trembling, but ever moving forward, the tractors surprised civilians along the roadway into some realization of real warfare. Tonight the American soldiers are sleeping beneath the sky in the open fields while the country in every direction is dotted with smouldering fires where the soldiers' hurried supper had been prepared. With the infantry are engineers, sanitary trains and signal corps men who strung wire as they went ahead. Even observation balloons moved up to get a better peek into Germany, if the allied peace terms are not accepted.

"Look Out Germany"

The concentration of the first division is well under way and will be completed before Saturday night. As the men worked and marched today they sang as only American soldiers can. Officers said the doughboys wanted Germany to sign the treaty and, after that, to go home, but "if the Germans did not sign—look out Germany."

Irish President Here To Plead Ireland's Case—Hopes To Obtain Official Recognition of Irish Republic by U. S. Government—Walsh Orders Murphy Not To Leave For Paris—Action May Mean Germans Have Signed the Peace Treaty

NEW YORK, June 21.—Announcement was made today that Prof. Edward de Valera, president of the Irish Sinn Fein republic, had landed in America and would be in New York city on Sunday. Apartments have been engaged for the Sinn Fein leader at the Waldorf-Astoria by de Valera's secretary.

De Valera left the British isles 16 days ago, according to Harry J. Boland, his secretary, and is now in seclusion in this country. His mission to America was made in the hope of obtaining official recognition of the Irish republic by the United States government.

Boland said that De Valera would come out of retirement on Monday afternoon when he will talk with newspapermen at the hotel and disclose to them how he succeeded in escaping from the British Isles without having received passports to this country.

There were reports in Philadelphia yesterday that De Valera was in that city. Inquiry among Irish sympathizers here today elicited statements that he was not in America at all but was in Switzerland. Boland's announcement that the Sinn Fein president had actually reached the United States frustrated this endeavor by Irish sympathizers to conceal the fact of De Valera's arrival. Boland said the Sinn Fein president was neither in New York or Philadelphia, but he would not state where he was. De Valera's mother resides in Rochester, N. Y.

De Valera and she had been together.

Boland said, but it was not learned whether the meeting took place in Rochester.

Came Here as Fireman

He came to America under the guise of a fireman in the stokehold of a ship which reached New York early in May, he said, his purpose being to act as advance representative for De Valera. Boland is a member of the British

Germans Ask If Terms of Clemenceau's Note Are Part of Treaty

Also Want Clause Demand- ing Surrender of Ex- Kaiser Stricken Out

(By the Associated Press)

While the trend of German sentiment is declared in advices reaching the peace conference to be continuing strongly in favor of signing the peace treaty, it is becoming apparent that the Germans do not intend to make their attitude officially known without an effort to obtain modifications in the terms. In the first place they want to know definitely what they are signing and have asked the peace conference if the terms of Premier Clemenceau's covering note as regards reparations and other phases of the treaty may be considered as part of the document itself and binding upon all parties.

Concessions Asked

In addition they are reported to have asked the conference if the allies would agree to admit Germany immediately to the League of Nations, consent to limit Germany's indemnity to 100,000,000,000 gold marks and strike out the requirement for the surrender of the former German emperor.

The German cabinet situation is still a mixed one. It is definitely known that the Scheidemann cabinet has resigned. Whether a successor to Herr Scheidemann has been chosen as yet seems doubtful, although the Amer-

ARREST HONEY HAZZARD AND MISS PUFFER

CONCORD, N. H., June 21.—Plans for the wedding of Miss Mabel Puffer, wealthy society woman of Ayer, Mass., and Arthur "Honey" Hazzard, formerly of Lowell, Mass., were completely overthrown late yesterday afternoon when both of them were arrested by the police of Ayer on serious charges and spirited out of town, across the Massachusetts line, before they could recover their presence of mind long enough to demand extradition.

"Honey" had just breathed a sigh of relief over the fact that everything was ready for the wedding when the police arrested him in the lobby of the Phoenix hotel. Two minutes later they placed his intended white bride under arrest and in less than 15 minutes they were being swept toward Massachusetts in a high powered machine.

In Speechless

Hazzard was rendered speechless with surprise and fright. All he said was "What for?" and then when he was told that he was charged by the Ayer police with unlawful cohabitation in that town and that his sweetheart was to be arrested on the same charge he cried, "Don't arrest Mabel."

By that time, however, the police were banging at the door of Mabel's room. She opened the door and took her arrest very calmly. She dressed for the street and took her bag without uttering a word. As she was going down the stairs to the lobby she turned to the postman and said, "Truth will prevail." When she reached the lobby she walked toward Clerk Chase and said: "I wish to pay my bill." She paid her own bill, but not Arthur's.

The arrests were made by Sergeant Christopher T. Wallace of Concord for P. J. Beatty, chief of police of Ayer. In addition to the serious charge in which they are jointly charged the Massachusetts officials also had warrants issued by Judge Warren H. Atwood of the district court of Ayer, charging Hazzard with enticing Miss Puffer and one charging Miss Puffer with insanity.

Relatives Take Hand

The latter charge is the result of a prayer to the court by Henry Blood of Hollis and Mrs. Mary L. Goodwin of Swampscott. They are children of a dead half-sister of Miss Puffer.

In addition to Sergeant Wallace and Chief Beatty, the party that took "Honey" and his Mabel away from here were Chief of Police B. G. Dowling of Groton, Mass., and John D. Carney, a Boston attorney who represented Mr. Blood and Mrs. Goodwin. After their arrest the couple were taken to the police station, which is nearly opposite the Phoenix. They were placed in Mr. Carney's machine just as the car was about to start Mrs. Benton H. Roland of Burlington, Vt., sister of Hazzard, and his mother, Mary Hazzard of Ayer, came rushing out of the hotel shrieking "You can't take them without papers. You're kidnapping them."

The lawyer or the police paid no attention to the frantic pleadings of the two women, but started the machine quickly and soon disappeared toward Ayer. Neither "Honey" nor his intended white bride said a word. He sat as though dazed and she was rigid, her eyes straight ahead and her lips moving as if in prayer.

"Truth Will Prevail!" Once just before the car started she turned to her colored lover and said, "Truth will prevail." He grunted, but said nothing. As soon as the machine had vanished the women relatives returned to the Phoenix and paid their bills and made up the balance of Hazzard's unpaid bill. Then Mrs. Roland, whose husband is chief at Dartmouth college, at once got her brother, William Hazzard, on the long distance phone at the Washington club in Lowell, where he is employed as steward.

TOMORROW WILL BE THRIFT SUNDAY

Tomorrow, by desire of Secretary of the Treasury Glass, is to be observed in Lowell and other cities as "Thrift Sunday."

Although advance announcements and programs of Sunday services as printed in today's papers failed to mention the share that the churches would take in "Thrift Sunday," the Sun's investigation today nevertheless goes to show that congregations tomorrow will hear their pastors carrying out Mr. Glass' request, and Lowell churchgoers will be reminded that thrift is the handmaiden of comfort and personal security.

The treasury department is tremendously interested in the national thrift campaign being conducted of course all over the country by the savings division of the department and the decision on the part of Mr. Glass to ask pastors of all denominations to pass on the message from Washington to their parishioners, a letter from the treasury department states, was inspired by the fact that in all patriotic work accomplished in America during the progress, none had been more earnest and tireless than that conducted by all the churches. Mr. Glass follows this up by stating that the peace time needs of the United States are important enough so that the churches should be inspired to still greater effort.

band is chief at Dartmouth college, at once got her brother, William Hazzard, on the long distance phone at the Washington club in Lowell, where he is employed as steward.

Created Big Sensation

The attempt of "Honey" Hazzard and Miss Puffer to be married has created a big stir throughout New England and is of special interest to the colored people of this city because of the fact that the man in the case is a member of the well known Hazzard family of Lowell, and a brother of William Hazzard, steward at the Washington club in this city.

All attempts, heretofore, to prevent the marriage have been of no avail, both parties to the pending contract insisting that they loved each other. The near-marriage between the handsome woman and the colored man, who terms himself a laborer, is the culmination of a romance that began 15 years ago, according to Mr. Hazzard. That was when, as a man about the place, he looked up to the pretty and much-sought society woman.

Miss Puffer is a graduate of the Emerson school of Oratory in Boston and the Ayer high school. For 10 years they were very friendly, and then came five years of secret courtship. A short time ago they determined to be married, both knowing the talk that would be created. They consulted together, and a few days ago made up their minds to marry despite opinion. As Miss Puffer is interested in Christian Science, she insisted upon coming to Concord, where the founder of the sect is buried. He said he didn't care where they were married.

ST. PATRICK'S SCHOOL
Annual Entertainment by St.
Patrick's Boys' School at
the Lowell Opera House

St. Patrick's Boys' school traditions were in full ascendency last evening at the Lowell Opera House when the young men of that school staged their 37th annual entertainment before a capacity audience that showed deep interest and appreciation throughout the evening.

As an event that is annually looked forward to, St. Patrick's entertainment for the evening becomes the cynosure not only of that parish but of practically the entire city. The auditorium chosen for this year's presentation was all too small for the number of people who wished to see it.

The entertainment was in two parts, the first a series of musical numbers and exhibitions by the younger boys and the second a two-act playlet, entitled "A Regular Scram," by the boys of the second year commercial class. Each part was ably given and its success was a creditable reflection on Rev. Brother Nilus, superior of the academy; his assistants, Charles N. Slader of Boston, musical instructor, and John J. Quinn, dramatic instructor.

The Lowell Cadet orchestra, under the direction of John J. Giblin, furnished music for the evening. The numbers on the first part of the evening's program were unusually well executed and the feature was the "Topsy Turvey" number which created roars. The program for Part I was as follows:

March, "Our Sammies".....Vandersloot Orchestra
Overture, "Maytime".....Romberg Orchestra
Chorus—"Old Folks Medley".....Sheridan
"Sunrise".....Watson
Novelty, "Topsy Turvey".....Fourth Grade
Dumb-Bell Drill.....Sixth Grade
Sixth Letter Drill.....Fifth Grade
Turkish Drill.....Older Boys
"Remick's Hits, No. 10 E".....Lampo Orchestra
Welcome, School Chorus
Concert Recitation, "Eris's Flag," Ryan
Eighth Grade
Assisted with
Chorus—"The Minstrel Boy".....Moor
"O'Donnell Abbot".....McCaugh
Tableau, "Allegiance".....Assembly
Interlude, "Pretty Little Rainbow," Plunkett
Orchestra

The comedy playlet, "A Regular Scram," which constituted the second half of the program, was in two parts and was very ably presented by the young men of the second year commercial class. The play had to do with life at Harvard college and the setting and acting were excellent. The cast was as follows:

Prince Cyril of Verengetz, Harvard Freshman, known as Cyril Romaine, Carlos Romaine, his cousin, James E. McNamara
Lieutenant Boranage, of the Royal Army, Daniel J. Cunningham
Honorable John Winslow, W. Francis Ryne

Annual Entertainment by St.
the Lowell Opera House

St. Patrick's Boys' school traditions were in full ascendency last evening at the Lowell Opera House when the young men of that school staged their 37th annual entertainment before a capacity audience that showed deep interest and appreciation throughout the evening.

As an event that is annually looked forward to, St. Patrick's entertainment for the evening becomes the cynosure not only of that parish but of practically the entire city. The auditorium chosen for this year's presentation was all too small for the number of people who wished to see it.

The entertainment was in two parts, the first a series of musical numbers and exhibitions by the younger boys and the second a two-act playlet, entitled "A Regular Scram," by the boys of the second year commercial class. Each part was ably given and its success was a creditable reflection on Rev. Brother Nilus, superior of the academy; his assistants, Charles N. Slader of Boston, musical instructor, and John J. Quinn, dramatic instructor.

The Lowell Cadet orchestra, under the direction of John J. Giblin, furnished music for the evening. The numbers on the first part of the evening's program were unusually well executed and the feature was the "Topsy Turvey" number which created roars. The program for Part I was as follows:

March, "Our Sammies".....Vandersloot Orchestra
Overture, "Maytime".....Romberg Orchestra
Chorus—"Old Folks Medley".....Sheridan
"Sunrise".....Watson
Novelty, "Topsy Turvey".....Fourth Grade
Dumb-Bell Drill.....Sixth Grade
Sixth Letter Drill.....Fifth Grade
Turkish Drill.....Older Boys
"Remick's Hits, No. 10 E".....Lampo Orchestra
Welcome, School Chorus
Concert Recitation, "Eris's Flag," Ryan
Eighth Grade
Assisted with
Chorus—"The Minstrel Boy".....Moor
"O'Donnell Abbot".....McCaugh
Tableau, "Allegiance".....Assembly
Interlude, "Pretty Little Rainbow," Plunkett
Orchestra

The comedy playlet, "A Regular Scram," which constituted the second half of the program, was in two parts and was very ably presented by the young men of the second year commercial class. The play had to do with life at Harvard college and the setting and acting were excellent. The cast was as follows:

Prince Cyril of Verengetz, Harvard Freshman, known as Cyril Romaine, Carlos Romaine, his cousin, James E. McNamara
Honorable John Winslow, W. Francis Ryne
Allyes Standish Winslow, his son, John E. Casey
Benjamin Franklin Winslow, his nephew, Bernard J. McGovern
Horace Webster, Frederick J. Smith
Arthur Loveland, Harold J. Sherman
Richard Mason, James F. Furey
Austin Beauford, Joseph D. Mehan
Silas Brown, colored, Joseph A. Regan
In the interim between the first and second acts a quartet, consisting of Thomas A. Delmore, William Chandler,

CALLS SEN. SHERMAN'S OBJECTION "FOOLISH"

WASHINGTON, June 21.—Senator Sherman, republican, of Illinois, who late yesterday afternoon declared in the senate that the League of Nations might end the separation of church and state and bring the civilized world under the domination of the Vatican was bitterly attacked by his colleagues.

Senator Ashurst, democrat, of Arizona, replied to Senator Sherman and said the objection raised was "foolish." League opponents, he said, had argued first that kings would dominate the league, and then in quick succession that it would be ruled by Great Britain by Bolsheviks, by the negro races and now by the Catholic church. "No sensible man," said Senator Ashurst, "believes any church is going to try to dominate the world. It is an insane, a monstrous idea. If there is one question on which the churches are united it is on the proposal that something be done to preserve peace and promote the prosperity of all nations. I am tired of these appeals to religious prejudice."

Senator Ashurst said he regretted that a League of Nations was necessary, "but whether we like it or not," he continued, "we face a League of Nations or inevitable warfare. Shall we hand down to posterity safety or shall we hand down peril?" When the Arizona senator said soldiers demanded there should be no more wars, Senator Reed, democrat, Missouri, asked who had the right to speak for these soldiers.

LOCAL DEATH RATE

There was a slight increase in the local death rate this week, the figure being 24 against 15 and 35 for the preceding two weeks. The death rates for the three weeks were 11.56, 5.67 and 16.86, respectively. There were four deaths of children under five years of age and of these three under one. Infectious diseases caused three deaths, pneumonia, one; measles, one; and tuberculosis, two.

LONGEST DAY OF THE YEAR

Today is the longest day in the year, but it is too short for some men to make up their minds as to what they should do. Included in this category is the man who is going to do some advertising as soon as he gets around to it, or as soon as he thinks it over. Perhaps he can afford to take this plenitude of time and perhaps he cannot act any quicker; but unfortunately, time does not wait for such men and while they are thinking it over their opportunity passes, never to return.

Advertising itself is an application of the great jump-up-and-get-at-em substance called "pep" and a slow, or lazy, or timid man handling it will be sure to point the boat towards the rocks. The longest day of the year was just the day to take the shortest cut to having customers crowd the store's floor space by having an ad in

It is now practically settled that Germany will sign the treaty and carry out its main provisions unless, at some future date, she should see an opportunity to secure a reduction of the burden placed upon her shoulders.

The changes in her government indicate that Germany has come to the conclusion that it is no use to carry her bluff any further. It is quite probable that the Germans never at any time, believed they could avoid signing the treaty; but their game was to fight for concessions and in this they have been, to a degree, successful. The modifications made are not very radical or important; but they have, in a measure, convinced Germany that the allies have no desire to make the terms so severe as to amount to a state of servitude.

With the signing of the treaty by Germany, it is expected that the situation in Europe will soon clear and that in a short time, the nations that have suffered most from the war will turn their attention entirely to the work of reconstruction which must be continued for many years in order to overcome the ruin and devastation resulting from four years of the fiercest war in all history.

RATIFY SUFFRAGE

It is presumed that the Massachusetts legislature will promptly ratify the suffrage amendment in spite of the opposition which is not likely to be very formidable. The fact that the committee on federal relations almost unanimously favored ratification, is indicative of the sentiment prevailing among the members of both branches.

Among the opponents of ratification are men who honestly believe that the extension of the franchise to women will not help the women nor improve political conditions.

But regardless of the indirect result, we believe the suffrage amendment should be promptly ratified. We are not among those who believe that political conditions will suffer by giving women the vote. On the contrary, we believe that the women will stand firmly for the moral uplift of every community and against the political intrigue which has been working injuriously against good government, particularly municipal government throughout the country.

DEPORTING ANARCHISTS

The department of justice will soon have another shipment of anarchists ready for deportation. The department is picking out the more aggressive anarchists throughout the country and gathering them together for deportation to the countries whence they came. They can go back to their native climes to carry on their nefarious designs against all governments. They can then probably determine for themselves from personal experience, whether the liberty extended to foreigners in this country is equal or superior to that which they enjoy in the lands of their nativity.

The next shipment of anarchists will go to Italy, but there will soon be another ready to be sent to Russia. When anarchistic movements are properly investigated, it is found that very few of the men engaged in them are native Americans. They came here in search of freedom and are endeavoring to destroy the freest government on earth. They have no right to a foothold on American soil. The government is doing the proper thing in deporting them.

It is the duty of every patriotic citizen who knows of any alien enemy or anybody professing to be an anarchist, to notify the depart-

TO IGNORE INJUNCTIONS

ATLANTIC CITY, June 19.—During the day the American Federation of Labor adopted a report on the judicial construction of law. This report, which assailed courts and judges, declared that organized labor in the future would treat all injunctive decrees that "invade personal liberties as being in violation of constitutional safeguards" and would accept "whatever consequences might follow."

It is to be regretted that the American Federation of Labor, at its convention, took the stand indicated in the above despatch. To carry out any such policy, the labor leaders would have to set themselves up on a level with the judiciary as interpreters of the law. There have been certain cases in which the courts seemed to place an unwarranted interpretation on provisions of law.

It is against such interpretation that the opposition of the labor men is directed. But even though the labor men made against the courts on the matter of injunctions be true, that would not justify labor unions in taking the law into their own hands. There are other methods of obtaining redress. They cannot expect to sit in judgment in their own behalf, which is what they would have to do in carrying out the intent of the above resolve. In 1914, congress in the Clayton act placed certain restrictions upon injunction proceedings so that there is not now any just ground for such an attack upon the courts.

The question of "personal liberty" under certain conditions is one that even lawyers in many cases find difficulty in deciding. When parties are in open conflict and their rights are opposed at every point, restraints may sometimes be justified that to the lay mind may seem unjust. The rule of law represented by the decisions and orders of the courts is the very palladium of our liberties and to ignore it would be a step towards anarchy.

TO FIGHT THE "FLU"

Will the "flu" ever return? That is a question that is of vast importance to the people of this and other nations.

When the epidemic was at its worst here, considerable effort was expended in fighting it. But the physicians did not identify the germ, nor did they find a serum that proved an effective remedy. The result was 500,000 deaths.

The flu rages in autumn, winter and early spring. Some people thought it was due to the deadly gases let loose in the air by the Germans. That was an assumption just as was the belief that the "flu" was but a severe type of the old grip.

Now is the time to study this disease and provide against its return. A year's delay may bring another crop of deaths perhaps more than 500,000.

The American Medical association has asked congress for an appropriation of $1,500,000 with which to investigate the "flu" with a view to preventing its recurrence or providing some proper specific for its treatment. There are still sporadic cases of "flu" in different parts of the country, so that the opportunity of still further pursuing the germs with a view to isolation is still present.

The money asked for might enable the medical men to cope successfully with the disease. If they should fail, they would at least have gained some additional light on that and other diseases.

In view of the vast mortality due to this disease, chiefly among the youth of the land, we believe that congress will make no mistake in providing ample funds with which to conduct the necessary investigation.

THE BRAYING SENATOR

The speech of Senator Sherman of Illinois, in which he sounds a note of alarm lest the League of Nations would make the Vatican the ruler of the civilized world and hints that President Wilson is in collusion with the Pope in bringing about such a state of affairs, is the worst piece of hypocrisy yet put forward in the various attempts made by republicans to blacken and defame the president.

It is political poppycock of the most nauseating type. It is another proof of the unscrupulous character and the lively imagination, if we may call it by no worse name, of this blatherskite senator from Illinois.

When President Wilson expressed a determination to go to Europe, it was the foul mouthed Sherman that expressed solicitude for his safety in mingling with court circles, saying that "many a man had been ruined by a woman's smile."

But the meanest out of all is to insinuate that Catholics, whose loyalty to their respective nations was tested through all the stress and storm of war and never shaken, should now be questioned by this alarmist who is bold enough to insinuate that, as delegates to the League of Nations, they might betray the countries to which they give their sworn allegiance, and enter into a religious combine forsooth to rule the civilized world.

Although this man's words are of no more importance than the braying of an ass, yet they cast an insult upon every Catholic in this and every other land, and for that reason they cannot be passed over in silence.

During the war, Catholic soldiers died side by side with their Protestant brothers for the countries they represented, and the voice of the Vatican had no influence either over their action or in shaping the policy of Catholic nations.

If not in war, then why should any scheming politician insinuate that they would adopt a different policy in time of peace? Moreover, in his statement, the ranting senator refers to the action of the league assembly as the controlling power in the league, whereas the supreme power rests in the executive council alone. Thus this blowhard alarmist is wrong in every aspect in which his statements are considered.

If the republican party imagines that it can gain any advantage from that sort of claptrap, it will soon have a rude awakening. The men who went to the front in this war will deal with such attacks as this in a way that will put Sherman where he will not be in a position to prostitute a high office to the vilest kind of political hypocrisy and groundless sensationalism in a contemptible effort to shake public confidence in the president of the United States.

The king of Denmark has sent over one of his favorite sons to visit the United States. On the way over, American army officers are said to have taught him the rudiments of America's greatest indoor sport, real cards, playing for real money and winners keep winnings. No one likes to lose. It is entirely human to believe that if Prince Aage lost at poker, perhaps when he sees Miss Liberty in New York harbor, she will remind him of the queen he ought to have had to make a royal straight flush function right.

The managing editor of the Syracuse Herald is said to have patriotically accepted a New York state deputy commissionership whose salary is $5500 a year. His patriotism may be said to have happily blended with a piece of good fortune. Few newspapermen in Syracuse or way stations beat the barrier to the extent of $5500. He will not have to worry over local politics or some one getting his job while the state is paymaster.

Rather too bad "saving daylight" goes out of fashion on the last Sunday of October, 1919. It has seemed to many of us city dwellers that it was a successful attempt to create something almost out of nothing and few of us have had our health injured by getting up an hour earlier each day and going to bed an hour earlier at night.

SEEN AND HEARD

There's a lot of fellows worrying about July 1 who may never live to see it. Cnecr up!

Ever have an attack of acute indigestion? Sea sickness is a plucked steak smothered in onions as compared with it.

A fellow just went out of here so mad that in all probability he will walk down the ten flights instead of taking the elevator. He wanted a "piece" put in this column about a "friend" of his. It was anything but a friendly piece and we were inwardly pleading with the Lord to deliver some poor fellow we didn't know from his friends. Every word of it was libelous and we said so. Just for that he went away mad as a halter. And the words are full of these nuts.

By O. N. Joyful

Miss Ann Taylor, spinster, 70 years old, living in Nelson, Australia, has sued John Pender, widower, 80 years old, for breach of promise. John's nine children wouldn't let him marry, he told the court, but the jury went ahead and handed Ann $250 to mend her shattered heart.

Suchlife in a Camisole

The Philippines have discovered the flapper. Over there they call them the "girl in the camisole" which isn't as improper as it looks, because "camisole" merely means a knee-length dress. A Filipino paper says "the girl in the camisole" is "The ballet dancer's rival in leg showing. Lathario's blushing Marguerite, a curio for the curious, a Messalina in the bud, an insult to grown-ups, a delicate compliment to young libertines, satan's agent at work."

Would Take No Chances

A colored officer of a company of dusky warriors from Alabama stationed in France was approached by a mess officer and told that he might draw wine rations for his soldiers. He shook his head slowly, but decidedly. "Ah appreciate the honor, sah, foh nothin' is too good foh mah men. Dey's all good men. Some of dem boys kin pray so luud dat yeh kin heah dem shout clean across to Berlin—but—Mister, Ah ain't takin' any chances. Give 'em coffee."—John E. Scoggins, U.S.N., in Judge.

A Blushing Question

"Why should any woman desire to show her dress shields and underwear to the public?" This and a variety of kindred questions and remarks are included in a circular on "fashion—its use and abuse" which has been put out by the home economics department of the University of Illinois. "Evening dress described in our fashion magazines as not showing much above the waist and very little below," the circular says, "are not rare." And it goes on thus: "Many girls appear bow-legged when the leg, which should be at right angles to the foot, is obliged to assume a stilt position because of the stilted heel." We have often wondered what caused that appearance.

The Breaking Straw

"It's the last straw," she exclaimed, bitterly. She tapped on the floor with her right toe, always, with her, a sign of repressed passion. "The last straw," she repeated. He shuffled his feet in embarrassment, though he realized embarrassment was a ridiculously easy thing to shuffle them in. Angriily she shrugged herself to her feet.

"I am going," she cried. "I would not stay here another second, even for a moment."

And she swept out and there was nothing left for him to do but follow.

"I didn't know it was the last straw or I wouldn't have taken it," he apologized, miserably.

And she, who had never sipped a lemonade without a straw in her life, and never intended to, snuffed scornfully, without replying, and refrained.

The Amusement Park

A squirrel will run in the revolving porch of his wire bungalow until he gets flat tires on his hind toes, and call it amusement. Folks don't have revolving porches to gallop in, so they go to an amusement park. Funny what amusement is. Picking out a hot night to go and pay your way into spending some money. Tossing a dollar's worth of rings or rolling balls for a two-bit knife or 15c vase. Aiming a lump eye for 50c worth of choice to knock over a tin duck or bust a clay pipe. Doing a week's work in five minutes with a sledge hammer trying to ring a trick bell. Mixing ice cream, soft drinks, peanuts, popcorn, hot dogs, with roller coasters, chutes, aerial swings and a headache. The lesson in this chintorial is, it will remind those who read it to take a trip to the amusement park!

Bareback Fashions

(By a Master of the Old School)
Dear ladies, when at dinner or the dance, I witness, from behind, your broad expanse of doral whiteness, fair but hardly chaste. Extending from the cervix to the waist, I oft have noticed that you bring a kind of Grecian reminiscence to my mind; But not the sort you'd think; not memory of Myron's marbles and Praxiteles. No, when I watch your undraped figure, I think of Greek, but only Greek in class. Where little wanton boys of bad repute would not observe the laws of long and short. So stubborn some, that much against my wish I had to take them out and soundly swish. So, when I see you in the semi-nude, too potent is the force of habitude. Instinctively my restless fingers sear after the handle of the healthy birch.—Gilbert Collins in London Opinion.

THE MAN ABOUT TOWN

A noticeable effect of the present railway strike is the increase in the number of people who get their midday meal in the down-town restaurants rather than follow their usual custom of going home. There must be at least several thousand Lowell people who daily go to their homes or boarding houses at noon via the electric cars, but since the inception of the strike a large number of these have reckoned it cheaper and more convenient to eat downtown rather than walk home or take chances with unscheduled jitneys. Usually one's time is limited at noon and if a person is able to get home at all, he doesn't have any time to spare. With the added time taken in reaching home on account of the trolley tie-up the proposition is by no means an inviting one and the result is a general gathering in the restaurants and lunch rooms at noon.

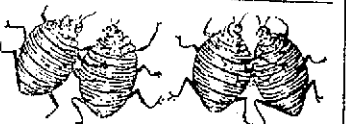

Among the thousands of automobiles now dashing wildly around the city streets on missions of business and the "transportation" of "pedestrians" are seen some rare bits of antiquity of the vintage of the early nineteenth hundreds. We have yet to see one of those faithful sea-going galleons with a main entrance and a nice wicker basket, like a hall umbrella rack, for the holding of canes, golf sticks and such, but we have lapped a few old timers that have been kicking around the shed these many years. We saw one this morning, chugging merrily along on its work of getting three or four persons to work on time, which was just on the hair line of being called a horseless carriage. It had a motor, about one cycle, which gave vent to pile-driver explosions and the pilot was sitting at least six feet from the pavement, but the occupants didn't seem to care. Everything is fair in strikes and wars and we should be subject to worry as long as we don't have to walk to and fro twice a day.

If we remember correctly we have made prior protest regarding the use of the public streets for motor speedways, but we do so again, this time specifically mentioning Westford street and the need of proper police surveillance. Westford street has a smooth, hard roadway and with the absence of electric cars makes a fine place to "step on her" and watch her pick up. But, there will be other things picked up besides speed unless the habitual scorches keep their feet off the accelerator pedal. The street is over-run with blind intersecting corners, the most flagrant and generally used being Nichols and Smith streets. There have been crashes there before this, but a very serious one is impending unless the warning signs to slow down are heeded. After dark at present the street is one glare of dancing, blinding light and it is a fertile field for a motorcycle policeman, a whole flock of which the city acutely needs.

An amendment containing the Irish provision was adopted unanimously. The president's cable in reply to one sent him by Samuel Gompers, president of the federation, asking information about changes reported in press despatches follows:

"Your message came while I was in Belgium and reached me too late to make full reply, but as I indicated in an earlier message, while the labor provisions are somewhat weakened it is the opinion of friends of labor and my own opinion that they are not materially weakened and that they will constitute a most serviceable magna charta. Will cable labor provisions but fear it will be too late for the convention. Consideration of the League of Nations occupied virtually the entire afternoon session of the convention. Andrew Furuseth of the Seamen's union, led the group which attacked it. Furuseth said, assailing the league was a most disagreeable job to him, but that he considered it his duty to do so.

TO SEND TROOPS INTO MEXICO

"Watchful Waiting" Discarded For "Watchful Preparedness"

WASHINGTON, June 21.—Recent developments along the southern border and within Mexico itself, it was learned officially today, have brought a radical change in the attitude of this government toward Mexico. It can be stated on positive authority that "watchful waiting" has been discarded for "watchful preparedness."

The war department has perfected plans to throw a punitive expedition of adequate strength across the Rio Grande the moment official word is received of reprisals on the part of Villa for the Juarez incident, or in case of other contingencies tending to bring the Mexican situation again to a stage approaching the crisis of last Sunday.

Military observers here place little credence in the reports that Villa has abandoned his offensive to the north.

Although three federal generals now are operating against Villa in northern Mexico, confidential reports to the war department are not optimistic regarding the success of the Carranzista campaign there, while the withdrawal of badly needed troops from the south, it is expected, will be followed by fresh incursions of the Villistas—already at the very gates of the capital. The Carranzista military establishment, according to official reports, actually includes less than 40 per cent. of its paper strength of 150,000, and its military value is decreased by the doubtful loyalty of some of the high officers and the fact that hundreds of recruits were forcibly conscripted.

Of the rebel factions of which there are

are said to be seven opposing Carranza, Villa is reported to be the strongest. The Villistas are conservatively estimated to number 10,000, equipped with fairly modern arms, including cannon up to 105 millimetres in calibre.

So serious is the condition faced by President Carranza that he is said to be bending every effort to secure the direct support of the United States in maintaining his power. This, according to officials here, accounts for the ease with which the Juarez incident was closed.

GENERAL HOLIDAY FOR CLERKS JULY 10

Plans for Clerks' day, which will be observed by the employees of the local stores on Thursday, July 10, are progressing and several of the stores have made arrangements for the annual outing on the beach, which is to be held on that day. It is expected that every store in the city will close for the day on that date in order to spend the day at the beach.

The employees of the J. L. Chalfoux Co. will journey to Revere, the trip to the seashore to be made in automobile trucks. It is expected that between 150 and 200 men and women will participate in the event. Dinner was served at the Hotel Pleasant and a program of sports will be carried out during the day. The committee in charge of the arrangements consists of the following: Eugene Queenan, chairman; Joseph Martin, Henry Chaput, William Souco, M. Hizer and Henry F. Sullivan.

A. G. Pollard Co.

The clerks of the A. G. Pollard Co. will also go to Revere and final arrangements for the trip, dinner and program will be made within a few days by the president of the Employees' association, John Orrell.

Bon Marche Co.

The employees of the Bon Marche Co. have also decided to go somewhere July 10, but they have not yet selected the resort. It is very probable that the event this year will be held at Nantasket beach, forasmuch as there was no outing last year. It is being planned to make this a banner one. Morion M. Walker and Frank

Sullivan have been appointed a committee to look after arrangements and they are to report next Tuesday.

Other Outings

The employees of Cook, Taylor & Co. are planning an outing for Thursday, July 10, but final arrangements have not yet been made. All arrangements for the event are in the hands of John McKinley, manager of the store.

The president of the Grocers' and Butchers' association stated this morning that all groceries and meat markets of the city will close for the day July 10 and that it is very probable arrangements will be made for the annual outing of the association on that date. The matter will be discussed at the next meeting of the members of the association.

Important Hearing

needed with Representative Thomas J. Corbett said today. Mr. Corbett himself is a member of this committee and he expressed an earnest wish that the citizens of Lowell would take a deep interest in the hearing to be held Monday.

The representative made an effort to have the hearing held in Lowell but owing to the lateness of the session the committee is unable to come to Lowell.

Mr. Corbett emphasizes very forcefully the urgent necessity for a large and representative hearing on this important matter. To borrow $150,000, as the commission intends to do, in addition to the $700,000 already authorized, is the biggest financial project ever presented to the legislature.

Although impartial in his attitude toward the proposition at the present time, Representative Corbett believes that the public view should be freely and openly expressed at the hearing.

"I should be remiss in my duty as a member of the legislature," Mr. Corbett said, "and particularly this committee if I did not call the attention of the public at this time to the hearing next Monday morning and urge a large attendance. It is a stupendous financial obligation for the city to assume and I want to know if the citizens of Lowell are prepared cheerfully to take on this burden at this time."

Seek Further Discussion

can delegation in Paris has received a report that Herman Mueller, majority socialist leader, has been selected to head the delegation.

However, declared that the government at that hour announced itself unable to present to pick a new cabinet and had decided to postpone the attempt for 48 hours.

Ebert Says For Present

The advice seem to indicate President Ebert will retain office, at least for the time being. Matthias Erzberger, head of the German armistice commission seems sure of a place in the government, probably as "minister of reconstruction and fulfillment of the treaty" and he is pointed to as the likely head of the new German peace delegation. Other names than Herr Mueller's mentioned for the premiership are those of Gustav Noske, the minister of defense, and Dr. Eduard David, former president of the national assembly.

To Request More Time

It seems probable that the ministerial crisis caused by the necessity of quickly deciding upon the signing of the allied peace terms will result in a request from Germany for an extension of time beyond Monday for reaching a final decision. Despatches from Paris would appear to indicate that, under the circumstances, such a request would be favorably received.

Nitti to Form Italian Cabinet

Francesco Nitti, former Italian minister of finance, who resigned from the cabinet last January because of a disagreement with Premier Orlando over the latter's foreign policy, has been asked to form the new Italian cabinet. It is semi-officially announced.

Signor Nitti is supposed to favor a compromise with the Jugo-Slavs in reference to conflicting claims to territory on the eastern coast of the Adriatic. During the last year of the war, he was looked upon with some concern by France. It was reported at the time because of his intimations that Italy might be forced to withdraw from the allies by reason of the failure of the allies to come to her assistance.

ANNUAL OUTING AT REVERE BEACH

The fact that the street carmen are out on strike did not prevent the employees of the Lawrence history from holding their annual outing at Revere beach today. About 100 young men and women, the latter presenting a fine appearance in their attire of white, boarded two large automobile trucks at the corner of Bridge and Paige streets at 9 o'clock this morning and journeyed merrily to the summer resort, where a most pleasant day was spent. Upon reaching the seashore the excursionists enjoyed a dip and later the many sights on the beach were taken in. At noon a very appetizing food dinner was enjoyed and the afternoon was devoted to sporting events and games. The affair, which was one of the most successful in a long time was in charge of Omer Harbort.

THIS BILL MAY INTEREST YOU

Lowell people will be interested in house bill 1562 providing for the appointment of civil service commissions in all cities of 100,000 or over in this state, which has been introduced in the legislature. If the bill is passed it will mean that the governor will appoint three civil service commissioners for this city. One will be appointed for one year, one for two and one for three years. Thereafter, a commissioner will be appointed annually to serve three years. The bill would go into effect in March, 1920. Provision is made that not more than two members of the commission be of the same political party. The local commission would at all times be under the direction of the state commission.

YANK'S STUNT ON TURKESTAN RAILWAY MAKES BOLSHEVIKI DIZZY

Half-Mile Stretch of Ruined Rails and Twisted Railroad Track Dooms Lenine to Famine in Vital Cotton Supply

BY ERNEST J. HOPKINS.
(N.E.A. Staff Correspondent.)

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., June 21.—Out on the sun-baked steppes of far-away Turkestan is a half-mile stretch of wrecked and twisted railroad track that has played a strange part in the lives of us all.

That broken segment of railway blocked the treaty of Brest-Litovsk from fulfillment.

Then it got between Bill o' Berlin and his heart's desire, shortening his desperate career by several moons.

Today, slowly but very surely, it is strangling Bolshevism to a lingering death.

What's more, an American was instrumental in putting that break there.

At the head of the track, in Tashkent, Turkestan, is all the raw cotton in the world outside of allied territory. This cotton can't get out. So that explains the above.

The American is Howard D. Hatley, American vice-consul in several Russian cities, who has just arrived here from Siberia. Though Hatley wouldn't admit it, he probably planned the job. An Orenburg Cossack, General Dutoff, did the actual work.

"It happened early in 1918," narrated Hatley. "The Germans were looking fine on paper—but they couldn't get cotton. They couldn't reach America, India, Egypt or the South Sea Islands. All the cotton in the world, for them, was down in Turkestan.

"Cotton was clogging the German mind when they put over the treaty of Brest-Litovsk. The treaty, of which I saw the original draft, gave the Germans free passage to Turkestan. You can't wage modern war or run a government without cotton. They simply had to have it.

"At the request of Madsin Summers, United States consul-general at Moscow—now dead—I went down into Rumania with a train of Red Cross supplies. With me was Gullian Lansing, a fine young fellow and a distant relative of the secretary of state. Lansing stayed in Rumania; I hit across to Orenburg, north of the Caspian and on the edge of Turkestan.

"I was after that cotton myself. The plan was for Consul Roger C. Treadwell and myself to go into Turkestan, buy all we could, and get it to Moscow.

But the place was swarming with German agents, and we decided it would be safer to leave it where it was.

"Now, everybody in Orenburg was sure the Germans were winning the war. Paris was under bombardment and the British were being backed on the beach at Ostend. I did my best to tell the world that the allies would win anyhow, but nobody believed me—except one man.

"He was General Dutoff, Cossack leader. Dutoff had put up a game fight against Germany, also against the Bolsheviks; today he is among Kholchak's strong supporters. Orenburg was in Bolshevik control, and Dutoff had to hide in the Ural mountains and out on the Khirgese steppes.

"There were only two railroads linking Tashkent with Berlin. One ran west near the Persian border to the Black Sea; the other, northward through Orenburg, Samara, Moscow and Warsaw. One night the British crossed the Persian border in Ford automobiles and cut the Black Sea railway. That little stunt didn't get into the papers, but it was one of the most important strokes of the war.

"Dutoff wanted to know how he could put a crimp in the Germans. I told him the railway that if Dutoff could manage to cut the railroad below Orenburg some rainy Thursday evening, and hold up that cotton in Tashkent, the Kaiser would weep several copious weeps.

"Dutoff was 200 miles away, but he acted promptly.

"Next thing I heard, Dutoff had made a sudden raid, shot a Bolshevik station agent and guards about ten miles west from Orenburg, seized an engine, looped up some loose ends of rail over the locomotive, and hacked a half-mile down the track, hauling the track with him.

"He also blew up a few culverts and a bridge, for good measure.

"Nobody in Russia could fix that track. It isn't fixed yet. You can judge the effect when I say that the great Moscow cotton mills, which normally employ 100,000 men and girls, are as silent as the grave.

"Cotton famine is speeding Lenine's end. All because General Dutoff did such a good job of 'looping the loop' ten miles out of Orenburg."

SENATOR WALSH HAS SECURED SHIPPING FAVORS FOR BOSTON

New Cabinet Office for Dept. of Marine and Fisheries Proposed—No Tariff Changes Probable at the Present Session

(Special to The Sun)

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 21.—Senator Walsh this week took up with the shipping board the matter of more adequate facilities for shipping from Massachusetts both in the way of coastwise and transatlantic trade.

Mr. Walsh had a conference with Chairman Hurley and afterwards told The Sun correspondent he was greatly pleased at the outcome. Mr. Hurley has agreed to see that Massachusetts has a fair showing and will provide whatever ships are shown to be necessary.

"It must be a fifty-fifty proposition," said the senator, "for Mr. Hurley made it quite plain that he should expect Massachusetts to do her part in furnishing material to be shipped from ports of that state, if he guaranteed the vessels. It was stated at the conference that in many instances Massachusetts shippers sent to other ports by rail, notably New York, and Mr. Hurley made it clear that unless Boston and other Massachusetts cities did their part towards making Boston a greater shipping port the shipping board could not carry the matter very far."

Senator Walsh is anxious that the state and shipping board co-operate and believes the shippers will be quick to take advantage of added facilities. Boston's mayor was represented at the conference by Josiah Quincy and Senator Walsh represented Massachusetts congressional interests in the matter.

Wants New Cabinet Office

The creation of a new cabinet office is advocated by Congressman Walsh of Massachusetts, such an official to have control of a department entirely devoted to maritime and coast interests. Except coast defense, now under the army and not to be interfered with, Mr. Walsh believes all matters pertaining to shipping, coast guard, merchant marine and fisheries and similar interests should constitute a separate department and an executive department known as the department of marine and fisheries be created with a secretary at its head who becomes a member of the cabinet.

The bill presented to congress by Mr. Walsh includes in the list to be absorbed by this new department, the merchant marine, the development and

Curtis Machine To Visit This City From Camp Devens Early Next Week

With the arrival at Camp Devens of a Curtis airplane, considerable interest is displayed in the air service and daily large numbers of world war veterans visit the recruiting station for information of the air service. Lieut. R. C. Moffatt, aviator, drove the machine through the aerial route from Mineola, L. I., by way of Worcester, to North Andover, Mass., last night.

Early next week Lieut. Moffatt will make trips to Lowell, Lawrence, Worcester, Fitchburg and adjacent towns.

Recruits for the air service who express a desire will be transported by aerial route from a nearby city to camp. On the first flight Lieut. V. M. Friar and M. F. Shea will make the trip. Both officers are on the recruiting staff and they will make speeches in the several cities for recruits.

Capt. John C. Macdonald, the camp recruiting officer, states that recruiting continues highly satisfactory. To date a total of 588 men have been enlisted and scores of the new soldiers have been furnished transportation to Camp Meade, Md., for assignment with the overseas replacement troops. Others have been sent to Hawaii, Philippines, the canal zone and in this country to cantonments and regular army posts.

In every case the men were allowed to express their preferences for the branch of the service and the place to which they desired to be sent. Incidentally the report of Captain Macdonald shows that the three-year enlistments predominated over the one-year enlistment periods.

SUMMER PLANS

International Institute Girls To Have Recreation

Wednesday evenings during July and August the girls of the International Institute are to have recreation periods under Mrs. Julian Keyes. The recreation room at the institute being too small for this purpose, the Middlesex Women's Club has granted the use of Middlesex hall. Week-end parties and picnics also have been planned which include the mothers and sisters of the non-English speaking girls.

A new and enthusiastic troop of Girl Scouts has lately been organized, composed entirely of Greek girls, several of whom are of the age of 14.

Last successfully, the captain of the troop is Miss Helen Hutton, lieutenant, Miss Helen Varnum; assistants, Misses Louise Holden and Edna Olney.

A group of non-English speaking men appeared at the institute a few weeks ago asking for English lessons. The school department being unable to furnish a teacher for the summer, the class is meeting at the institute with Miss Howell as teacher. The class has presented the institute with a flag from Portugal and has possession of a year's subscription to their leading newspaper. They have also presented the public library with a year's subscription to this paper.

Miss Kolanik, the Polish worker, is now assisting the Red Cross at Camp Devens with non-English speaking soldiers at the base hospital.

The Phi Alpha Alpha club is paying for a bed for needy Greek people at the Lowell General hospital. The girls are also helping needy families of the community and have given generously to the fund for war widows. This club is awake to the needs of the community and is trying to help constructively.

Quarter Century Ago

Just 25 years ago, June 13, the first gypsy-moth appeared in this part of the state. It had located on the farm of Henry Call in Billerica and had a number of family connections which have multiplied at such amazing speed during the quarter century period that the gypsy-moth has already become a sort of institution. There are a great many men employed in its extermination who would be very sorry if the pest should move to some more hospitable clime. The reason is, that these men—moth hunters all—would soon find their occupation gone.

Manual Training Exhibits

Manual training was first introduced into the schools of Lowell in 1893. According to the old Sun an exhibition of the work was held in Huntington hall quarter of a century ago. From the old Sun, the following is taken relative to some of the exhibits:

"Perhaps the best exhibition in point of workmanship, neatness and finish was the tool chest made by C. Frank Dupree of the Moody school. Others who exhibited tool chests were Eddie McHugh, Butler school; Willie Henderson, Bartlett school; Arthur Strout, Varnum school; Claud Coburn, Green school.

"Music cabinets were exhibited by Dennis Harrington, Green school; Tom O'Donnell, Bartlett school; Walter Ring, Walter Edgell and Edward Francis, Moody school, and J. Richardson, Pawtucket school.

"Herbert Lewis, Highland school, and Walter Benoit, Varnum school, showed small bureaus, while Ernest Sprou, Varnum school, exhibited a spice cabinet of difficult construction. Willie Keyes, Bartlett school, and Dennis Healey exhibited wall cabinets. A bookcase was shown by Harry Ferrin, Highland school, and a writing desk by Henry Peabody, Edson school. John Lewis, Varnum school, exhibited a small bureau.

Win Back your HEALTH

WHY should you be so miserable, when RED PILLS for Pale and Weak Women will make you so happy?

WHY should you suffer with Headaches, Backaches, Nervousness, Palpitation, Ringing in the Ears; when RED PILLS will stop these troubles?

WHY should you be pale and thin, tired and discouraged, when RED PILLS will give you back your health and strength.

IT is Anaemia or poor blood that is making your life a burden.

YOU need something to make plenty of good, rich blood—something to tone up the nerves—something to revitalize the whole system.

THIS "something" is RED PILLS for Pale and Weak Women.

RED PILLS are the blood food that conquer Anaemia and enable you to win back your health.

GEORGE MARSON, 79 Broad Street, Malboro, Mass., was in such a weakened state of health that she was really at a loss what to do to get better, as she had not been enjoying good health for a number of years. She now says that she cannot say too much good about RED PILLS for Pale and Weak Women, for it was by their regular use that she recovered good health. She was pale and weak, and her family doctor could do nothing for her. RED PILLS gave her strength, and cured her of those internal pains which used to make life so hard for her to bear. She is now enjoying the best of health.

CAUTION—The formula of RED PILLS for Pale and Weak Women was first discovered in Paris, in the year of 1870; by a famous French doctor, and they have been widely used ever since.

25 Years Wed

The old Sun has an account of the following June wedding:

"The marriage of Mr. Thomas Devitt and Miss Elizabeth L. Clark occurred last evening at the parochial residence of the Immaculate Conception church, the Rev. J. J. Dacey, O.M.I., performing the ceremony. The bride was attended by Miss Rosetta Clark, her sister, and the maid of honor was Miss Mary E. Hinchey of Lexington. Mr. P. J. Lynch was best man.

Milk Inspector Allen

The late Thomas Otis Allen, father of Dr. Allen, the dentist, was the first man in the history of the city to bring the office of milk inspector up to the state of efficiency that it should have in order to be of real benefit to the public. He became a practical chemist so that he analyzed not only milk but water and various food stuffs. He was the inveterate foe of dishonest milkmen. Soon after he entered the office a number of crooked milkmen got up a liberal purse of money and presented it to Mr. Allen, assuming that the contributors would be protected by the inspector while selling impure or diluted milk to the public. Mr. Allen turned the list over to the police authorities and the men were severely dealt with for attempted bribery.

The Sun speaking of Inspector Allen said:

"Inspector of Milk Allen has a plan on foot which should meet with the heartiest kind of support on the part of the people of our city.

"He desires to obtain a suitable sized cart and use it as a dispensary for sterilized milk to the poor people of the city at one cent per glass. The expenses will exceed the estimated receipts by a few dollars a day, but he intends to ask the charitably inclined people to help him in the work.

"The milk will be absolutely pure and will be far better for the poor people than beer or alcoholic liquors or even our questionable supply of water. The milk will be cooled and served by the glass."

If the people could buy sterilized milk at 5 cents a glass today, they would feel that they were being favored.

Mr. Allen's plan was carried out for one or two summers. The idea was taken up by the Lowell Guild, but the people had to go for the milk. There was no wagon to bring it to their doors.

Two R. R. Stations Abandoned

In the following the old Sun had a forecast of important railroad changes that followed:

"At the grade crossing hearing this forenoon the railroad company presented a plan whereby it was proposed to do away with the Central street depot and the freight yard and run electric cars on the line of the railroad to the Bleachery station for the accommodation of passengers."

The Boston & Maine depot on Central street now used in part by the Owl theatre was abandoned as a railroad station in November, 1915, and the old Boston & Lowell depot that stood on the site now occupied by the Y.M.C.A. building, was abandoned in 1905. The last passenger train ran to that station July 16 of that year.

The abandonment of both these stations removed several very dangerous grade crossings. The one on Church street and Rogers street was about as bad as that on Market, and Thorndike streets and many serious accidents occurred at both. The railroad tracks still remain but they are used only for freight cars chiefly at night and do not cause much inconvenience.

The Boston & Lowell railroad started here in 1845 and it was in 1875 that the Boston and Maine station on Central street was built.

The cab train from Middlesex street depot to Merrimack street caused very annoying delays at the intervening

Children of Samoa Find Buried German Riches on Treasure Island

(Special to The Sun)

Samoa children, treasure hunters extraordinary to their Uncle Sam, and below Commander Strum, U.S.N., who directed the search for buried Teuton treasure.

PAGO-PAGO, Samoa, June 21.—The most exciting and successful treasure hunt, outside the pages of Robert Louis Stevenson, is just coming to a close down here in the land where Stevenson wrote the tales that hold every American boy spellbound.

German agents buried the money during the war—hogsheds of it.

And Uncle Sam's little nephews have been unearthing it, with an ingenuity that would have won the admiration of Treasure Island's author.

Forty chests of silver and gold, to be exact, were hidden away in the sands during the dark of the moon by German officials who sought to flee the islands after the United States joined the allies.

Questioned by Lieutenant-Commander L. W. Strum of the U. S. Navy, they professed to have paid it all to Teuton agents. But Strum knew a thing or two about German wiles. Also he knew a thing or two about buried treasure, having been a voracious reader of Stevenson, Poe and the exploits of Kidd, Morgan, et al.

When his own men, after scouring the islands, reported failure, Strum called on the school children of Samoa, deputizing them all as treasure hunters extraordinary to their Uncle Sam.

He told them to go out and shuffle around in bare feet, and to report to him when they found any loose soil crossings during business hours.

The New Courthouse

Just 25 years ago, according to the old Sun, the county commission was about to start building the courthouse on Gorham street. In an interview published in The Sun, County Commissioner Reed said:

"We want to build a courthouse which Lowell will be proud of and we want to have one as nearly perfect as possible.

"We would like to have the foundation built this fall so that the brick work could be started in the spring. It will take one year to build the proposed courthouse. We shall pay particular attention to the ventilation and if necessary we shall place fans in the basement. Nothing will be left undone to give Lowell a courthouse in keeping with the city's needs. The old courthouse will be left standing until the new one is completed."

THE OLD TIMER.

Lt. Com. L. W. Strum

with hard ground around it.

Hundreds of kids began to shuffle around, both vigorously and well. In fact, they shimmied all over the island.

Charley Jewitt, 11-year-old son of the navy yard foreman at Pago-Pago, made the first strike. Running down hill, his bare toes had sunk into loose soil and came up with several German mark pieces.

Strum and some of his little deputies followed the excited Charlie to the spot and shoveled up enough coin to fill a huge barrel.

The treasure had been imperfectly sealed in long terra cotta cylinders, cached about two feet below the surface of the ground.

The next gold plant was unearthed by a native boy who was chasing a pig home. A little digging uncovered the greatest cache of German gold found by American agents during the war—bulging chests of it that would have made Captain Kidd faint with covetous joy.

Since then the boys and girls of Pago-Pago have been prospecting Samoa with a thoroughness that puts to shame the traditional industry of the forty-niners or the Klondykers.

They shuffle night and day. Some have had to take an enforced rest until they can grow a new coat of skin on the bottom of their feet. And if there's a hidden German mark left in all Samoa, it's buried mighty deep!

LADY LOOKABOUT

Time after time during the past couple of weeks, I have seen automobiles loaded with great branches of beautiful white laurel. Sometimes a whole tree of it could be seen waving out over the back of the car. Does it not seem a pity to so ruthlessly hack down and destroy this plant? Just as the trailing arbutus is becoming extinct, so will a few more years of the present method of gathering laurel bring the extinction of that beautiful shrub. Just as pleading notices are placed about, asking persons not to pull up the roots when gathering arbutus, so will such notices be placed about asking consideration in gathering laurel. It is the same old story of looking the stable after the horse has been stolen.

Elephants Use Powder

At the circus the other night, I saw elephant after elephant take up a trunkful of fine dust and powder himself generously.

"The nasty things," I heard from over my shoulder.

The speaker was a woman whose face was thickly covered with talcum. It set me thinking. Does it you?

For Combination Schools

The legislative committee of the Middlesex Women's club is lending its support to the bill soon to come before state legislature for the mandatory support of continuation schools in every community where there may be one hundred or more pupils. As the law now stands the support of these schools is permissive. The Federation of Women's clubs, numbering 300,000 women, is working to make the schools mandatory. It is most fitting that the women of the state should urge this legislation, as it affects all working boys and girls under 18 years of age who have less than an eighth grade education. This is considered the minimum of education which any man or woman should have. The main opposition is in regard to the expense involved, an expense which the state should not consider in the light of the asset an educated man or woman becomes.

Ratifying Suffrage Amendment

Should Massachusetts fail to ratify the Susan B. Anthony amendment, or should the state legislature so long defer ratification that the action should be superfluous, the women of Massachusetts have every reason for ever to feel keenly disappointed in the commonwealth. The amendment needs the ratification of only three-fourths of the states. The other one-fourth may object most strenuously. I will say all that I think. At the present writing the amendment needs the ratification of only six more states. To those of us who hopefully looked to our own state for early and favorable action, it is beginning to look as though Massachusetts may fail us. Unless she become one of the six remaining states now needed, her approval or disapproval will avail her nothing. Always there has been a strange reluctance on the part of our legislators to give favorable attention to the question of equal suffrage. One representative interviewed within a short time declared that he himself was most strongly inclined toward equal suffrage, but his constituents were most unfavorable. I should think the legislators would feel chagrined to think that in the end their approval or lack of it may be immaterial. Better jump on the band wagon while it is passing, boys!

Riding on the Jitters

It wouldn't be safe for me to put into print my opinion of the man who invented strikes. I should be arrested at once and locked up. This cessation of street car traffic may be a strike and it may not be a strike. The distinction is too nice for my poor head, besides to me, a rose by any other name you know how it goes. My attitude toward the suspension of the street cars has undergone a distinct change from day to day. At first my walking was a lark. I was good-natured about it and so was every other pedestrian on the road last Monday. When I could not be waited on at noon that day in a down town lunch room, my spirits fell a little, but not much. After I had gone home that afternoon and had attended the circus in the evening, I was ready to retire to my couch and sleep the sleep of the just. The next day I was pretty tired when I awoke. Again I walked and the feeling of elation of the previous morning was followed by one of righteous indignation. My fatigue made me feel cross. I began to think about my rights, and when a woman begins to think about her rights, she is in a dangerous mood. Look out for her. The third day rolled around. Aching and weary, I arose. This day I began to pity myself. I was the victim of something too great for me. I set out on my long walk. Then, wonder of wonders, a man whom I did not know asked me to ride, and against all my rules of conduct regard-

SUNSHADES FOR SUMMERTIME!

BY BETTY BROWN

NEW YORK, June 21.—This summer's sunshades are about as the flowers of the field for variety and beauty. Japanese and Chinese effects are first in favor. Flat topped, dome or pagoda shapes with short handles, beautifully tipped, are conspicuous in all the New York shops given to these important accessories and the majority of them are many-ribbed and perhaps a trifle larger than in former years. They run the gamut from the delicately beautiful to the daring and bizarre, but they are all interesting, every last one of them.

The chiffon and silk ones are mostly dome shaped and hand painted in pretty Watteau effects or printed in great pompador flower patterns that show faintly through chiffon linings. Some have oddly-shaped bounces that look like tunics and some are all lace—Princesses, Brussels or Chantilly, with a frill falling over the edges.

GRACE AND BEAUTY FOR GIRL WHO SWIMS

The Sun has secured from Marjorie Breckenridge, famous swimming instructor of the Y.W.C.A., a series of six signed articles, written exclusively for this paper, on swimming for girls. Miss Breckenridge is holder of the world's lifesaving alliance emblem. Her first article follows:

There is no doubt that women and girls are taking an increased interest in swimming. This is true of all sports to some extent, but the water sports hold first place. The reason for this is that girls find they can equal men in swimming and at times outdo them as they cannot in any other sport. The girl who can swim out to the farthest raft and do a fine high dive makes a pretty good pal on summer outings. Besides all the pleasure gained from swimming, there is also the benefit to health and good looks.

To swim to health and beauty is no idle saying. A vigorous swim sends the blood racing through your body and away go all the bad effects of a sluggish circulation. The great amount of leg action helps the digestive or-

ing like circumstances, I fairly leaped into the seat beside him. His car was nice and shiny and he was rather good looking, save for the fact that one of his eyes was bereft of eyelashes. My luck changed with that ride. Now I have a jinxed driver who calls for me and brings me home at noon, and I who protested when the five-cent fare was increased to six, find myself willingly paying my John a dime every trip, and consider it cheap. Personally, I do not care how long the strike lasts. Bill Day State had not endeared himself to us, and now that we are accustomed to his absence, it is surprising how little we miss him.

Swimming Mastery Means Grace, Poise and Perfect Muscular Control

Wrinkles and ugly blotches on the skin disappear because these organs are functioning correctly. Even taking a shower soothes the nerves, and a swim does much more. Worried frowns and discontented mouths become beautiful with smiles if you only swim regularly. No swimmer ever has trouble with sleeplessness; she just can't keep awake.

The greatest advantage of swimming as an exercise for women is that it does not require a great deal of strength. Large, disagreeable muscles are not developed; but instead, beautiful, smoothly working ones. The crawl stroke will develop the muscles of the shoulders and chest and keep the waist and hips small. If you swim a hundred yards using the crawl and have your breath at the end you are prepared for an unusual physical effort.

Every girl swimmer should find out just what her physical weakness is, and then use the particular stroke that will help her. Those with weak backs ought to learn the back stroke. After doing it for six months they have more faith in their own backs than in their corsets. Those who wish to gain more grace and poise, should learn the side stroke. The long, slow arm movement, the scissor kick, the relaxed body and perfect balance during the long glide between strokes all help to gain these ends. The muscles are normally developed and controlled, and that means a marked increase in gracefulness. Walking and dancing will be better than ever. The control of muscles is made even more keen by diving. To be able to control arms and legs while upside down is an accomplishment indeed.

To gain all these benefits a girl must swim regularly and vigorously. A swim every day means lovely rounded muscles, a clear skin, a body that moves with grace and a smile that will let you in anywhere.

GUARDING JESS' LARDER

Toledo Mother and Daughter Cook For Willard and His Assistants

Mrs. M. J. Robinson is a fine cook. So is her daughter, Mrs. Dessie Cron-

haugh. Jess Willard says—and he should know. In a big stone house, flanked and faced by other homes, substantial looking structures, that mark what most Toledoans concede is the best residence section of their city, the champion is training—and dishing for his big argument with Jack Dempsey on July Fourth. Food—the right kind, the right amount, and rightly prepared and served—is a marvelously important item for a champion or any one else, who wants to bring himself up to the physical and mental perfection mark. So Jess retained "Mother" Robinson and her daughter to cook this right kind of food for him; as almost the first step after he landed in Toledo to begin his training.

"Don't stint" was almost his daily instruction. No matter how big a man is, he should hesitate—and usually does—to swerve from his chosen field (for ring, as it chances to be) to instruct an artist, be it of the kitchen or elsewhere, outside his own realm. But "don't stint" was made a hard and fast rule. No matter how strictly the champion must diet, he must have muscle-building, sustaining food, and so must the other members of his party.

For instance, some days when Jess Willard, Ray Archer, his business manager, and Jack Hoppel and Walter Monaghan, his sparring partners, sit down at the dinner table, that table is crowned with an inch-thick steak, broiled after this fashion:

Lay the steak on a buttered gridiron, to follow Mrs. Robinson's instructions. Turn it often as it begins to drip. Do not season until done. Put pepper and salt on both sides, after removing the steak to a warm platter. Spread a liberal amount of butter over it, and serve at once. (Best corner the champion first, that it may be served at once.)

Okra Soup
"Bessie, I wish you'd look in the oldest cook book and find that okra soup recipe—you know, the rich one, the gumbo."

WELL, ANYWAY, THERE'S ALWAYS THE OCEAN WHEN THE LAND GOES DRY

They should worry about the country going "dry." There's always the ocean, you know—plenty of it, with a good head of foam.

It's the innocent bystander that'll have to do the worrying, more'n like-

won't let us economize. Many days our grocery bill is $20; and it will usually run over $100 a week. But no matter how substantial a meal is, he always likes a soup to begin with. This is one of his favorites:
Pry out the fat of a slice of bacon or fat ham. Drain it off, and in it fry brown the slices of a large onion. Scald, peel and cut up enough fresh tomatoes to make two quarts. Cut thin one quart of okra, and put the ingredients together, with a little chopped parsley, in a stew kettle. Cover with about three quarts of hot broth of any kind. Cook slowly for three hours, season with salt and pepper, and serve hot.

Salad and Rhubarb Pie

Back in Lawrence, Kansas, Jess Willard's wife, a little dark-haired woman, has charge of a garden which she farms, herself—a garden larger than four city lots. He says she used to keep chickens, too. They got into her garden and ate up corn and tomatoes—then she sold the chickens.

Farm life is in high favor with the Willard family, evidently. In fact, one of the champion's avowed ambitions is to make Jess, Jr., a farmer instead of a prize fighter. Another ambition, by the way, he says, is to "just live and enjoy life." And he and Mrs. Willard and their five children seem to do just that on their Kansas farm.

One of his favorite salads is a cabbage salad made this way:
Shred a head of new cabbage. Put with it two small tomatoes, diced, a small onion, diced, and a small sweet-

ly. Because it's just as Tom Duff says—you know, Tom, over in the comic strip; Tom says the government will probably charge a luxury tax to sit on the beaches this summer.

But at that, it's going to be worth it, especially in Los Angeles, where they've taken the censorship off what the mermaids put on to keep from getting sunburned.

After years of interference in the matter of bathing suits and, an al-

tempt to make propriety depend upon the number of stripes on a stocking, the city fathers have finally decided to let bathers dress as they please.

For results note picture above. "Little grains of water, little drops of sand, make the ocean pleasant and— We seem to be a little rusty on our poetry—but you know what we mean.

Anyway, somebody's always putting the joy back into life!

This motorless plane is a German invention. It is said to have flown to a height of 150 feet. The wing span is about 45 feet. The data which accompanied the picture when it was sent out of Germany did not reveal the secret of operation, but the pilot may be seen sitting between the wings.

"Study Firm's Business Methods"—Mill Expert

SAN FRANCISCO, June 21.—Because Miss Hermine Knur sought and assumed duties her position as stenographer did not demand, she is today a woman of importance in the business world, with a corresponding salary.

Five years ago she took the job as stenographer with a big flour company. She filled the bill to a nicety and earned every cent of her salary. She might have "soldiered" about the office half the day when her duties were done; but she didn't.

She studied wheat, flour milling and disposition of the finished product. When the war came on and Uncle Sam's food dictator limited the quantity of certain wheats in flour, Miss Knur studied the orders, and when the mill reports came in she was quick to see whether these orders had been obeyed.

She looked out for mistakes which might involve the company with Uncle Sam or even endanger the mill's patriotism. A report sent back with Miss Knur's blue pencil mark was about the last thing a mill superintendent wanted to see.

Result—no mistakes in carrying out of government orders and—Miss Knur promoted to the assistant secretaryship of one of the biggest flour companies in the country.

"Don't be satisfied with being a stenographer," she advises, "when that position opens a better field for you. Every stenographer has the opportunity to study her firm's business methods. Often she can assist in their improvement and her own at the same time."

KELLARSTONE BEING

USED ON MANY HOMES

The firm of Mendlik Brothers, whose place of business is at 1515 Middlesex street, contractors for all kinds of stucco, composition and mastic flooring as well as for the kellarstone (imperishable stucco) for the exterior and interior of houses and in fact all kinds of buildings, is having its hands full this summer and is employing several crews of men to do this kind of work which of course calls for workmanship of the most skilled kind.

The former method in building a house was to of course frame it, board it, put on building paper, clapboard, and then of course paint at least two or more coats. The kellarstone process, however, saves a great deal of expense over this old style of building for, after the frame is up, kellarstone can be applied after the metal expanded lath is nailed on. Kellarstone obviously needs no painting. After it is on the side of the building, in its appearance and durability it is the equivalent or better of brick or stone construction. To put this material on the cost is about 37 cents per square yard and at this price it is by all odds the cheapest and at the same time the most durable method of siding in a building. Added to this is of course the fact that no other building on a given street where a kellarstone house is to be seen is of any better appearance and, in fact, few equal a kellarstone house in general appearance.

STANDARD BOTTLING

EXPECTS BIG SALES

Within a comparatively few days now the importance of the bottled products turned out by the Standard Bottling company at its famous Mt. Pleasant Spring bottling plant, will materially increase, due of course to the dawning of the war-time bone dry era.

This company manufactures ginger ale and different flavored beverages. Besides selling drinks of better than the average quality, the consuming public should bear in mind when thinking of buying such beverages, that Standard Bottling company uses, as the foundation of its beverages, a spring water that by analysis is shown to have very nearly the same remarkable mineral and other properties that have been so long exploited by the owners of the famous Poland Spring water at Poland Spring, Maine.

STIRLING MILLS ARE RUNNING FULL SPEED

Business is booming at the plant of the Stirling mills company in Lawrence street and Manager Royal White reports there is a good volume of orders in hand and more orders being received every day. This company manufactures a particularly high grade of woolen fabric to be made up into suits for men and women. Stirling cloth is really a nationally known name among makers of the best suits, and has been so known for nearly fifty years. The general run of men and women who recognize the best value in clothing recognize that nothing can exceed the wearing qualities and the quality of holding shape in a garment, like genuine wool fabric. It is no wonder then that the Stirling mills, making clothing according to a tradition of honor and with harmonious and pleasant relations between employer and workers obtaining, are enjoying the good run of business being experienced at the present time.

EDEN WASH MACHINES

SOON ON THE MARKET

Lowell women will very shortly have a chance to become acquainted with the Eden electric washing machine, and those who like it well enough to purchase it, will find to use a true advertising phrase, that it indeed brings a paradise to every woman's home. Another source of satisfaction for the women living in Lowell and vicinity who buys one of these machines will be in the fact that, besides acquiring a good machine to aid her in her work, she is indirectly but usefully helping what is to become distinctly one of our home industries.

The Eden electric washing machines for the entire eastern distribution are to be made at the Middlesex Village plant of the Gillespie Manufacturing company and the industry is already of enough importance so that 300 men and women already are being provided with employment there. The local agent of the Eden washing machine will shortly be announced and, of course, an elaborate advertising campaign will be carried on. This machine as the writer saw it demonstrated at Middlesex Village is certainly of a kind and type to immediately take the average woman's eye and give her the impulse to wish to have it at her home.

CHELMSFORD FORGE

CO. IS DOING WELL

With the improved building situation business at Chelmsford Forge and Iron Works is considerably on the increase. All kinds of so-called "building iron" which is used even in the construction of wooden buildings is being called for. The men connected with this company have had valuable experience in large cities as well as in cities the size of Lowell and when they deliver a piece of work it is safe to say that it is the best of the kind that can be turned out. Reasonable prices and satisfaction to the customer at all times are two things that stand out prominently in all the dealings this company has with the general public. The place of business is 492 Chelmsford street and the phone is 5100.

GIRL GRADUATE SEEKING HER FIRST JOB

How well am I qualified?
What do I lack?
What's the cash value of my schooling?

Thousands of girl graduates, seeking or finding their first job, are today asking themselves these vital questions as they face commencement in the business world.

Their talents, wit, training and ordinary "horse sense" are being tested and tagged.

Many of them are finding, with some bewilderment, that there is a considerable gap between what they are able to deliver technically and what additional merit is required in the worth while position.

Responsibility for this gap is variously laid to business colleges, the general school system, employers of a certain class, parents, and the girl herself.

Wherever the bulk of the blame may rest, the average girl on the threshold of the workaday world is apt to find that the human qualities which back up and round out technical excellence are rated at a higher cash value than mere knowledge of business practice or speed in typing.

The attitude of many employers, here and elsewhere, is summed up in this connection in the following paragraphs by W. S. Owensby, chief clerk, western division, of the Western Union Telegraph company, and employment expert, in answer to the question: "What is the matter with the girl graduate as a business investment?"

"Most of all," explained Owensby, "we want thoroughness, loyalty, ambition, initiative and just ordinary 'savvy'—the human and moral qualities which too many schools either do not or cannot teach.

"Generally girls applying for jobs are all right on theory and technique, but many of them haven't been taught discipline, business stamina and a fundamental understanding of what business is about and what part they are expected to play in it if they're to succeed.

"The average graduate seems to fear responsibility. And where there's little responsibility there's little pay.

"Just business colleges over-stress speed, at the expense of thoroughness. Consequently, we often find the fastest worker actually the poorest and most costly—too often a brainless machine pounding out errors. Far more adjustment period between the time she graduates and the time she can command a good salary."

"Tell denurious employers to look elsewhere," is his advice.

"Another great handicap in preparing girls for a business career is the failure of the father to concern himself in their education. It is a grave mistake for him to leave the cultural and practical development of his daughter entirely to the mother. He should constantly give her the benefits of his own experience and observation, saying that not over 28 per cent of the strictly farming towns in his state got any benefit under the clause which does not permit it to be expended in towns of over 2500 people. He served notice that as a member of the appropriation committee, he should next year bring the matter to its attention and predicted that unless a fairer distribution was made the appropriation would be cut down. He showed that at present the lion's share of the appropriation goes to the sparsely settled sections of the south and west, while the heaviest taxpayers are found in New England.

Changes Come Quickly

It is entirely useless to even comment on current events. Only those of the past furnish safe anchorage so quickly do conditions change. What was a reasonable forecast at sunrise is entirely out of date at sundown. Take the treaty investigation for instance. Before the newspapermen could get a fairly good round-up of its strongest points the Knox resolution to separate the treaty from the league had put the nose of the investigation entirely out of joint. And it's the same with all the big issues now before congress.

No Trill This Session

Apparently the republicans do not intend to tinker with the tariff at the special session. They will take up the railroad bill and a series of long hearings before the interstate commerce committee will probably follow, during which time a series of three day recesses will be taken, in order to give time for such hearings and for the senate to catch up in the work, as well as to discuss the peace treaty and matters connected with it.

What the outcome will be is, entirely problematical. Both sides claim a safe margin, but both likewise are anxious over the result. The return of the president will doubtless clarify the situation.

Officials Shifting Quarters

May Day moving did not end with June. During the democratic control all chairmanships went to democrats and with them went the biggest and most convenient offices. Republicans, no matter how prominent, had to be content with small quarters and a long run from office to house. Only Uncle Joe Cannon and a few others of great note were exceptions to this rule. The incoming of republican control brought a complete upheaval. To the victors belong the spoils of big committee rooms, the best quarters, the best offices. The democrats were ousted from their strongholds just as they in turn had ousted the republicans several years ago when the turnover in party leadership struck congress. And though the session is now a month old, men with their arms full of papers, little trucks and push carts with rubber tires, piled high with books, small boys and big negroes have looted congressional belongings back and forth through the great marble corridors of the senate and house office buildings.

Committee chairmen have two or three rooms at their disposal, and the men who stepped down and out from chairmanships now find themselves in one small office while the former ranking member of the committee has exchanged his former hall bedroom quarters for the three-room suite. But it's one of the fortunes of politics and everyone takes his portion with a smile.

RICHARDS.

BACHELDER'S WHEELS AID STRIKE VICTIMS

The tie-up of street car traffic in this city through the strike of the street carmen has caused many inconveniences to residents of Lowell as some had to walk to their work and others were forced to remain at home because of lack of transportation. There was one class of people who were indifferent and it was the one made up of persons who own bicycles. Profit by the lesson and call at George H. Bachelder's place of business at 5 and 7 Postoffice avenue and select the wheel that suits you best. Mr. Bachelder is also agent for a motorcycle of wide reputation and deals in incandescent gas lamps as well as motorcycles and bicycle appliances.

A German military observation tower of unique design has been sent to Frankford arsenal for study by experts. Composed principally of steel tubing about 15 inches in diameter, the tower has a height of 90 feet when fully extended, but telescopes into a section which is easily carried on an army truck. The observer, protected by a shield, sits comfortably at the base and views the terrain through a series of lenses and mirrors.

"Schools should teach pupils that dissipation interferes with good work and precludes good pay.

"I recently had to discharge a girl—whose pay I had raised $5 per month for several months—because she stayed out late at night and got in the habit of napping at her work. She lacked loyalty.

"A girl must know more than text books can teach, if she expects to get anywhere in the business world. When parents, girls and schools recognize this there will be a far less costly retailions in the world of work."

In speaking of the "rouge evil" this instructor says, "We make the girl student drop the lip stick or we drop the girl. We are not catering to employers who prefer a ready smile to sound business training.

"It is deplorable and an indictment against a certain type of business man that 90 per cent of our girl students leave school before they are equipped to work and earn a proper salary."

Wherever the fault may lie, the business man of good judgment is demanding better qualification than the average novice worker or job seeker is offering.

Shipping Favors For Boston Continued

Improvement of waterways, the coast guard and bureau of fisheries, light-house, navigation and steamboat service, the United States shipping board, the waterways commission and other bureaus now under control of the department of commerce or other existing departments. The Walsh bill creates bureaus with chiefs to specifically care for the various divisions mentioned.

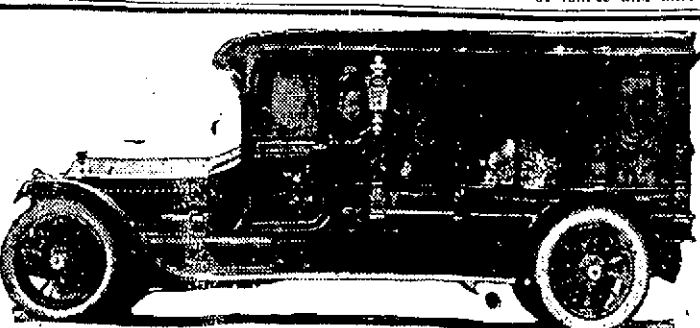

This would mean the abolition of the shipping board and the creation of a shipping bureau. In commenting on his bill Mr. Walsh said: "I believe the shipping and fisheries interests will be of such magnitude after the war that their administration will require a cabinet officer who has not the other board duties to attend to as exists in the departments already created. Under such a department should be placed all existing government activities relative to marine commerce and transportation.

Brookline Army Hospital Congressman Treadway has taken active steps to prevent the abandonment of the army hospital at Brookline, on the ground that if that is not in commission there is no place in New England where the sick and wounded boys from that section of the country can be cared for without entailing a long journey for their families and friends. The war department has stated to Mr. Treadway that in case the Brookline hospital is closed New York city or Plattsburg will be the nearest available hospitals.

The war department announces that the bodies of all soldiers can be later brought home, at the request of families but at the same time congress is making generous provision to care for the bodies overseas by appropriating a sum of $500,000 for establishment of a Great American cemetery in France.

New England Farmers Discussion on the agricultural bill shows that New England is getting but a small proportion of the farmers and club co-operative fund while it contributes a large share of the tax. Senator McLean of Connecticut

The constantly increasing demand for Motor Funerals has necessitated the purchase of a motor to be used exclusively as a hearse. As it has always been our endeavor to give superior and dependable service, we have added to our equipment a Packard Reo. Our Packard equipment is now the finest in New England.

Doings of the Screen Artists

The first opal to be mined in Australia after the cessation of hostilities has been sent as a gift to Naomi Childers, who plays a prominent part in the Geraldine Farrar production now under way at the Goldwyn studios. The stone is a gift from a New York newspaperman "over there," and was personally brought to the actress recently by a returned overseas doughboy, who presented it with the donor's compliments.

Madeline Travers is making "Until Eternity" under the direction of Harry Millard. In the cast are Tom Senta, Frank Leigh, Beatrice Laplane and Jack Nelson.

Evelyn Nesbit, who has just completed a Fox contract has not yet decided what she will do. She stated recently that she has received an offer to go to London to appear in productions for an English company, and that she has also received an offer from an American company. However, it is quite certain that she will take a two months' rest before doing any picture work at all.

Upon the completion of "High Speed," starring Tom Mix, Edward LeSaint will start work on "A Hard-boiled Tenderfoot," for Mix, written by Tom himself.

Marguerite Clark following a short rest at Palm Springs, Cal., has commenced work at the Hollywood studios on her new Paramount picture, "Widow By Proxy," adapted from Catherine Chisholm Cushing's play which served as a starring vehicle for May Irwin some years ago. Nigel Barrie, recently of the Canadian army, will play the male lead.

Elsie Bartlett, known to movie fans throughout the country as the "Paramount Flagg Girl," through her work in James Montgomery Flagg comedies, will shortly forego the legitimate stage in order to resume her motion picture career. Miss Bartlett, whose last screen appearance was in the leading role of the Flagg comedy picture, "Con and Economy," is said to be negotiating with a prominent producer with a view to starring in a series of feature productions.

Hallam Coolidge, the handsome young actor who was proclaimed by Rex Beach as the perfect screen type, has been cast to play a prominent part with Mabel Normand in her new Goldwyn production, "He Will Portray a sort of male vampire, and it is a regular occurrence nowadays to see him in the studio barber shop having his mustache waved.

Albert Ray and Roxanna MacGowan were married recently. On that date his first release was issued by Fox, entitled "Married in Haste."

It has been announced that Mrs. Sydney Drew will continue to make two-reel Paramount-Drew comedies.

for the V. E. K. Film corporation. As in the past Mrs. Drew will prepare her own working scenarios and will direct the comedies in person.

Fritzi Brunette was injured last week when she was working in a scene with Big Mitchell Lewis and a massive door fell on her. She received a scalp wound that had to be stitched and held up the work of the picture half the day. It also caused the director to delay finishing scenes in that set because Fritzie could not comb her hair for 10 days while the wound was healing.

Pretty Elinor Fair is quite a gifted little maiden. She studied to be a musician, but a famous teacher in Paris told her she should become a singer instead. Elinor took up voice culture quite seriously—until well, the screen allures us all. However, she still sings, and some day she may sing and act in musical comedy.

Although work on Norma Talmadge's forthcoming Select Picture, "The Way of a Woman," is practically completed, the retaking of several important scenes and the addition of two new names to the cast delayed the announcement of the complete personnel of Miss Talmadge's company until the present time. Her support in this production will be Conway Tearle, Gertrude Berkeley, Colonel Vernon, MacMcAvoy, George La Guerra, William Humphreys and Stuart Holmes.

Beatrice Joy, the girl who supported William Farnum in "The Man Hunter" and who is now appearing in stock at San Diego, says that when she first went on the stage she was so frightened that if she had castanets tied to her knees she would have been a regular Spanish band.

It is now definitely announced by Cecil B. DeMille that Thomas Meighan will play the title role in Mr. DeMille's latest version of Sir James M. Barrie's satirical play, "The Admirable Crichton," which, however, will probably not be released under that title. Elliott Dexter, originally slated to play the title role of Crichton, was taken ill with a nervous breakdown a short time ago and is unable to play the part. Gloria Swanson will play the female lead, and Lila Lee will also have a good part.

Vitaphone announces "Beauty Proof" as its next photodrama, starring Harry Moray. It was written by James Oliver Curwood and deals with one of those strange, relentless man-hunts undertaken by the Northwest Mounted Police.

One of the most enjoyable features promised for "The Courageous Coward," Albert Capellani's "Filmsical Comedy," co-starring Creighton Hale and June Caprice, will be the appearance of a bevy of peaches recruited by Mr. Capellani from various Broadway musical comedy shows.

Lillian Walker is Warren Kerrigan's new leading lady.

Mabel Taliaferro has been granted a divorce from Thomas Carrigan.

GREAT SUMMER BILL AT THE STRAND—MANAGEMENT TO GIVE AWAY SHETLAND PONY

Some theatres close for the summer season. Others cut their program down one-half, but The Strand, instead of doing either, goes the other way. It gives a bigger and better bill than ever. That's why every one favors Lowell's biggest, best, coolest and most comfortable theatre.

What do you think of our latest feature? Read it and judge for yourself.

The management is to give away, absolutely free, to the most popular boy or girl of Lowell and suburbs, a handsome, live Shetland pony with cowboy outfit. Think of it! Given away absolutely free.

Beginning Monday every purchaser of a ticket will receive a coupon and the boy or girl receiving the largest number will be awarded the pony and outfit. Every boy and girl of Lowell and vicinity is eligible for the prize. It's open to all. To get all your friends, relatives and their friends to come together and work for the big prize and a dandy pony. You'll be sure to have your friends see your votes. The officer they visit the theatre, the sure you are of it. Lag the little equine beauty. Solicit among everyone you know and urge them to be constant patrons of The Strand. The contest will continue for some weeks during the summer.

The sacred concert for Sunday includes the following vaudeville acts: The Four McDonalds, instrumentalists; Robert's, comedy singing and talking; Barton & Willis, general entertainers; Billy Raymond, comedian; Gertrude Breena, vocalist. The feature picture of the week is "The Fear Woman" in "Miss Ambition."

"The Fear Woman" is Pauline Frederick's third Goldwyn offering of real merit. The picture presents the story of a woman in a modern psychological study, which increases in intensity up to a final smashing climax. It is offering the exceptionally gifted star plays the difficult role of a young woman who has grown, flowerlike to maturity, only to discover a horrible weakness, has afflicted every member of her family for generations past.

How the unsuspecting girl meets this disclosure, how she is overcome by the sudden fear that she may become a victim of the curse; her fight against this possibility and the more subtle terror lest she may be above its shadow are portrayed by Miss Frederick with characteristic forcefulness. She receives the support of a competent cast.

Bessie Love, up to the filming of "The Little Boss," could ride a horse and a bike and swim and do everything an athletic girl could do. And now she can ride a log, just like a lumberjack, and she's proud of the role of a little cow boss and doing it. Its filming the director, took the whole company to a camp among the giant Redwoods of California, where the scenes were filmed with beautiful effect. An early scene has Miss Love save the life of a city chap who has fallen from a log. She does this most expertly, as well as many other things. The action of the story is swift and there are several comedy reliefs, especially when she goes to the city to get an education so that she can fall in love and be a "modern" female. It's said to be a great picture.

Weekly will help round an exceptional bill, and Miss Margaret McDonough, the soloist for the week, is sure of the one of the best of the big program. She will be heard in a new brace of song hits.

Sessue Hayakawa, the popular Japanese star in "The Courageous Coward," is equally at home on the cinder path or golf links as before the camera. As Suki in "The Courageous Coward" the star is called on to show his ability as a golfer and all round athlete. He exhibits perfect form in driving off and following up. The story of the picture is gripping. They called Suki a weak-kneed coward and said the run-down had bluffed him into dropping the prosecution of the accused murderer. He could not betray the man he thought his sweet-heart loved, and so bore the stigma of a coward. A romance of the underworld of Chinatown, where he is murdered, and the fantastic orgies of the notorious Barbary Coast are woven into a gripping drama is told in wonderful manner. It's one of the big things on the bill for the last three days of the week.

Civilized woman refuses to wear these rings. They are a badge of slavery. But still civilized woman wears the wedding ring, which has the same significance as the savage woman's nose ring. Divorce makes it possible for civilized woman to cast off this little band of bondage. Sometimes she is forced to cast it off against her will, because divorce laws are such that the husband can frame charges against the woman he no longer loves. This Gladys Brockwell is caught in "The Divorce Trap," a scandalous William Fox production which is coming during the week end. But because she is a good woman she succeeds in finding happiness in spite of her husband's wickedness and crooked friends. The story is said to be a very strong one.

A new Tom Mix comedy—one of those rip-roarin' kind—will be shown, as well as a new Weekly and new song numbers by Miss McDonough. Don't forget that 10 cents sees it all and that The Strand is the "coolest spot in town."

FITCHBURG, June 21.—Fitchburg could make no headway against the pitching of Pierotti here yesterday afternoon. Lowell, winning 3 to 1. In addition to airtight pitching the visitors played errorless ball and batted opportunely. Based on balls and three misplays by Fitchburg infielders aided in the victory of Hayden's team. The work of Eckstein and Weaver featured for Lowell, while Loftus furnished the fireworks for the home club. The score:

Babe Ruth, Boston ace, has been pushing his battering average to the skies in the three weeks just passed, and now stands well over .400. A Fine Job—Not!

We were wondering the other day about the pay of sparring partners engaged by contenders for the heavy weight championship of the world. It ought to be enormous. Jack Heinen, one of Willard's preliminary punching bugs, has heard the sweet carolling of the bell and has been in the ring for 10 days. His third came yesterday, substantially as follows:

"Willard set a furious pace for him and rushed into a clinch, pushed him half way through the ropes, and let him with a right-hand upper cut to the chin. Heinen landed headfirst on the canvas, and the first of the ring was completely out.

Lady, lady! These days are just one continuous round of pleasure for some people.

Would Meet Valger Again

We have received the following letter from M. J. Cronin, manager of the 75-Pine St. Pittsfield, Mass., 15, 1919.

Dear Sir: About a month ago, on May 22nd, to be exact, Benny Valger, the well known French featherweight, staged a fight in Lowell, Phil Logan in the fifth round of a scheduled 12-round contest. This bout took place before the Crescent A.A. Club, and was a very interesting one.

Now, without desiring to detract in any way from the glory which rightfully belongs to Valger, I wish to say that I was very much impressed by his fighting ability, and I feel that I should like to see him again.

What we want is a return match with Valger and, considering the conditions under which Logan fought in that other bout, we feel entitled to it. I do not for a minute consider that Valger is Logan's equal, but we feel that he is a class as they make them, but he is not a bit faster than this boy Logan, and I feel safe in saying that if Valger will agree to box him again the fans will see the "French Flash" carried along at the fastest clip he has ever had to travel.

Very truly M. J. CRONIN.

ANNUAL FLOWER SHOW

The annual flower show conducted by the Middlesex Women's club under the supervision of the educational committee, held yesterday afternoon in Middlesex hall was a riotous exhibit of floral beauty. VALGER AND LEWIS TO MEET HERE THURSDAY

The matchmaker of the Crescent A.A. today completed his card for next Thursday night and it looks like one of the best of the season. Benny Valger, the famous French "flash," from New York, who defeated Frankie Britz at Lawrence a week ago, will tackle Gussie Lewis of Philadelphia in the main bout of twelve rounds. Lewis has two decisions over Valger and the "flash" is anxious to wipe out the defeats and establish a clear claim as the logical contender for the featherweight title. Phil Christie of South Boston and Young Crilly of Lawrence, will meet in the semi-final of eight rounds. Both these boys claim the state championship at 122 pounds, and the coming bout will establish the rightful owner of the title. Happy Conley of Lowell, who was awarded a decision over Chappie Connors of Lawrence here the other night, will meet young Gussie Lewis in one of the preliminaries and Young La Tourneau of Lowell and Young Ginsky of Lawrence will meet the other prelim. The assessments for the coming meeting will be one, two and three, and reservations are now available, and will be up until the night of the show.

Ingalls, whose twelve years of practical experience with autos of all kinds makes him a most valuable business associate. Due to energetic hustling Mr. Senter is in the position to state that he is prepared to make immediate deliveries of Chevrolet cars—an announcement which is quite unique in these days of car shortages. In his new field of endeavor Mr. Senter, or "Charlie," has the well wishes of his many friends that he will be most successful.
